RAZORBACK

*"They are not long,
The days of wine and roses."*

Sometimes feelings and sentiments are not best expressed in writing, for some impressions and experiences are so uniquely individual that words can not convey the entire scope of our emotions. Although poets are rare among us, there are few who cannot understand pictures; a photograph captures forever a memorable moment, and holds time still. As a favorite melody brings to mind the almost forgotten moments, a picture can represent and recall things as they once were. Remembering the joys, the anxieties, the loves, and the expectations of the year, let these photographs be a reminder of these days . . .

Orval E. Faubus

Governor of Arkansas

Now serving an unprecedented fifth term as the Governor of Arkansas, Orval E. Faubus is one of our best known native sons. A man of bold and unpredicted action, he is one of the most successful and controversial politicians in America.

After serving in the Army during World War II, Governor Faubus began his career of service to the state. Prior to his election as Governor, Faubus was postmaster of his hometown, Huntsville, County Clerk of Madison County, a member of the State Highway Commission, and later, administrative assistant to Governor Sid McMath.

Despite his busy schedule, Faubus takes an active interest in the University and is a capable and interested backer of higher education.

Introducing President Kennedy at the Greer's Ferry Dam dedication in October, Governor Faubus stands behind the Presidential seal.

President and Mrs. Mullins greet guest at the Presidential Reception, an annual event held to honor new members of the faculty.

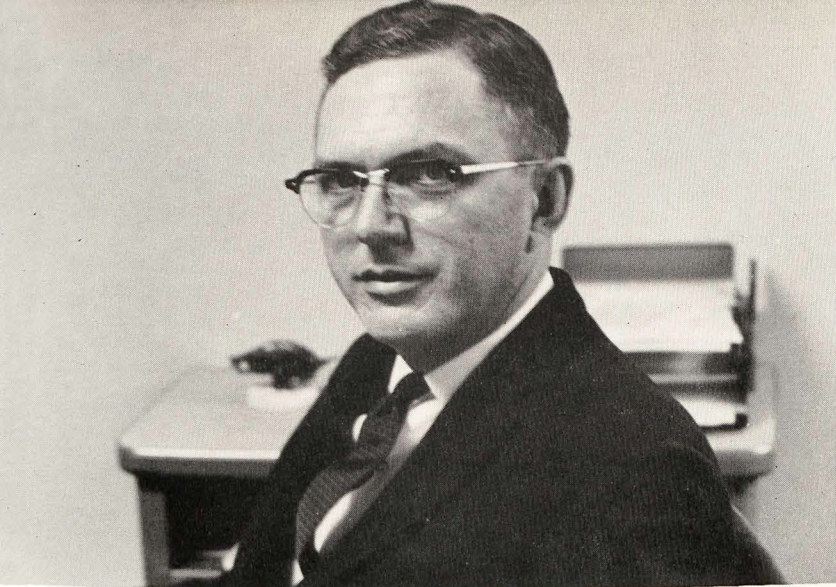

University President

Dr. David W. Mullins, Arkansas-born and educated, has headed the administration since March, 1960. Under his wise judgement and leadership, the University has shown continuous growth and improvement.

Born in Ash Flat, Arkansas, Dr. Mullins was one of a family of nine. Upon graduation with honors from the University in 1931, Dr. Mullins earned his Master of Arts degree at Colorado; and in 1941 he obtained his Ph.D. at Columbia University with emphasis on education administration and finance.

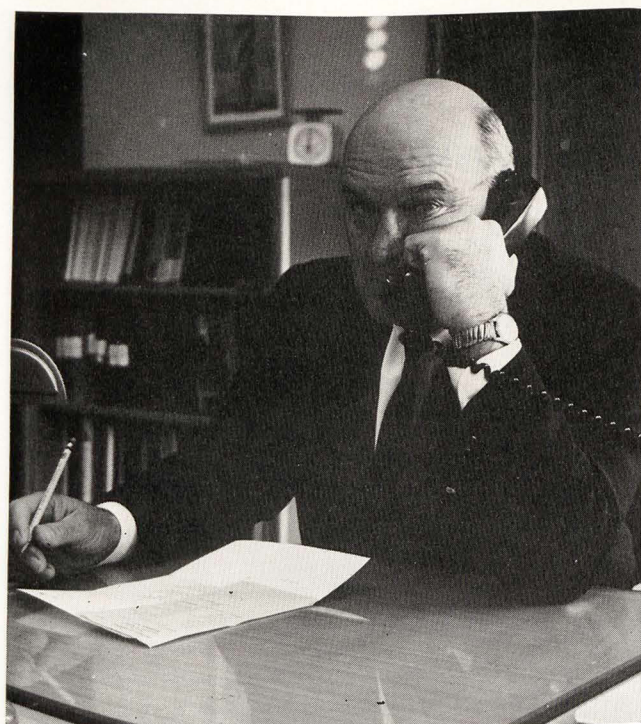

Dr. Mullins embarked upon his distinguished teaching and administrative career in 1941 as an Associate Professor of School Administration at Auburn University. His career was temporarily interrupted by World War II, when he served in the U.S. Navy. In 1949 Dr. Mullins was appointed as Auburn's Executive Vice-President, a position he held until his acceptance of the presidency at the University of Arkansas.

College of Arts and Sciences

The College of Arts and Sciences is the largest on the University of Arkansas campus. The "mother college" is under the able guidance of Dean Guerdon D. Nichols and his assistant Dean Robert Fairchild. The college with its 24 major departments boast the largest variety of major fields in the University.

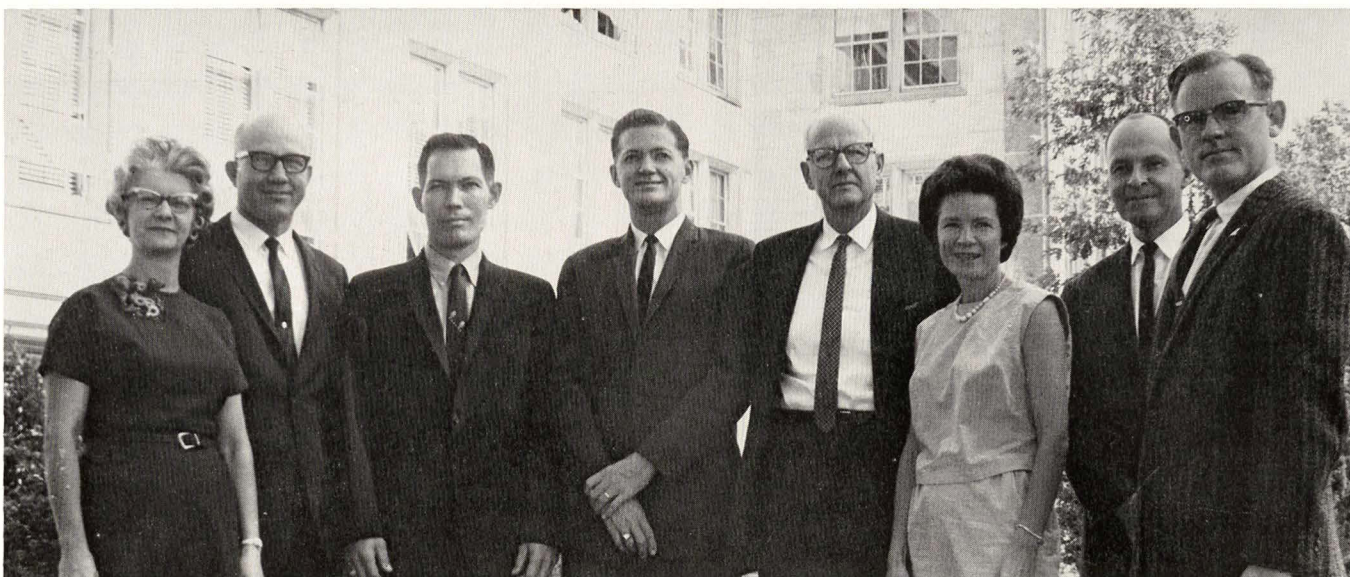

The courses of study in the College of Arts and Sciences are designed to give its students the comprehensive view of society which the modern world requires. Students who enroll in this college, or who elect some of its courses, have an opportunity to gain the broad, cultural education which is a part of intelligent living, and, at the same time, to prepare him for a profession.

The College has two major functions; first, to provide the basic, general education in the arts and sciences necessary to all persons for effective participation in the complex world in which we live; and, second, to furnish the student an opportunity to specialize in the field of his choice.

The College has an Honors Program that is designed to provide every possible opportunity to the superior student for achieving a level of maturity and accomplishment which would not normally be possible. From his freshman to his senior year the superior student has the opportunity to study with other students in small honors section courses. In the honors section, students go further into subject matter than in the ordinary classes; hence, the students who successfully complete this program are awarded honors at graduation.

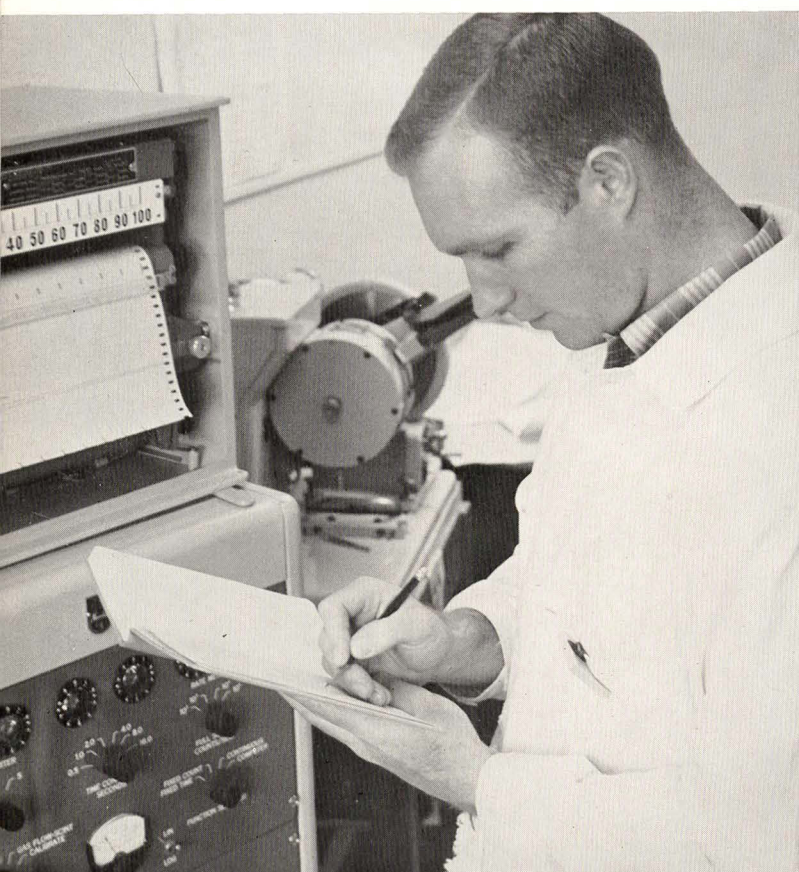

Meribeth Prewitt concentrates as she mixes chemicals in a chemistry lab. Basic chemistry is a required course for many freshmen.

College of Agriculture and Home Economics

With its emphasis on statewide research and experimentation, the College of Agriculture has helped improve Arkansas farming methods.

The University of Arkansas's College of Agriculture and Home Economics, with increasing emphasis on research and experimentation, conducts projects designed to aid in the scientific advancement of Arkansas farming methods. Its efforts are concentrated on the eleven university farms located in Arkansas. The Fayetteville areas has its own thriving research farm.

The objectives of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics are to improve agriculture and family living in the state, to stimulate students in their own development, to create an attitude of inquiry, and to develop leadership. The resident instruction of the college helps fulfill this objective by training young men and women in scientific and technical agriculture and and home development.

The curriculum included basic training in the physical, biological, and social sciences, the humanities, and communication, as well as in technical agriculture and home economics. Such training is important, not only to agricultural production and homemaking, but to related industries and to education work in these fields.

A nutritional research program is in the developmental stage in the Home Economics Department; and portions of the basement house analytical laboratory, animal feeding rooms, offices, and an instrument room.

Agri Students Association is an all-college organization of students and staff members in the College. When students enroll, they automatically become members. It is the governing body of the College, and it climaxes its program of work each year by sponsoring Agri Day.

Dr. Gerald T. Hudson is serving his fifth year as Dean of the College.

College of Business Administration

The College of Business Administration has aided the industrial and economic growth of Arkansas through its research program, the Industrial Research and Extension Center at Little Rock.

The purpose of the College is to educate young men and women for positions of leadership and responsibility in private business, government service, and non-business organization. Part of this educational preparation must be professional. In recognition of the need of formal schooling in business and economics, it provides specialized courses in several fields of business, including accounting, finance, taxation, management, marketing, transportation, labor, insurance, business law, statistics, economics and business education.

The Business Administration Building contains numerous classrooms and offices, an auditorium, a working library, general workrooms for students, and modern, well-equipped laboratories for accounting, statistics, and typing. The College receives approximately 130 periodicals and business services, including most of the important financial, economic, and business publications.

The College has been a member of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business since 1931. This organization exists to promote the highest standards of business education.

Since changing to a four-year school in 1937 — before that it was a two-year division of Arts and Sciences — the business school has grown steadily.

Dean Paul W. Milam, a native of Arkansas, has served as Dean of Business Administration since 1944. Dr. M. G. Bridenstine directs a long-range research program, the Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

Seminars and informal discussions are especially successful teaching methods, for student interest and participation is increased.

College of Education

Students in the University School receive excellent help and advice from practice teachers who learn along with their young students.

The College of Education correlates and unites the forces of the University of Arkansas making contributions toward preparing students for professional service in the fields of teaching, counseling, and school administration. Education is improved by providing consultation services, by engaging in educational research, by encouraging young persons to enter the teaching profession, and by placing the College graduates.

Courses are planned both for persons who are preparing to teach and for in-service teachers. Curricula are presented on the assumption that teachers first should have a broad, general education; second, that they should be masters of the individual subjects that they teach; and, third, that they should supplement their previous education by taking professional courses to gain a knowledge of the learning process, skill in teaching techniques, and actual practice in teaching under experienced supervisors.

The curriculum in either elementary or secondary schools is so planned that its successful completion by the student automatically fulfills the requirements of the State Board of Education.

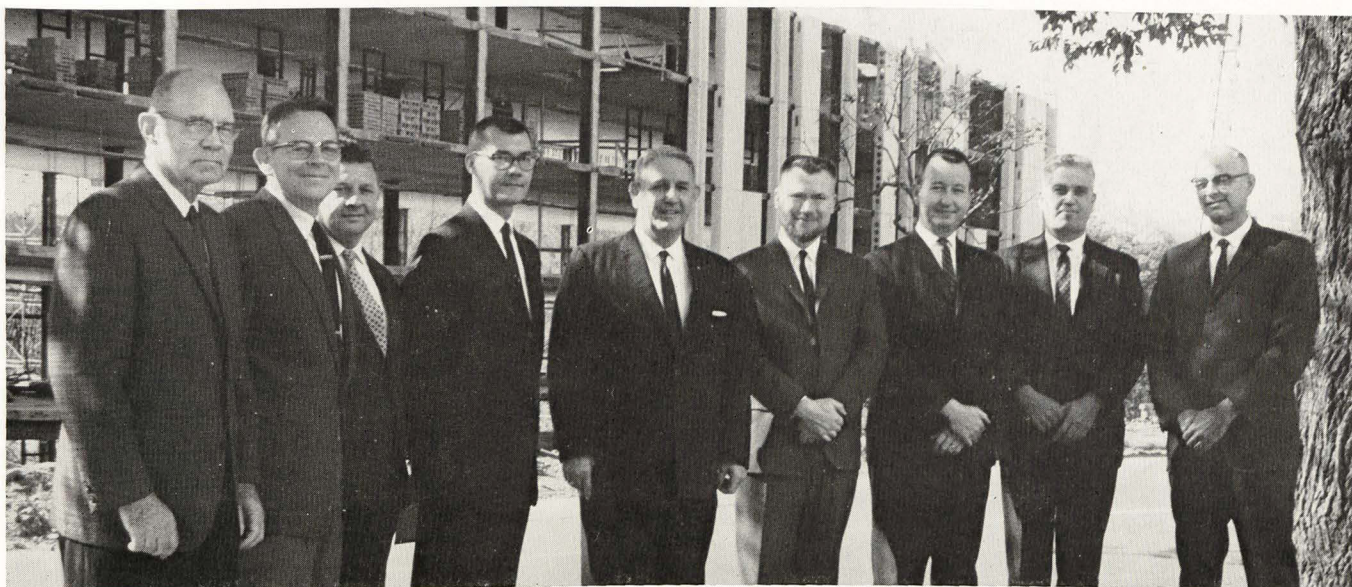

The Teacher Education program at the University of Arkansas is professionally accredited by the National Council of Teacher Education for the preparation of elementary school teachers, secondary school teachers, and school service personnel, with recognition including the Doctor's Degree.

SNEA, the national professional association for college and university students preparing to teach, is one of the most active organizations in the field of education.

The College of Education was founded in 1916, and is functioning under the supervision of Dr. Henry H. Kronenberg.

Denys O. Akhurst, Thomas Jefferson, Philip E. Bocquet, Loren R. Heiple.

College of Engineering

The College of Engineering is the University's fastest growing college.

The principal aim of the college is to train students in the basic and specialized concepts of engineering sciences. Graduates must have scholastic training in fields other than engineering in order to gain and hold stature in their profession. A second aim is to prepare its students to meet the engineering profession's demand for persons of high moral and ethical standards who are outstanding in leadership and citizenship.

The college offers a four-year undergraduate program leading to the B.S. degree in the various curricula, and in cooperation with the graduate School, a program leading to an M.S. degree in the various departments of the College. A program of advanced study leading to the Doctor of Philosophy degree was established in 1958. A broad, general education is provided, with special emphasis on the physical sciences and their application to the needs of modern civilization.

Interviewers from industrial concerns and government agencies are invited to the campus to talk with advanced students about employment opportunities. In addition, the College of Engineering of the U of A has entered into a cooperative program with Ouachita Baptist College, the College of the Ozarks, and Harding College to provide for a five-year combined course of study.

Dean George Branigan is active in engineering educational circles, and Dr. John Imhoff is national vice-president of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers.

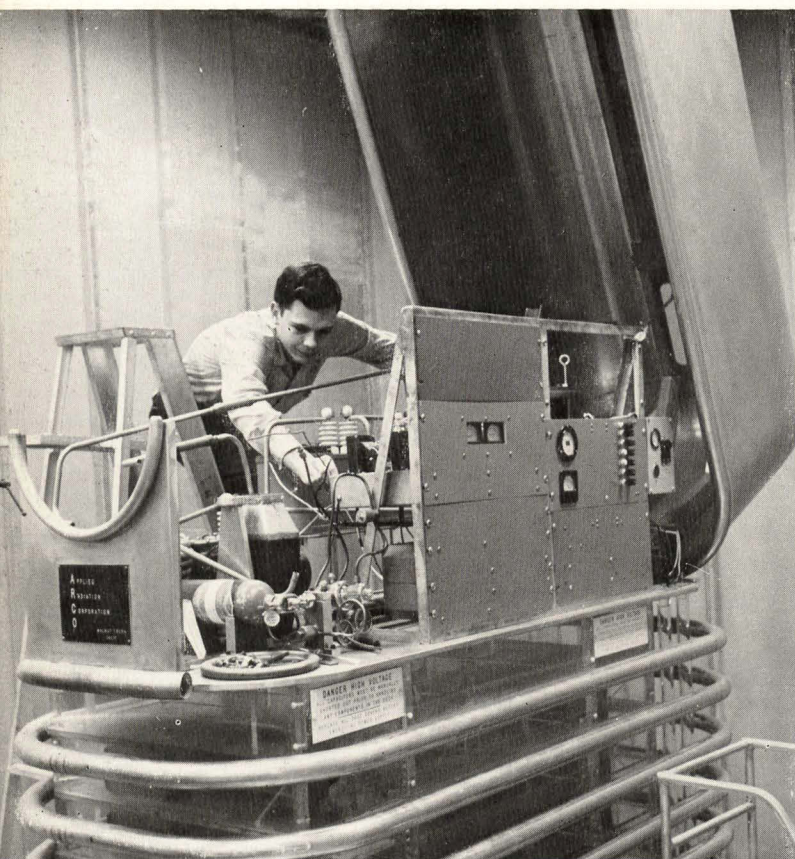

Two students in the College of Engineering practice their ability at graphic drawing, an important element in the college's program.

Graduate School

Used for atomic research, the accelerator is located beneath the Chemistry Building. Here Don Bogard makes delicate adjustments.

The Graduate students are among the most admired and respected students on the University of Arkansas campus. These are students who after graduation further their education under the auspices of the University Graduate School. They can appropriately be called the backbone of college academic life. Degrees are offered to them in nearly fifty different fields. The principal objective of the school is the advancement and dissemination of knowledge.

To be admitted to candidacy for a degree, a student must have been unconditionally admitted to graduate standing and must have been approved by the major professor and Dean of the Graduate School of his particular major.

At the time of admission to the Graduate School the student, on the advice of the Dean, is assigned to a major professor who becomes his advisor throughout the course. The choice of a major professor is largely determined by the student's choice of a major subject. The program of study may consist of courses chosen from one department, or it may include such cognate courses from other departments as may in individual instances seem to offer greatest immediate and permanent values. As a general principle, two-thirds of the courses come from the major field.

In 1927 the Graduate School was established. Prior to that date graduate work in the university was under the supervision of a Graduate Committee. In 1948 the University established a Graduate Center in Little Rock.

Thirteen Doctoral fellowships were approved for 1960-1961 under the National Defense Education grants.

Dean Virgil W. Adkisson is in charge of the Graduate School.

School of Law

The School of Law is housed in Waterman Hall, one of the most attractive and efficient law building in America. The School follows the standards of legal education prescribed by the American Bar Association, and since 1926 has been on that Association's list of approved law schools of America. The School offers a three-year law course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Law.

The primary objective of the School is providing a thorough preparation for the practice of law and preparing the student either to practice in common law jurisdiction or to seek employment by government of private business.

The curriculum of the School is designed to give the student an understanding of the law in its relationship to other agencies of social control and to enable him to develop a sense of ethical values in respect to the law and the profession.

Moot courts attract interest. A practice court for three-year students is conducted so that experience may be obtained in the trial of jury cases. The various stages of a trial are demonstrated, with students participating under the guidance of an instructor. This work is under faculty supervision and is intended to give the student an introduction to actual trial work.

Dean Ralph Clayton Barnhart directs the School of Law.

University Medical Center

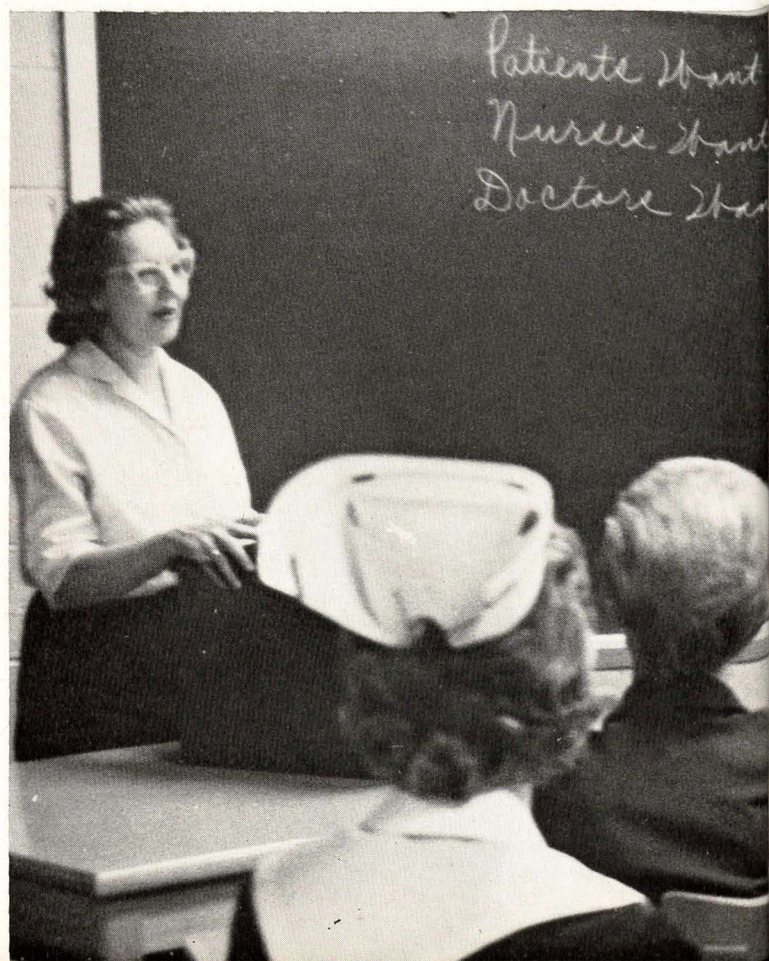

The University Medical Center at Little Rock is regarded as one of the most modern in the nation. It represents one of the outstanding features of the University of Arkansas. Here the latest equipment is utilized in serving both medical students and patients. Dedicated in 1957, the Medical Center was constructed at a cost of more than fourteen million dollars.

In 1961 the T. H. Barton Institute for Medical Research was completed and occupied. One of the finest medical research facilities in America, the Institute should prove to be a factor in attracting and holding qualified teachers and research personnel.

Students receive not only detailed classroom instruction in their prospective fields but also a great deal of experience in the application of this knowledge because many people come to the Center for medical attention.

The University of Arkansas School of Pharmacy and Nursing are housed in the Educational Building at the Medical Center, together with the School of Medicine.

The School of Medicine is affiliated with the Veterans Administration Hospital in Little Rock and North Little Rock under the nationwide Dean's Committee program. Some beds in these hospitals are utilized for teaching purposes, in addition to those activated in the University Hospital.

The University of Arkansas Medical Center is one of the showplaces of Little Rock.

Pharmacy

Pharmacy is essentially that field of the health sciences which functions chiefly in supplying, assembling and preparing the medicinals used for prevention, curing, and controlling of diseases.

The University of Arkansas School of Nursing was established to help meet the pressing demand for larger numbers of skilled nurses and to make available to young people of Arkansas the best possible educational preparation for the profession of nursing.

After serving as Acting President, Mr. Storm Whaley assumed the position of Vice-President for Health Sciences. Dr. Winston K. Shorey is the University's Dean of Medicine; and the School of Pharmacy is directed by Dean Stanley G. Mittelstaedt. The School of Nursing is under the direction of Dean Frances Russell.

Division of Student Affairs

Under the supervision of the Dean of Students, this office of the University is composed of the Dean of Students, the Dean of Women, the Dean of Men, and the Coordinator of Student Aid.

The main function of the personnel is to coordinate the activities of the students with the activities of the University as a whole. They also keep track of the status and progress of the students and relaying the information to the students' parents and other interested persons. The division supervises the Student Counseling Service, Infirmary, Food Services, Student Union, Book Store, Placement Office, Financial Aid, and Part-Time Employment Services. Along with these duties they work with all student organizations in terms of student welfare, morale, and discipline. Student government in its many phases works directly with the Division of Student Affairs.

Dr. D. Whitney Halladay, Dean of Students, graduated from Pomona College and received his Ed. D. degree from Columbia University. He participates actively in Fayetteville as an Army Reserve Lt. Colonel.

Directly assisting Dean Halladay is Miss Jacqueline Sterner, Dean of Women. Dean Sterner directs and coordinates all phases of the co-ed campus activity. She is a native of Indiana and received her B.A. and M.S. degrees from Indiana University. Earlier this year she received her doctorate from Ohio State University. She came to the University from Texas Tech where she served as Assistant Dean of Women. Dr. Sterner has Assisting Dr. Sterner is Dean Grace Vineyard, Assistant Dean of Women. Dean Vineyard works with all phases of the program, but concentrates mainly on freshmen. Robert L. Jones, Dean of Men, is concerned directly with the residence hall and student counseling programs. He is also the coordinator of religious affairs. Dean Jones graduated from Arkansas Polytechnic College in Russellville. He received his M. Ed. degree from the University of Arkansas. Frank C. Michel, Assistant Dean of Men, is concerned directly with fraternities and international students. He received his degree from Washington State University.

Members of the Graduate Institute of Technology faculty meet frequently to discuss the progress of the growing Institute.

Graduate Institute of Technology

Complicated instruments in the laboratories of G.I.T. challenge graduate students doing advanced science and engineering research.

Well equipped laboratories are available at the Graduate Institute of Technology in Little Rock. These facilities are being constantly increased and are used for contract research and for projects arising from the individual interests of the Institute's faculty.

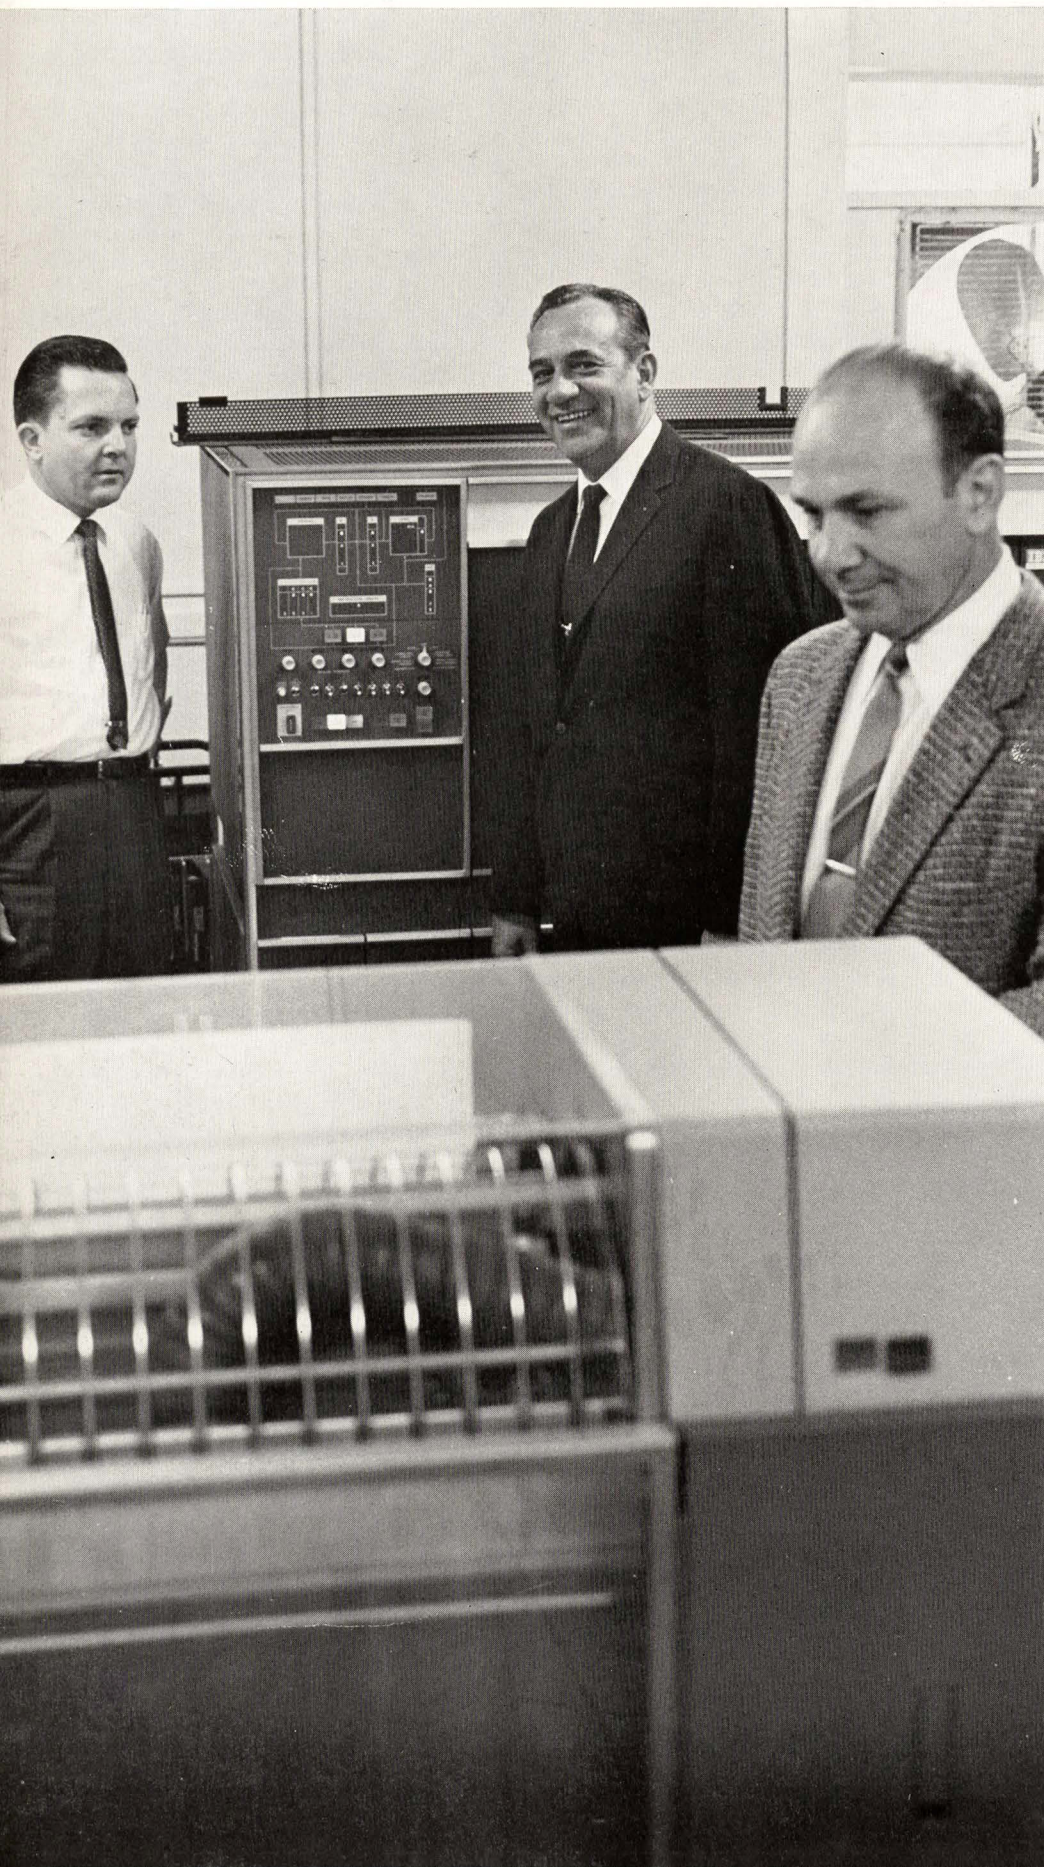

The overall objectives of the Graduate Institute of Technology are, first, to provide an opportunity for graduates in science and engineering, including those currently employed, to continue their studies to be able to qualify for advanced degrees in the fields of science and technology, and, second, to engage in advanced research so as to expand the field of scientific knowledge.

During employment as well as on full time, facilities for studies after graduation have become of growing importance to the State of Arkansas. Such facilities must be of high quality and in useful fields. They also must be readily accessible to the industrial centers in which most technicians are employed. The availability of such facilities is seriously considered by many major industrial concerns in selecting new plant location.

The Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, recognizing these facts, recommended to the Trustees of the University of Arkansas and to the Arkansas State Legislature that facilities for graduate study and research be created, and located in Little Rock, so as to be readily available to the major industrial centers of the State.

A graduate from the University of Arkansas or from an accredited school requiring substantially the same under-graduate program as is required by the University, may be admitted to full graduate standing if his grades are well above the average required for the Bachelor's degree.

Nothing would stand in the way of Tartuffe's, (Jerry Roberts) attempts to marry Mariane. It even became necessary for him to try to seduce her mother Elmire, (Sharon Silcott), who saved the Moliere comedy by being a "well-stacked but faithful wife."

There is an excellent array of characters in Bertolt Brecht's play "The Three Penny Opera"; these include beggars, thieves and prostitutes. In this scene Tiger Brown (Glen Jones), and Macheath (Jim Braden), glorify each other before cast members.

Uarkettes who toured in Europe were: Martha McGrew, Barbara Mullins, Ray Boudreaux, David Crain, Shirley Thomas, Andrea McCurry, Nancy Rainey, Rhonda Oglesby, Judy Safely, Nancy

Wallace, Theda Doyle, Richard Black, Gene Gray, and Carolyn Hundley. Kenneth Ballinger was director of the group.

Uarkettes . . . university opera workshop

Fourteen members of the University Opera Workshop toured American bases in several European countries this past winter giving programs under the National Music Council and USO programs.

The group traveled under the name of "the Uarkettes." They were directed by Kenneth Ballinger of the University of Arkansas music staff.

This was the first University group to tour Europe under government sponsorship and the second U of A singing group to make such a trip in recent years.

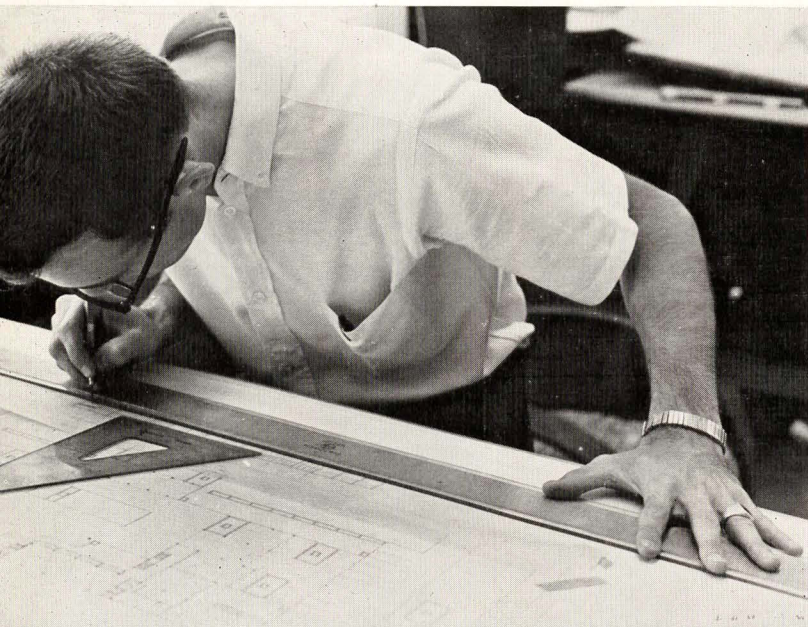

The Uarkettes performed on tour from January 24 to March 15, after arriving in Frankfurt, Germany from New York City. They presented a variety program which consisted of the operetta, "Archie and Mehitabel", along with various other song and dance numbers by members of the troupe.

The Uarkettes featured number was the operetta, "Archie and Mehitabel." This performance was appreciated by U.S. servicemen.

Department of Architecture

Architectural students spend a large part of their spare time over drawing boards; most regret Fine Arts Center's "early" closing hour.

The University of Arkansas Department of Architecture is one of the most well-known in the country. It is rapidly taking its place as an outstanding department among colleges throughout the United States. Edward D. Stone, famous American architect and one time student of the University, praised the Department of Architecture in his book, Evolution of Architecture.

Each year the University of Arkansas student chapter of the American Institute of Architects sponsors an inspection trip to a major city in the United States to study the methods and styles of architecture in that area of the country. The group went to Chicago in 1963 and planned a trip to San Francisco in 1964. These trips allow the student to experience the work of members of his future profession as it is related to its actual locality.

Keith McPheeters and a student discuss aspects of a design problem.

The Department of Architecture is a very active one and has achieved high standards in its field. There is an annual inspection by the AIA which rates the department. By this inspection the standing of the department is maintained at its high level. This level of achievement has contributed to the rising importance of architecture as a profession and accepted business in the State of Arkansas.

The department has sponsored different projects and speakers during the year. One such speaker was Bruce Goff, a well-known Oklahoma architect, who lectured on his experiences. There are often exhibits in the Fine Arts Center Gallery sponsored by the department. These exhibitions vary from student showings to the work of members of the architectural profession throughout the state.

Instruction is not limited to the classroom. Design classes make inspection trips to area buildings such as this new student center.

Art Department

The Art Department is one of the outstanding departments in the College of Arts and Sciences. It has set a high goal of standards for other art departments in the state.

The department plays a major part in the cultural life of the University and the Fayetteville community. The faculty and students have participated in various art exhibitions and programs such as The Student Art Exhibit and the Southwestern Art Show. Several art students have displayed their paintings in some of the well-known state art centers in Little Rock, Pine Bluff and Fort Smith.

The Arkansas Arts Center Artmobile's visit to the campus was one of the highlights of the year. The artmobile was showing a display of 17th century Dutch originals.

The Art Department offers a wide variety of activities with courses in sculpture, painting, commercial art, graphic arts, art education, and the history of art. The department has for many years had an influence on the methods and styles of its students as well as those at other art centers.

Instructors of Introduction to Art have the advantage of sending students outside to draw. The instructors are then free for coffee and their students, not to be outdone, are free for the afternoon.

Bill Hancock, senior art major, works late in the painting studio.

Students enrolled in the Art Department's sculpture courses create not only apartment monuments but satisfaction in their work.

A student accompanist aids director with University Chorus scores.

Music Department

The University of Arkansas Department of Music is a member of the National Association of Schools of Music. The Department offers music majors and other students interested in music an opportunity to participate in groups such as the University-Fayetteville Symphony, University Chorus, the Opera Workshop, Collegiate Singers, and Schola Cantorum.

The Music Department takes an active part in bringing many outstanding performers to the Fayetteville campus. This is achieved through work in the Fine Arts Concert Series, which the department sponsors, and help with the Community Concert Series.

There is a complete course of study open to those who choose their major in music. The department offers three degrees in music on the level of "Bachelor." These are: Bachelor of Music, Bachelor of Science in Education with a major in music, and Bachelor of Arts with a major in Music.

The groups of children often seen going from Peabody School to the Fine Arts Center are, like Paul Kuroda, members of a small symphony.

Dr. Marx Pales, professor of music and director of the University-Fayetteville Symphony, skillfully leads the orchestra in one of the many programs held on the Fayetteville campus each year. The orchestra holds its concerts in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall.

University - Fayetteville Symphony

Fifteen years of experience and dedication to their work have made the symphony orchestra a well-known musical group in the Fayetteville area. It is composed of students at the University and people of the community. The concert programs presented three times a year include works by many of the world's greatest composers.

The orchestra usually tours various cities in Arkansas and gives programs for public schools and the general public.

First semester Dr. Roger Widder replaced Dr. Marx Pales, who was studying in Europe, as director of the symphony.

Members of the University-Fayetteville Symphony take part in outside activities such as this small groups performance for "The Three Penny Opera."

Performing in the Fine Arts Concert Hall, the Collegiate Singers offer one of their outstanding concerts to musically minded patrons.

University Chorus and Collegiate Singers

The University Chorus and Collegiate Singers are the two largest singing groups on campus. University Chorus is open to most University students, but Collegiate Singers is a more select group and requires more musical training to become a member. This year the University Chorus was directed by Charles Dawson and Douglas Morris and the Collegiate Singers were directed by Richard Brothers.

The Christmas Concert which is given by these two groups and Schola Cantorum was presented before the Christmas holidays. The programs consisted of four numbers by University Chorus and ten numbers by the Collegiate Singers. The two groups spend the preceding semester in preparation for this concert. The spring semester is used accordingly to prepare for an annual spring concert at the end of the school year. These concerts are recorded and sold on record to help finance the International Student Organization. This organization provides scholarships for foreign students.

The choral groups give University students an opportunity to gain something of a musical education by active participation in a choral group.

Practice, practice, practice — this is the "diet of University Chorus. Some members wonder who got them into the choral group.

Famed Schola Cantorum gave their annual Christmas Concert with other University choral groups shortly before the Christmas holidays.

Schola Cantorum

Arkansas has a definite reason to be proud of the Schola Cantorum, the University of Arkansas' most selective choral group. The famed U of A choir has an excellent record behind them and is constantly moving ahead in the field of musical accomplishment.

This year the Schola gave concerts around the state and started plans to return to the Guido d'Arezzo International Polyphonic Competition in Italy. It was this competition which the group won several years ago that raised them to their present level of prestige.

The Schola Cantorum, under the direction of Richard Brothers, has set a high level of standards which govern its performances. The practice sessions of the group are essential. This Schola meeting with Mr. Brothers is held in a Fine Arts Center music studio.

The "Marching Razorbacks" take the field after a Hog victory. This year the band, along with the fans, didn't perform after too many games.

One of the bands extra activities this year was its performance at the dedication of Greer's Ferry Dam and Reservoir at Heber Springs.

The "Marching Razorbacks" form before the Fine Arts Center Gallery before marching to a pep rally in the Greek Theatre.

University of Arkansas Band

The University of Arkansas Band has set an excellent standard in previous years and 1963-64 was no exception. Under the capable direction of Dr. Richard Worthington, the "Marching Razorbacks" once more completed a very successful season. They marched at home games and many out-of-town games. The pep rallies were memorable experiences due to the humor and good spirit the band displayed.

One of the highlights of the year was the band's trip to Greer's Ferry to play in greeting to the late President Kennedy when he appeared in Arkansas to dedicate the new dam.

Through its participation in University activities, the Band plays a major part in the University year.

The Arkansas Drum Majors lead the band out of the Greek Theatre after one of the Fayetteville rallies. The band contributed much to lagging spirits of Razorback fans during football season.

Trombone section stands close at a Little Rock pep rally.

A Fine Arts Concert brought the New Danish Quartet to the University of Arkansas's Campus for an outstanding string concert.

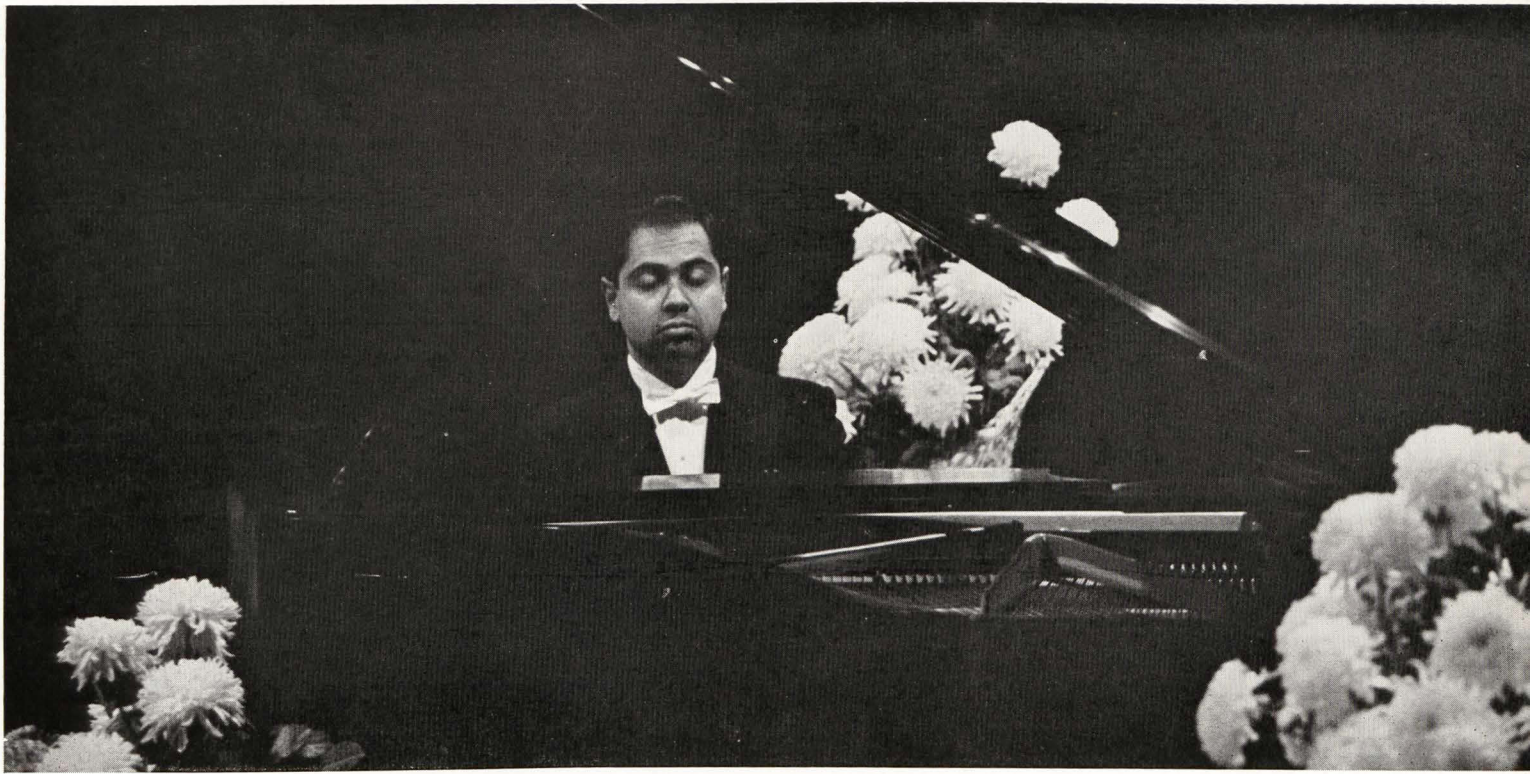

Guests

Among the less refined guests for a University concert was the second appearance of the Lettermen.

The students of the University were entertained this year by several guests performers and lecturers.

The Fine Arts Concerts Series featured such performers as the New Danish Quartet and Gary Graffman. The Distinguished Lecturers Committee arranged lectures by Dr. Louis Evans, Brooks Hays, and Dr. Russell Kirk.

Gary Graffman presents an excellent concert on the University's new Steinway piano at one of the Community Concert programs.

The largest turnout all year of Fayetteville residents and students packed the men's gym to hear Montavoni.

A thought stirring talk was given by Dr. Louis Evans.

Brooks Hays, Special Assistant to the President of the U.S., presented a lecture on the world situation and the nation's internal problems, particularly those related to national race situations.

Division Two THE YEAR

Kodachrome by Bob Nichols

With Kappa key in hand, Sue Lloyd leads the rush skit through paces. Since they own the clown costumes, Kappas probably use same skit yearly.

One of the rushee groups waits outside the Pi Phi house, waving and exchanging knowing winks with the sorority girls, who really know.

A new gimmick, old cars, was used by the Lambda Chi's to attract the attention of rushees when picking them up for the preferential parties.

Funny Clowns, Cars, Rushees

When preparations for rush week begin in late August, Fayetteville comes back to life. The chapter leaders return to plan parties and strategies; pledges return to give houses the annual face-lifting; and some return using rush as an excuse to quit work and start partying.

Rush begins with a house tour on Sunday for men. Sororities begin a series of eight parties. After Sunday, rush begins in earnest; rushees face the unprecedented challenge of selling themselves and making a decision that will have a major effort on their college life.

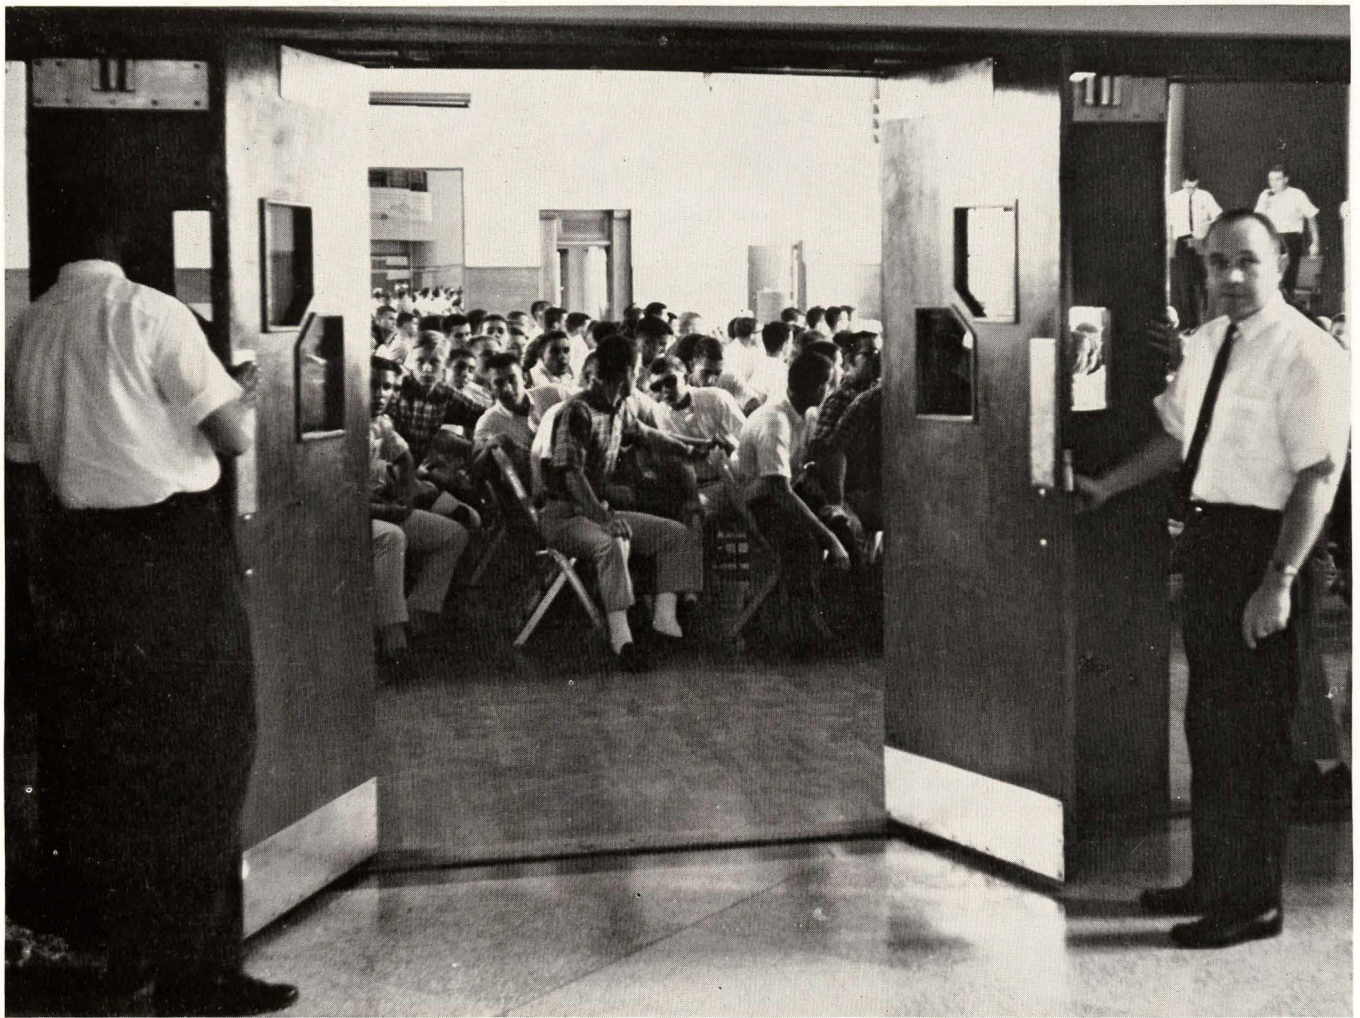

Everyone — rushees and Greeks alike — is relieved when the week is over. Saturday at 1:00 is a big moment for the Greek system.

Uniformly stacked, these Tri Delts peer out the window, singing a rush song and waving at the rushees as they walk on to next party.

Welcomed with a girlish squeak and a hug as she approaches the Zeta door, a favorite rushee is greeted exuberantly by Jane Massey.

Rush Ends -- Pledging Begins

"Katy bar the door" or "Run over Dean Jones" as the Dean helpfully holds open the door of the Student Union ballroom, where the men rushees receive the bids. The boys are eagerly anticipating permission to blast out of the Union into the waiting throng outside.

One girl hugs another girl.

One girl hugs two girls.

One girl hugs a boy.

Whole lot of hugging going on.

Watching as the first batch of new pledges jump into the arms of their new brothers, the crowd tries to figure out who pledged what. However, there were no surprises in the group that is coming out now. Alphas pledged nine little brother legacies.

Girls get so happy they cry. This phenomenon happens in great numbers when the girls get their bids and begin hugging one another. Maybe it is a release from tension of the week. The girls hold white flowers, which is undoubtedly symbolic.

Freshmen and parents inspect newly completed Yocum Hall. Although the workman had not yet finished entirely, the hall was livable.

The Long Road Begins

Part of the eagerly awaited freshman crop, Rhonda Oglesby seems to be very happy to be at the U of A.

With the University enrollment soaring over 7,300 on campus to a record high, the freshmen of 1963-64, the war babies, came to college. And college had changed over the summer.

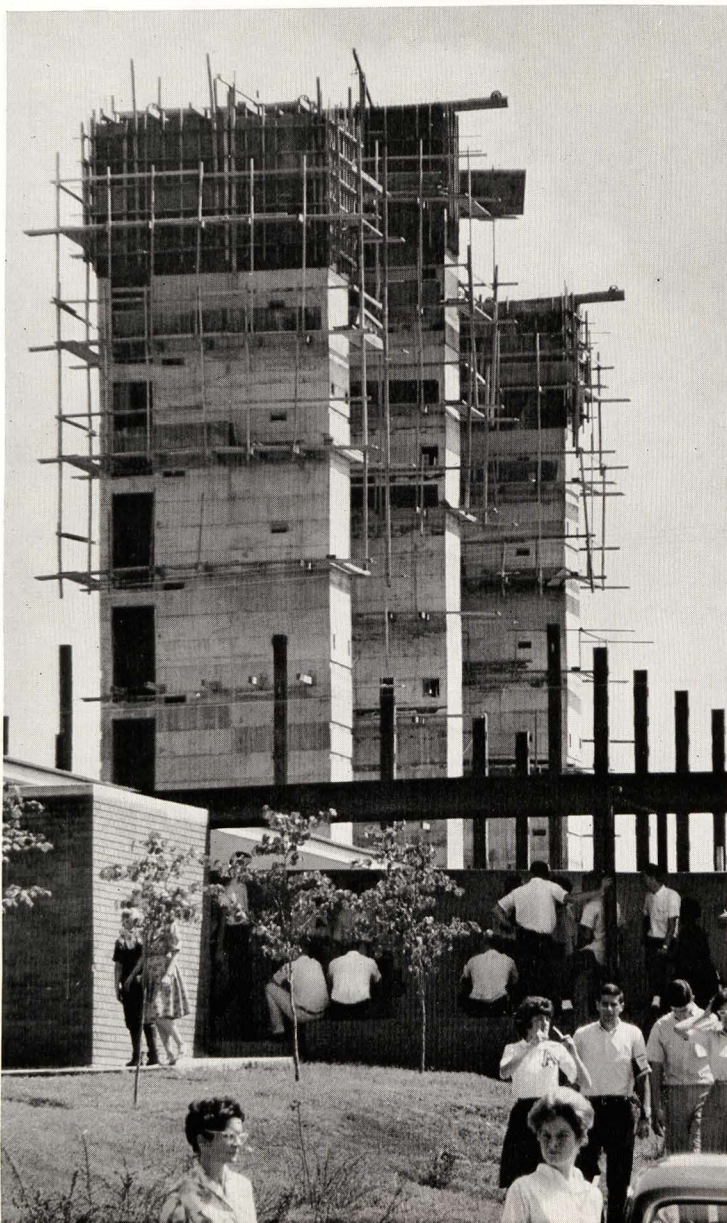

Yocum Hall, one of the twin giants housing men students, opened its doors for the first time. Razorkack Hall, previously one of the men's residences, had been converted into women's housing; the increasing number of co-eds on campus has sparked tremendous undertakings like the new dorm, Hotz Hall.

This year was the first year all unmarried freshmen men were required to live in University-provided housing—either dorms or fraternity. Freshmen women were spread from Fulbright to Holcombe Hall.

Since they try to conform, the freshmen were quickly assimilated into the campus scene. They had begun the long road to graduation.

When they volunteered to help move in the freshmen girls into Fulbright Hall, these boys did not plan on actually working.

It is frequently said that freshmen get younger every year. This year one parked his tricycle outside Yocum.

Towering in the background is beginning of Hotz Hall, a new nine story dorm for the increasing number of co-eds.

Lining the steps of the Men's Gym, students retreated from the din on the inside to fill out schedule cards and watch other students.

Who's In Charge Here?

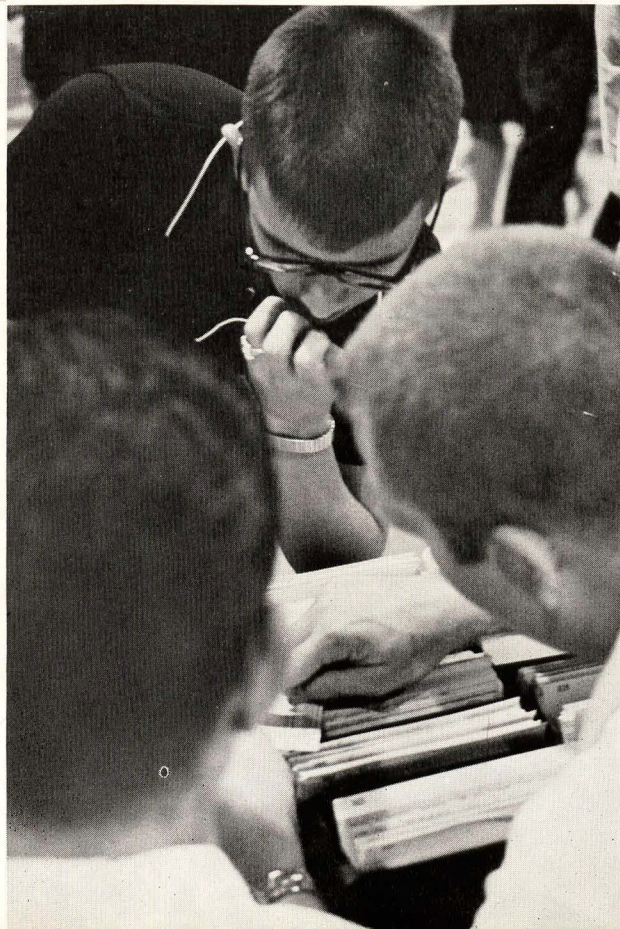

In the basement of Old Main, where the packets are distributed outside the office of the vilified IBM, a scared student bites his nails as he gets packet.

Judy Adams, serving in the Army as ROTC sponsor, is doing something besides recruiting unwary into the 7:30 class.

In a typical scene, everybody waits and watches while a worker shuffles papers and hunts for desired class card.

Registration is war—and war is hell. Therefore, registration is hell. But so are classes, tests, term papers, and any homework.

This line leads into the book store. It moves slowly, but that doesn't indicate that the book store isn't ready to welcome you.

This is the end of the line that leads into the book store. The line ended to the tune of $47.43 for th's stunned student.

This line leads into the basement of Old Main, where—barring unfortunate circumstances beyond control—students receive registration cards.

Hurry Up And Wait

Anybody that likes registration either needs a mental check-up or a gold medal. Although some fortunately skip through the process, most bog down. And for some, registration is an endurance test.

Registration is like a game of Monopoly. When you get in line for a class card, you take a "chance". The card will either say "advance to next place" or "return to start". Even seniors get lost; freshmen are dumbfounded. Advisors are either gone for coffee or confused too.

Not believing, wide-eyed Susan Brown learns that required section is closed and only one open meets on Saturdays at 7:30 in morning.

Last stop during journey through registration is Razorback desk, where confused workers make appointments for confused students.

Fair And Rockwood Revisited

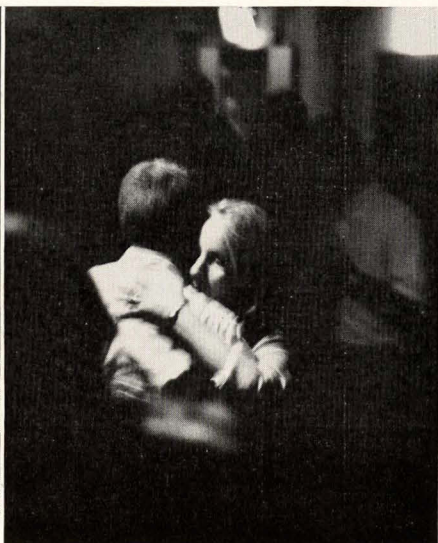

Night spots like the Rockwood Club do a booming business during the week of registration. With no classes or homework, students are free to squander September allowances in one week. This week is the college debut of freshmen girls—who "can't believe it".

Trying to talk above the roar.

Everybody dances on slow ones.

Pam shows John how to do it.

Thirsty show-off downs a beer.

Out of breath and giggling, couple emerges from the Haunted House at the Washington County Fair. The fair comes to Fayetteville every September and the carnival gets rich on the free spending college set. Beware of game with the ping pong balls.

With other tamer amusements in the background, audience takes in the teaser to the strip show. All sorts of people go to the fair; maybe it should be required for sociology. Off for the evening, a car hop from George's watches the strip show.

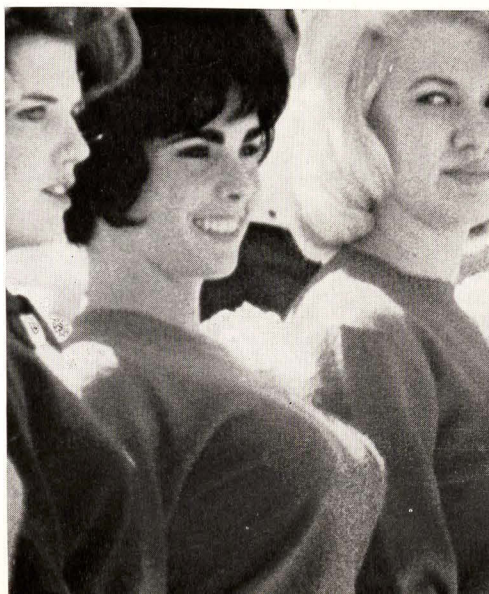

All real contenders (rhymes with pretenders), these sweet young girls cheerily sit on stage at the Air Force ROTC sponsor selection.

Seeing Is Not Believing

Carolyn Norris, wearing a big smile, is a stand-out.

Early in the fall, the ROTC departments decide that cadet morale needs a boost. The sororities, hoping for a prestige boost, boost up some girl and send her over to the Greek Theater. There, in the best military manner (chin up, chest out), she passes in review.

Although the cadets have been officially warned not to hoot, holler, and wolf whistle, they do moan, groan, grin, and gasp with delight. A few give knowing winks and occasionally nudge the fellow next to him. Then the cadets vote for the ones they want for Honorary Colonels.

It doesn't seem to matter that most of the audience is too far away to see the girls' faces. The boys are able to arrive at the decision anyway.

Suffering boys assume the "hear no evil, speak no evil, see no evil" positions of the three clean-living monkeys.

Standing and cheering as the Razorbacks score, no one is anywhere near assigned seat. Despite charts in Traveler, group seating arrangements were hopelessly confused again.

Culture and Intelligence highlighted above them, senior members of the football squad receive recognition at a Greek Theater pep rally. Choosing Legislative Weekend as the time to strike against the University, employees lined Maple Avenue with pickets declaring unfairness.

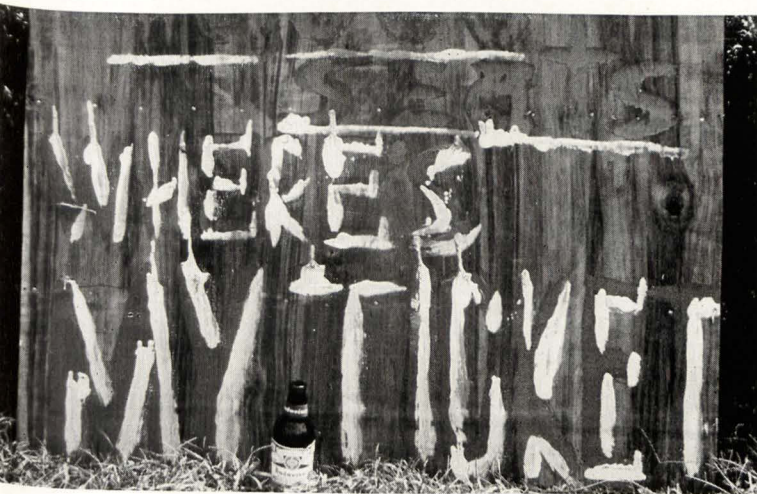

This boy happily gives a pint of blood. In exchange, the Red Cross will happily give him a glass of orange juice. He must really dig orange juice.

Some Receive Recognition

October already, many wondered what had happened to September. With classes beginning fourth week of semester, instructors were by now giving exams or getting one ready. Gone were the easier days of rush, registration, and first week of classes. School was indeed underway.

After three football games, Razorbacks were regarded untried. However, revamped seating arrangement for the games had been tried—and it had failed. To determine the group seating blocks, a “potluck” drawing was held. Neat plan failed when students sat wherever they pleased.

Hungry but energetic members stack up pledges’ bunks to even the score after wily pledges, on a walkout, bribed cooks to go home.

“Where’s my ticket?” This sign, placed in Greek Theatre by phantom beer drinker, questions the shortage of Texas game tickets.

A Little Bit of Mud

The team on the other end of the rope must really be husky gals to have pulled this tough bunch of Tri Delts into the muddy pit. The amused spectators at the Sigma Nu relays will soon scamper away, for the boisterous pledges will begin slinging everybody into pit.

"Daddy Jack" Boyd spots his prey.

Wet and dirty, Janet climbs out.

Not having a deft touch results in an egg-splattered lap for this squealing Delta Gamma, who just scrambled the "egg yag."

White-faced girls swish around in a box of flour searching for a small wooden disk. No skill is involved, just muscle.

Mud-plastered and wet, Sigma Nu's and dates load onto dump truck for a ride back to their dump after a battle to remain out of the murky pit.

Happy Girls, Cold Food, Election

This trophy is the worst looking one on campus. If it were one inch taller, it would be the biggest. It is only surpassed by the Pi Phi scholarship trophy.

Russia dickered with U. S. about wheat deal and JFK ratified nuclear test ban treaty. Meanwhile, safe from bombs but not from Snakes, Pi Phi's won Sigma Nu Relays, an annual inter-sorority meet. And for what it's worth, Young Republicans held a mock election which Barry Goldwater won (receiving 141 of 315 votes cast!).

As the semester continued, campus organizations got themselves organized with membership drives, tappings, and officer elections. Some, like AWS, were even 'revitalized.' Just what constituted this "revitalization" never became apparent on campus, for AWS did the same old stuff: Nothing. Also noteworthy, Student Union Board named eleven chairman and one adviser to head nine committees, each averaging eighteen members. The painstakingly compiled grand total was 175 students. Hell, not that many people go to the Union a day . . .

And to top it all off, the last straw: B.A. Commerce Guild held another election—this time to fill six freshmen posts.

Anything but subtle, campaign techniques for B.A. Commerce Guild posts pose a threat to unwary hall walkers, who get ganged in crowded entrances.

AWS has big turnouts for its festival since it offers a sack lunch and other women dining facilities are closed.

With no TV but with a recognized name, Hootenanny (or actually its traveling cousin) was a folk music show, but not what was expected.

Hootenanny

More or Less

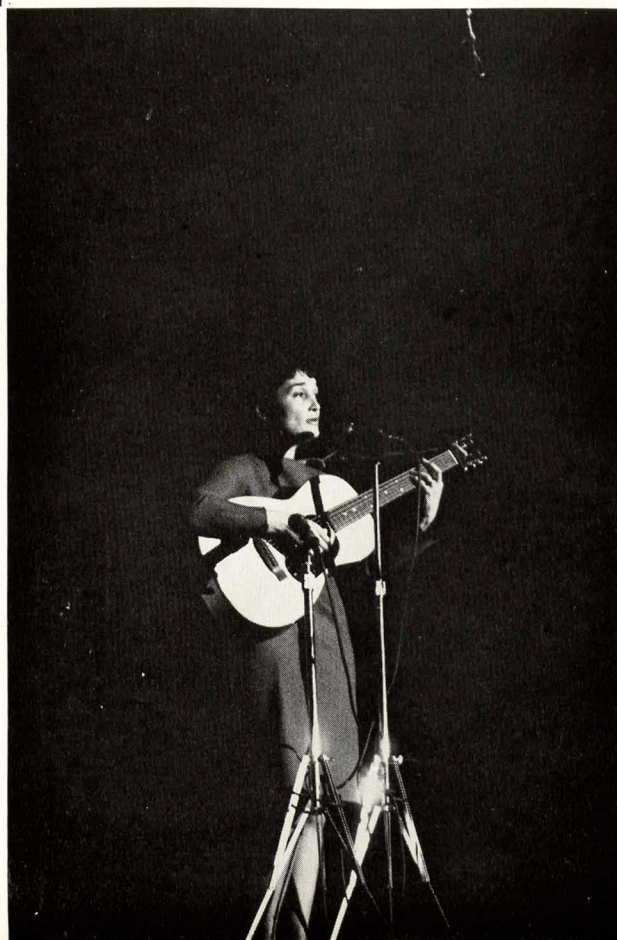

With the crowd rather noisy and beginning to mill around, folky Lynn Gold suddenly stopped singing. Naturally every one thought she was mad. However, when she explained that a fly had flown into her mouth, everybody understood and thanked the fly.

Master of ceremonies Louis Gottlieb of the Limelighters headed the three hour show sponsored by Student Union.

Either very meaningful or very phony, the name of this trio is "The Knob Lick Upper 10,000"; it sounds phony.

Many said that the Hootenanny was a pro-integration demonstration. They didn't mind that; it was the fact that it cost $1.50 to get in.

Homecoming Queen nominees and sometime girl friends of the football players grace the Student Union ballroom during pre-Homecoming activity.

With a hole in its corner and its name changed from Student Directory to the University Directory, the book was published early—for a change.

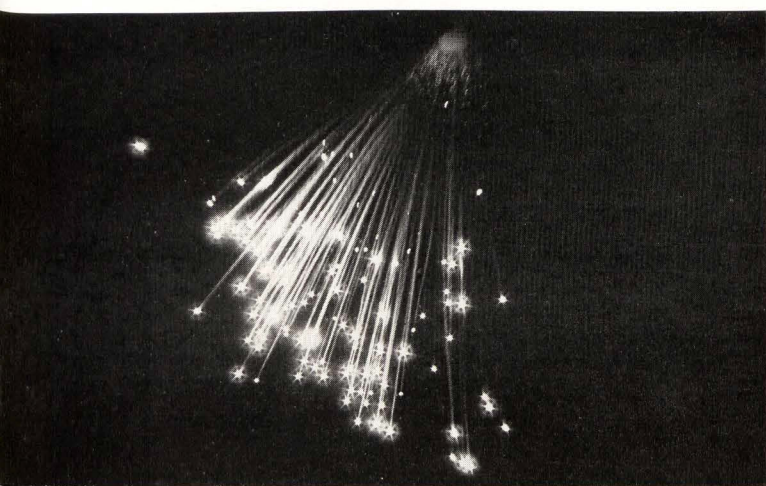

Marching Razorback Band is an important part of every pep rally and game. However, only they know the secret meaning of "BRACK".

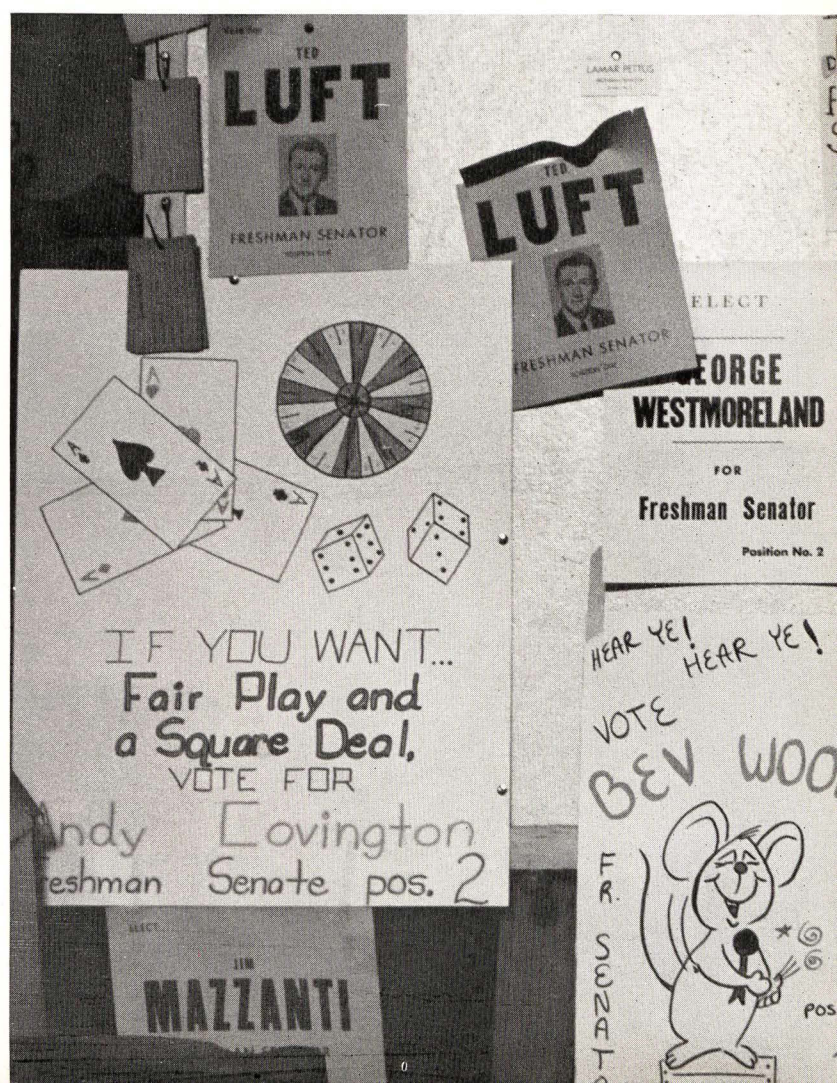

"Where's My Ticket?"

From the beginning, student dissatisfaction with the football ticket situation was evident. When ticketless students learned that the Texas game was sold out, they joined Traveler editorials, Senate resolutions, campus leader meetings, and student demonstrations to demand a remedy; however, little was accomplished. Temporary seating added an insignificant 350 extra tickets, but efforts to televise ended with an NCAA rejection. The crisis ended when Baylor surprised the Hogs 14-10 in Waco.

Freshmen senatorial aspirants cluttered every bulletin board and doorway on campus with signs, posters and other meaningless junk.

Pep rally planners hoped to uplift spirits with fireworks, but the fans wanted the fireworks to be on the playing field against Texas.

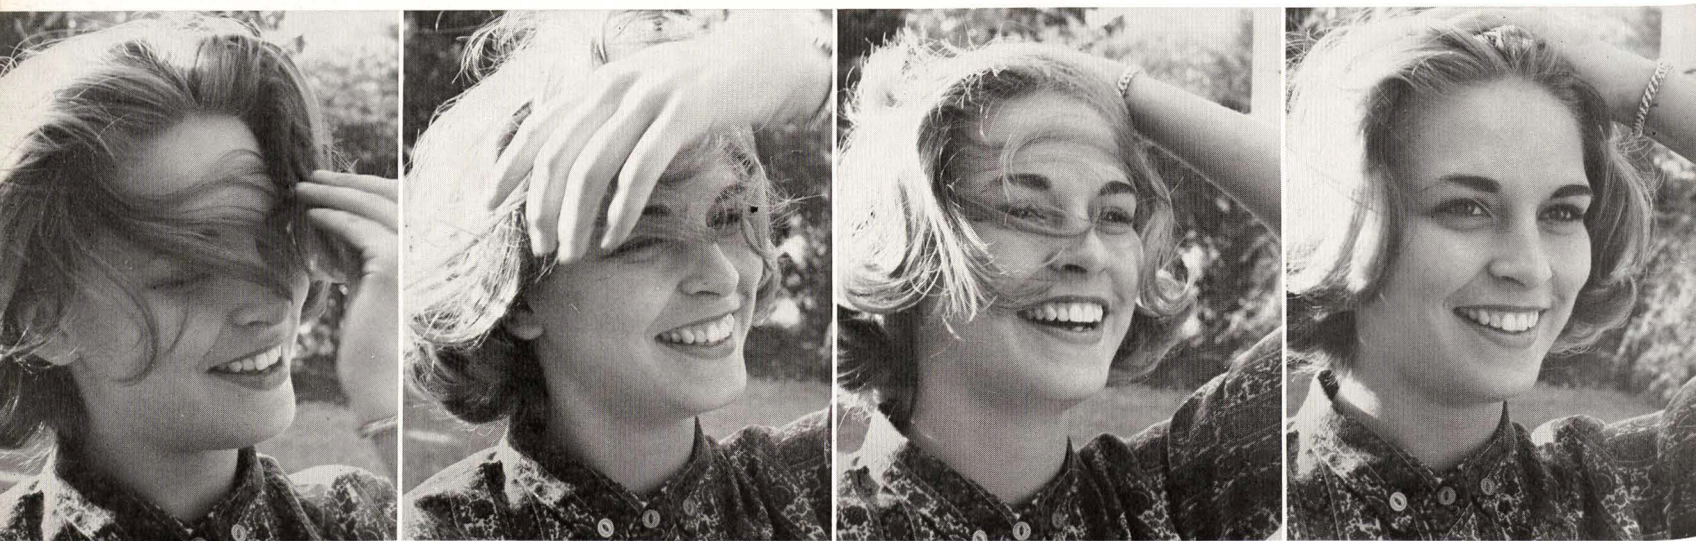

Don't Bet on the Weather

Rainy days and falling leaves forebode the winter days soon to arrive. Although the temperature generally remained warm through October, the gusty winds and chilly rains—winter characteristics of unpredictable Fayetteville weather—signal the end of another fall.

Pretty coed brushes wind-blown hair from face as the wind whistles around Old Main, which undoubtedly must be windiest spot in state.

Eager to win the intramural football league play, Alphas line the field to wave homemade signs and cheer on old Paul Berry.

Viewed through the construction work on the new Science-Engineering Building, Old Main rises high above other buildings.

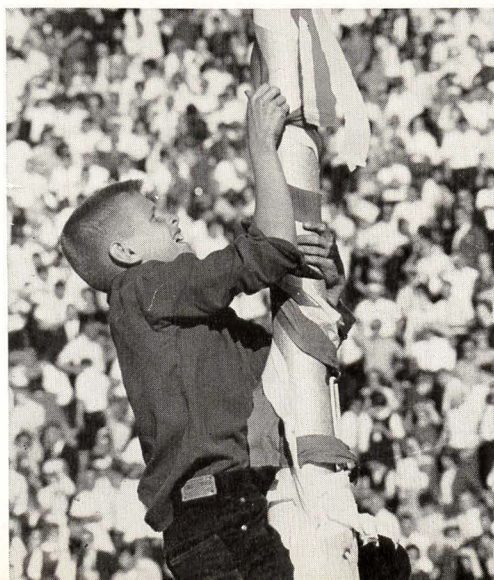

Blanketing the entire football field, massed bands entertain football fans in pre-game activity on the annual Band Day.

Two Days in One

Jubilant young Razorback booster climbs up goal post after Hogs swamped Tulsa Golden Hurricane 56-7.

Autumn events revolve around the football games. With the Razorbacks playing a Band Day game against Tulsa, many houses held parties and buffets for guests. Blue Key sponsored the first Razorback Day for high school students who came to see the campus and the football game. Other events included the dedication of Darby Hall, additional dining and living for U of A athletes.

The pep rally controversy by now had reached its peak. Disgruntled students wrote letters to the Traveler criticizing the rallies and their organizer, Sam Park. Proudful Sam, seeking the last word, answered the critics by suggesting that to really clean up the pep rallies "we . . . put long pants on the majorettes, then put skirts on the columns in the Greek Theater to cover the naked marble." As usual, Sam skirted the issue.

Proud of its cultural aspects as well as its football team, the University shows off its Uarkettes during half time activities.

Preparations began for Homecoming amid a controversy brought on when Panhellenic decided to do away with decorations and to donate savings as a "symbolic gift" for an auditorium building fund. IFC members rejected symbolism in favor of tradition.

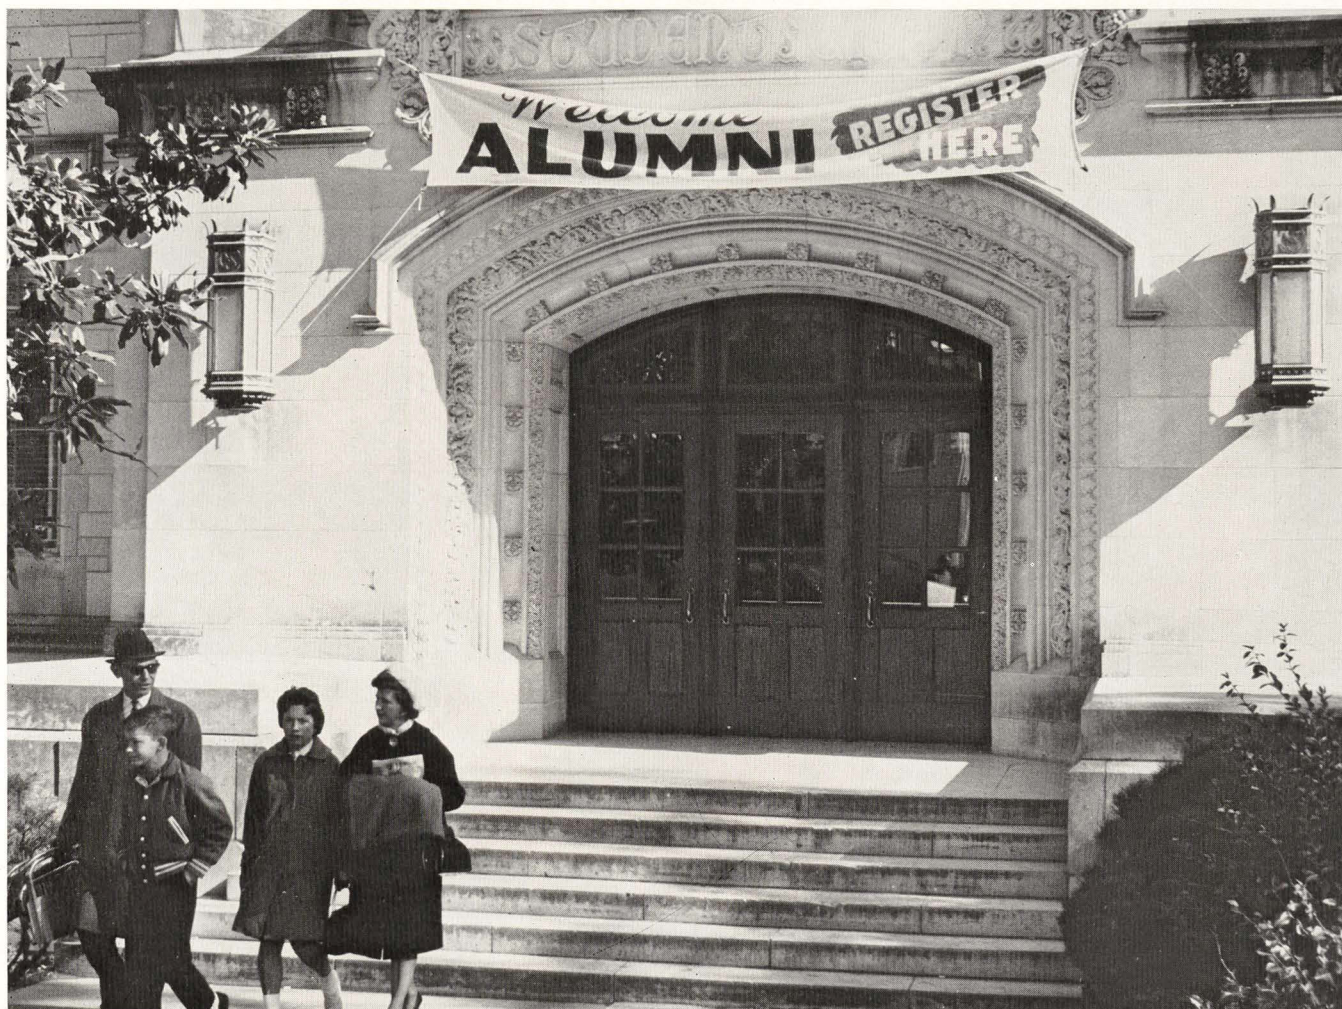

Marketing specialists like Sears, a nation-wide concern, offered interesting in-state opportunities to Arkansas business students.

Exchanging sincere expressions, interviewer and student converse intently; an estimated 600 interviews were conducted in two days.

An Unhappy Homecoming

One of the thousands of returning U of A graduates, an alumnus and his family leave the Union after registering with the Alumni Association.

For the first time in the history of the 41-year old tradition, the Homecoming football game was the last of the season.

Working outside and inside due to hampering rain, men hurried to complete decorations. The Kappa Sig revolving hog bled to death in the rain.

Groups of former students met again at the annual pre-game smorgasbord luncheon held in the Student Union.

Reactions to the Board of Trustee's decision to continue with the game were varied. The Board stated that no other alternative was feasible. A few distraught students lined Maple Avenue and held signs reprimanding game-bound football fans.

Crowning Homecoming Queen Jacque Jones, President David W. Mullins officiates in the absence of Governor Faubus, who did not attend game.

The Silent Crowds

Representative of the crowd, girl watches quietly.

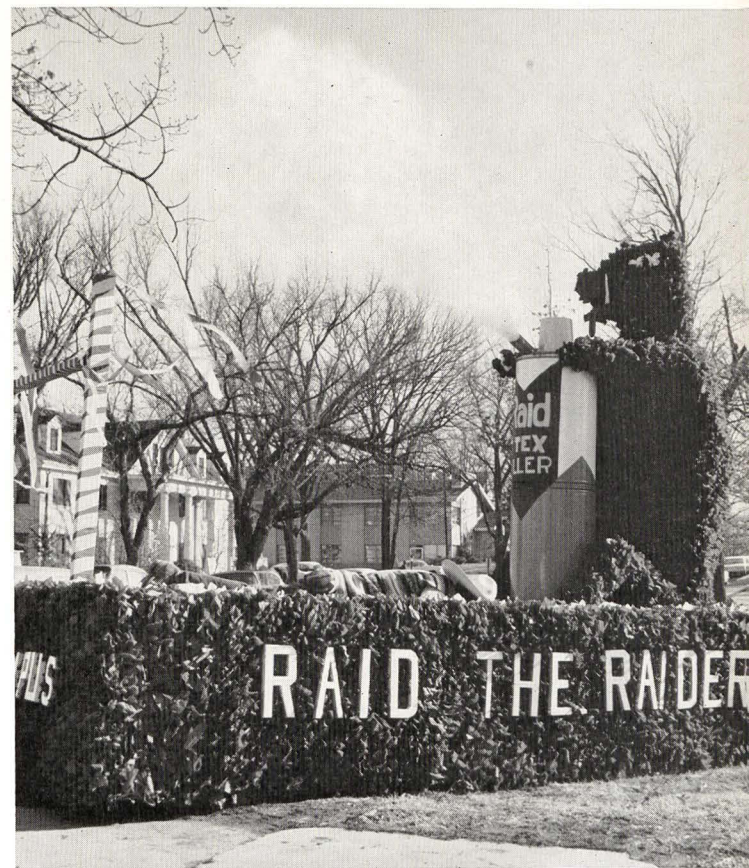

Incredible as it seemed, the Nation, the University, we, had lost our President. Stunned and grieving, everyone searched his heart and mind for a meaning to the senseless tragedy; there was no understanding to be found — only the empty feeling of despair.

With all plans for the 41st annual Homecoming concluded, the University Board of Trustees made the difficult decision to continue with the game after conferring with Texas Tech officials and determining that no other alternatives were feasible. The other usual Homecoming activities were hurriedly cancelled by student officials.

At the game the people filed quietly into the stands and set subdued, seldom saying anything. The flag flew at half-mast and the invocation by Dean D. Whitney Halladay was a prayer for the late President Kennedy and for the nation.

Somehow evading the rainfall on Thursday and Friday, the Phi Dels took first place honors in house decoration competition.

This is the Off Campus Men entry. It didn't even place. For the record, Sigma Chi came in first and SAE second.

At half-mast, the flag waves in tribute.

Razorback Beauty candidates waited in the lobby of the Mountain Inn before going upstairs to meet and attempt to impress the Letterman.

Letterman's questioning involved such things as the beauty candidates major. The answer was overwhelmingly — "elementary education."

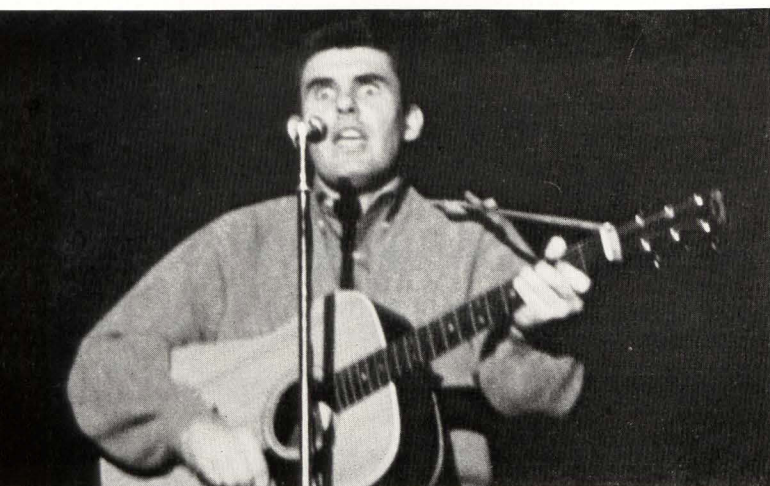

Making a return appearance at the University, Lettermen Butala, Engeman and Pike offered an appealing rehash of last year's program.

Lettermen Select Beauties--Again

Returning after Thanksgiving, students prepared for a three week endurance test before Christmas vacation. Basketball season began, and ABC urged active student support. Other momentous happenings included Christmas season planning and a ten day run of "McLintock" began at the Ozark Theater. (Thank you, Ozark.)

The Lettermen returned for another concert. Although they had selected the Razorback Beauties last year, the Lettermen judged again so that the yearbook could meet its deadlines (the next concert would be in the Spring). In the hurried confusion of the judging, seven beauties were selected instead of the usual six.

Comparing photographs and candidates, the judges continued to interview the girls until voting and rushing to the concert.

Letterman Jim Pike was the group's clown. His funny antics kept things moving during the interviews and at the concert.

Everybody Gets Into The Act

In the fall everybody has one big party—from the MIHC Casino Carnival to the Pikes' Roaring Twenties Party. The Lambda Chi's get

With the help of a community effort, Kappa Sigs hoist their annual Christmas tree into place. Tree spins sometimes; sometimes it doesn't.

Nowhere is Everywhere

Yes, this is a U of A co-ed. No, she will not be identified. Zetas don't want their phone tied up.

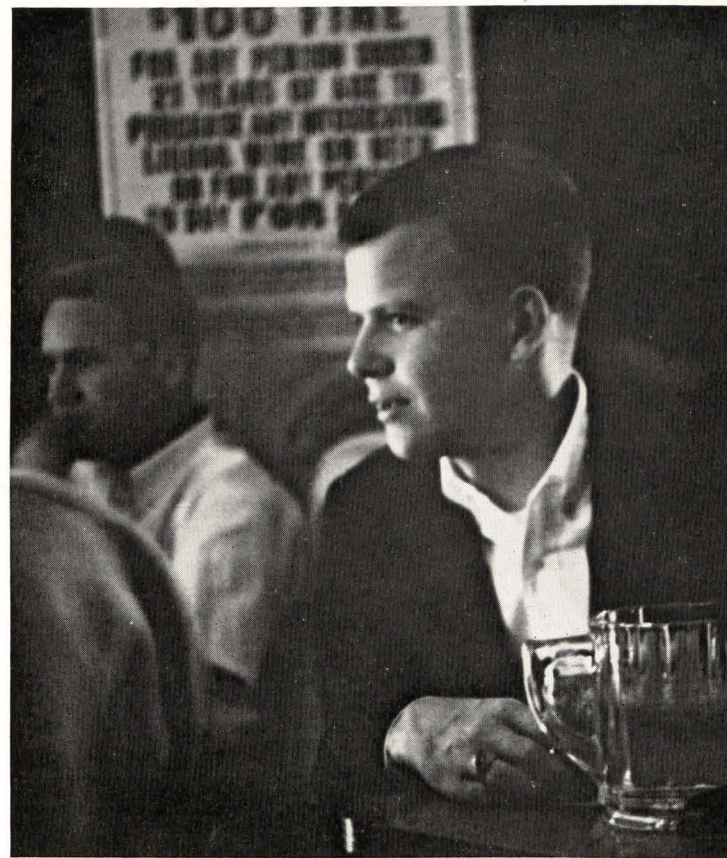

In the mixture of activities before the Christmas holidays, students do most everything. Faced with an exam in every course, they study like never before in the semester. Knowing, however, that after the holidays finals will bring constant studying, the students throw their last fling of the semester.

Christmas approached, but no one had time to notice. Outside of a few decorations and house parties, students seemed oblivious to the season. With football season over and cold weather setting in, there is no focal point of interest. Students scatter from the library to nowhere (which is everywhere in Fayetteville).

There was no enthusiastic planning for a trip to New Orleans this year. For the first time in four years, the Razorbacks were not going to a bowl.

Poker games and other such pastimes form a big part of the college career for some. Old friends Winston and Ancient Age are always welcome.

Another pastime, always available at the Huddle Club, is a cold beer. Sign discourages many, but not all.

To pay for all such entertainment, there is a Palace cashed check. Fayetteville is not always so exciting.

In the very heart of winter, education scores at last on the social Arkansas campus. Now, everything yields for a push toward finals.

Proudly waving, the Uarkettes took off to entertain servicemen abroad and give U of A prestige a boost.

The End of the Line

As usual, students returned from Christmas vacations full of New Year's resolutions, home cooking, and unfinished homework that wasn't done over the holidays. Finals began and most went into study trances. Freshmen, though warned about finals, learned the score firsthand.

Mortar Board and ODK had made a proposal for "Dead Week" before Christmas, but there was not enough time for any action to be taken for fall finals.

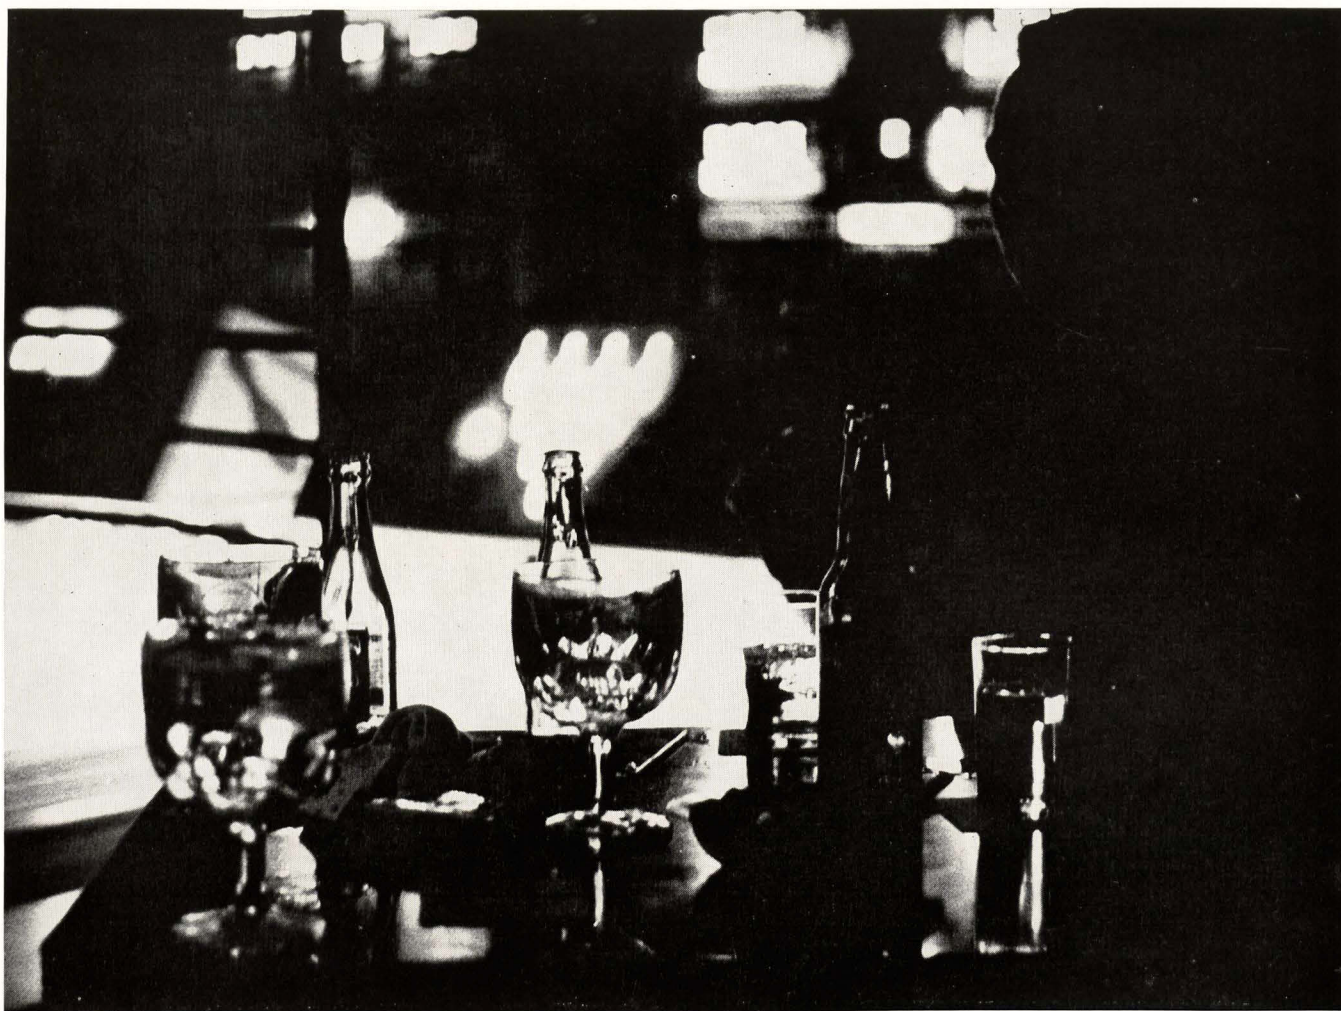

Graduation for a record number marked the end of a long pursuit for an education (and a Degree). Also leaving the campus with the graduates were the Uarkettes, who departed for Europe on a seven week tour.

Graduation speaker J. Harry Wood, President of the Home Life Insurance Company of New York spoke to students graduating in January.

Small changes in graduation procedure seemed to speed up long ceremony slightly. For graduates, it was an end of a way of life.

Many, Many Diversions

Pledges always arrive early to carry the fraternity banner and prepare to meet their new pledge brothers, who are waiting inside.

A Spring Headache

The dream of every rush chairman, a really sharp man, sits and thinks. Tired, laughing . . . who knows?

IFC has no bigger headache than its Spring Rush, which generally produces few new pledges in comparison to the amount of energy expended by Greeks and rushees alike. Even the crowd in front of the Union lacks the same jubilant spirit that is found at the conclusion of the fall effort. Rushees were housed in residence halls for the first time, due to empty spaces there. The men got a chance to eat four excellent meals, and hear their share of fraternity propaganda, but the final decision was easy for most rushees, who have narrowed their choices to four before the week begins. The unusually small turnout for the spring rush was blamed on a change in housing contract which allowed the Greeks to take record numbers in open rush. Independents excitedly pointed to a victory for the "total program" of residence halls. After both sides stopped shouting, IFC went to work to find a solution to its headache.

The Second Time Around

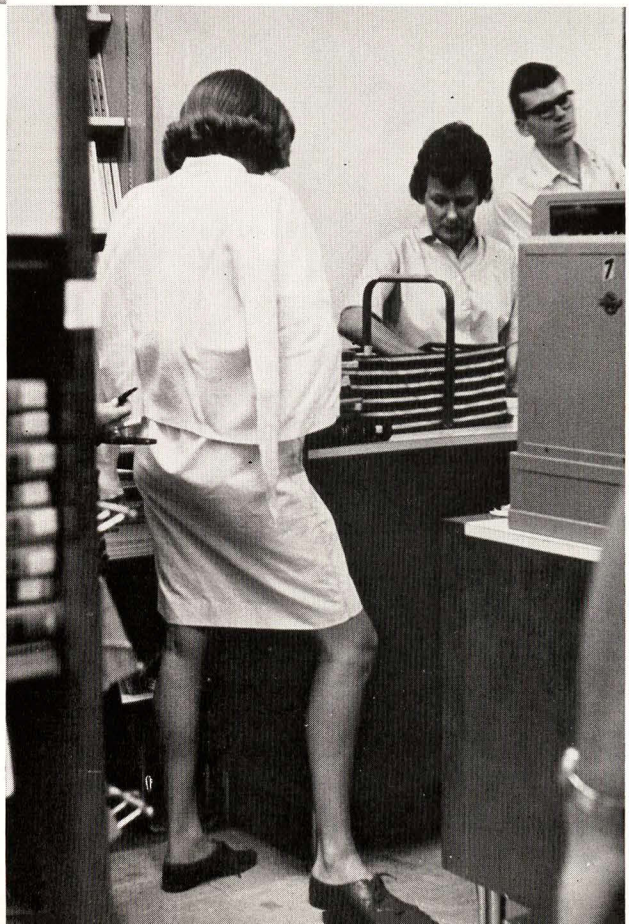

Most people lose their rear end in the bookstore.

New arrangement in the bookstore did not make shopping any easier. Long lines and prices were same as usual.

One of fourteen required books for a course, and most students read only four or five. This one will be read.

Yes sir! Just what we've always wanted: a gung-ho campus cop. While drivers sit snug in the cars, students stand waiting in snow.

High school principals came visiting for a day. One of the angles was to talk to former students. Here freshmen tell about "X" English.

There she is . . . Miss Amer . . . er . . . Miss AWS Queen of Hearts. Katy Holthoff is another Tri Delta beauty winner for their rush book.

Queen for This - Queen for That

Surviving another registration, students began the spring semester. For some, it was a second chance; for others, it was a last chance; but for most, it was just plain old spring semester. Make the grades before the sun comes out was the often expressed philosophy.

The enrollment for the second semester was a record, although the usual marriages, drop-outs, and rush caused the closing of some housing.

On campus plans were announced for all the various queen contests, St. Patricia, and the spring concerts. The Student Court began a series of sixty trials involving altered birthdates on ID cards.

Winter Strikes Again

This snow took the cake. Sandwiched between two sunny, warm days was a freak six inch snowfall. Although accustomed to the quirks of the weather, everybody was amazed. Students, making the most out of it, froliced and staged late night snowball fights with neighbors.

Beauties

Miss America

In Atlantic City last September, Donna Axum became Arkansas' first Miss America. A native of El Dorado, Donna held many beauty titles before being crowned the nation's number one beauty. She represented El Dorado in the 1960 Miss Arkansas pageant, was state Forestry Queen, and the National Cotton Picking Queen.

Donna is presently busy touring the United States making personal appearances throughout the country. In September when she relinquishes her crown, she will return to the University of Arkansas, where she is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, to resume her studies.

Student Government

At the University the responsibility of self government is delegated by the students to an organization known as the Associated Students of the University of Arkansas. The annual Spring elections generate some enthusiasm among the students and offer students opportunities to participate in political affairs. These elections have grown in size the past two Springs, with the extravagant campaigns and promises amazing almost everyone.

As on the national level, student government is divided into three branches: executive, legislative, and judicial. The executive and legislative arms are elected, and the judicial branch is appointed.

Elected at large by the entire student body, the STUDENT COURT: John French, Associate Justice; Marty Thurlby, Associate Justice; Martin Gilbert, Chief Justice; Carole Lynn Williams, Associate Justice; Jack Gatewood, Associate Justice.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OFFICERS: Sammy Hilburn, Vice-President; Fred Favor, President; Mary Sue Hornor, Secretary;

John Harmon, Treasurer. These officers form the Executive branch.

President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer compose the executive branch. These offices, while hardest to obtain, carry with them the most prestige and political power.

The legislative arm, the Student Senate, consists of delegates of the various colleges according to enrollment; each college is assured one Senator regardless of its enrollment. Headed by the Vice-President, the Senate is the center of most of the governmental activity, since it controls student entertainment, campus organizations, and student-faculty relations. This year the Senate spent most of its time with the budget and the notion of social rules revision.

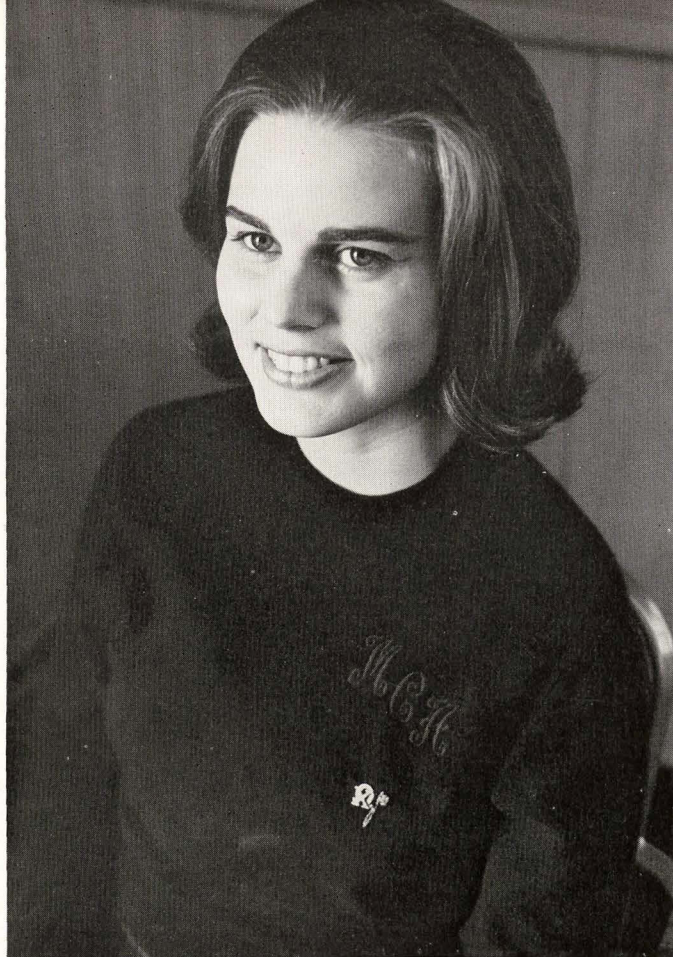

The Judicial branch of the student government is composed of a Student Count and an Attorney General. The Attorney General is responsible for the prosecution of all student offenses over which the Court has jurisdiction. The Student Court, selected by the Dean of Law School, Dean of Women, Dean of Students, President of the University, and the President of Associated Students, consists of five judges who try students for violations of any disciplinary statute. However, many disciplinary issues are handled by the University discipline board, an arm of the Student Court.

Barney's Success--

An Arkansas Attribute

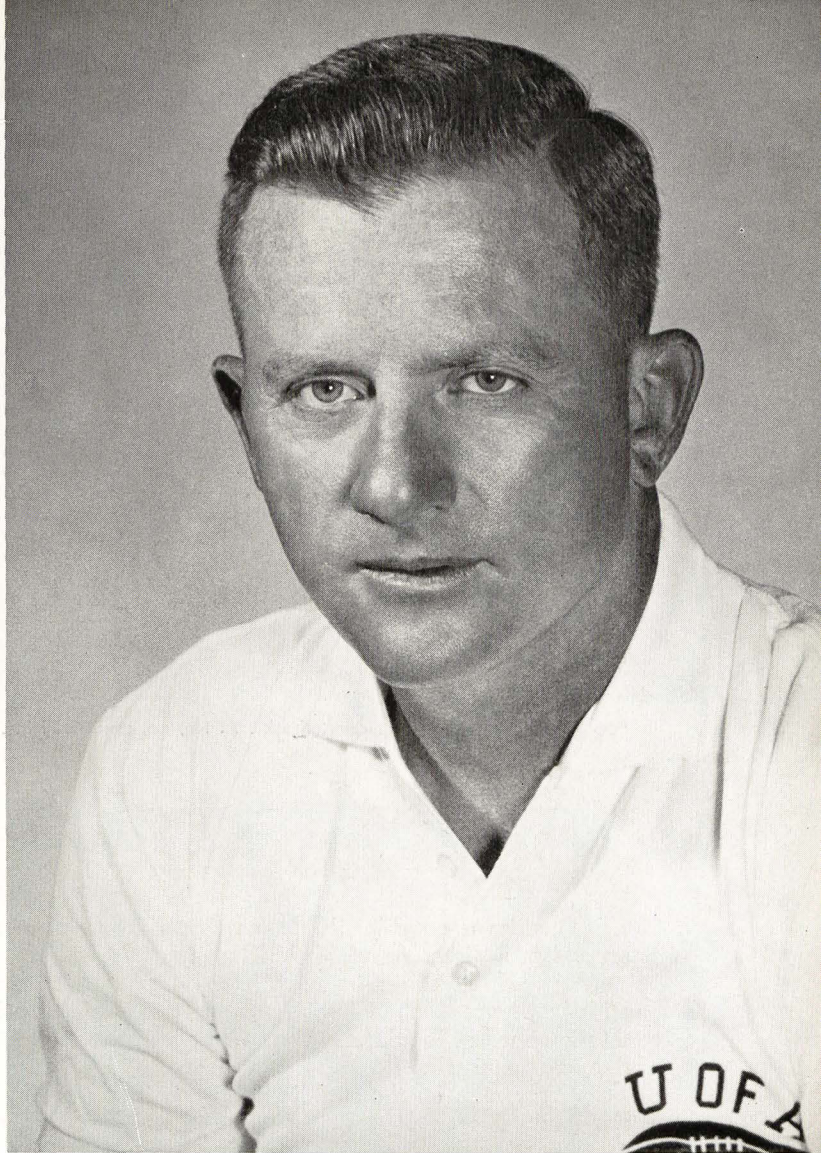

John Barnhill personifies the heart and soul of the University athletic program. He does because he built it. For eighteen years his dedication and administrative talent has guided Arkansas athletics into one of the finest programs in the nation. The entire state knows of his achievements and recognized them by inducting him into the Arkansas Hall of Fame. The Razorbacks have excelled because of his driving desire for excellence.

John Barnhill
Director of Athletics

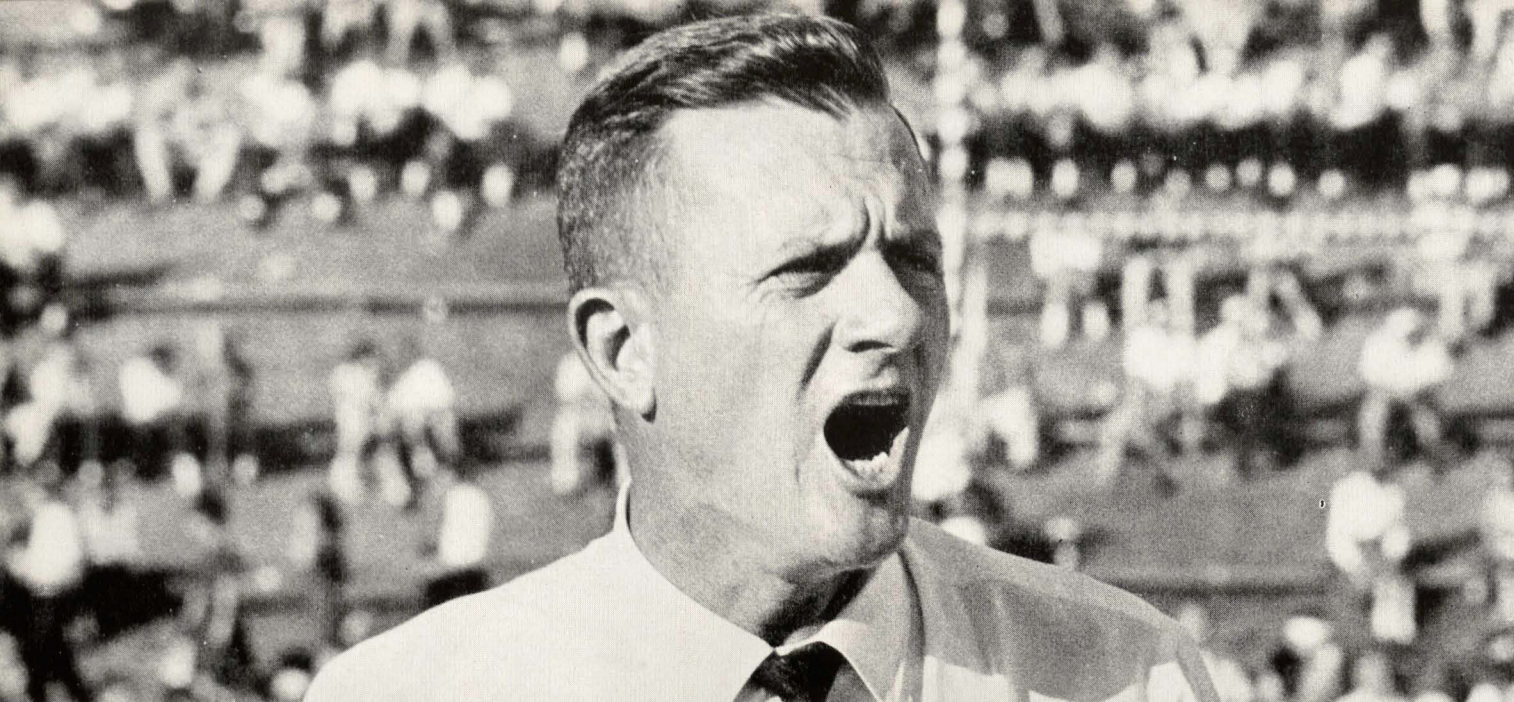

GLEN ROSE is a man of tremendous personal nerve and a basketball coach with outstanding ability. His induction in the Arkansas Hall of Fame this year came right after his 300th win at the University.

FRANK BROYLES is a football coach and Southern gentleman of the highest caliber. As a football coach, his record speaks for itself. As a gentleman, he has won the confidence and support of the state.

GEORGE COLE has known Arkansas athletics for over 35 years from all angles—as a player, as a coach and as assistant athletic director. A member of the Arkansas Hall of Fame, he oversees scholarship operations and serves as a liason officer for campus activities.

"Doug send Brittenum in at quarterback . . . No, no, send Gray in . . . No, no get Marshall in there . . . No, wait a minute, let Guest try his luck."

So They May Excel

Quality of coaching is a measure of team's success. At Arkansas this success is a direct result of the Razorback assistants.

In and out of season, these men form the backbone of the Razorback athletic program. Planning, coaching, and recruiting is a year-round job that is aimed at the development of the individual athlete and the success of the program itself.

Every man on the staff is an expert in his particular area of concern. For many former assistants, Arkansas was a place to show ability and then move on to a head coaching position. The University has a reputation of developing some of the finest young coaches in America. Doug Dickey's move to the University of Tennessee as head football coach this winter is an example.

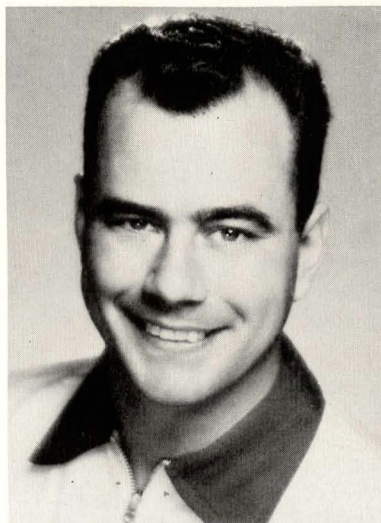

The staff of assistants at Arkansas certainly plays an integral part in the success or failure of athletics. And, for the Razorbacks, success has been a dominate theme.

Arkansas 21 - - Oklahoma State 0

A handful of troubles and a winning tradition set the stage for the Razorbacks' '63 season. After a summer of publicity, the Porkers rose to the occasion the first time around to blank the Oklahoma State Cowboys, 21-0, before a capacity crowd in Little Rock's War Memorial Stadium.

There was no question about it: OSU was outclassed. Penetrating the Arkansas 35 yard-stripe only twice, the visitors made the Porkers look good going both ways.

Senior end Jim John set up the first tally by recovering a Cowboy fumble on the OSU 36. Ten plays later, sophomore tailback Jim Lindsey crashed over from the three early in the first period. Junior quarterback Billy Gray took the spotlight later in the quarter as he directed a 10-play, 79-yard paydirt push. It was climaxed when he passed to end Jerry Lamb from 18 yards out.

After a lifeless second frame, the Porkers initiated their last scoring charge midway in the third period. With sophomore Jon Brittenum at the helm, the Hogs moved to the OSU 17 with a tromping ground attack. Brittenum then passed to senior Jerry Jones for the touchdown. Tom McKnelly booted his third straight extra-point to end the scoring.

Missouri's powerful Tigers gave Razorback rooters something that they hadn't seen in Little Rock since 1960 an Arkansas defeat. However, it was a slim downfall, 7-6, but still one of those black marks that have been uncommon in the Frank Broyles' regime.

Here's where Arkansas began to show its greatest '63 deficiency: the lack of an offensive push at the right time. However, everything went well, at least, for a half.

Arkansas' only score came midway in the first period when quarterback Billy Gray directed an 80-yard drive in 14 plays. Mixing his plays well, Gray moved the squad down to the Mizzou 26. Then a bomb to Jim Lindsey broke the scoring ice from that point.

Tom McKnelly's point-after attempt went wide to the right making it, 6-0.

A fantastic Tiger rebirth in the second half made the difference. The first time the visitors got the ball in the third period they scored. Charging 70 yards under the direction of sophomore quarterback Gary Lane, the Bengals ended it all with a two-yard plunge by full-back Gus Otto. Bill Leistrutz then made a perfect game-winning conversion to close the scoring midway in the third period.

Defense proved to be an Arkansas check for the remainder. As the final gun sounded, the typical reaction on both sides was "it had to happen sometime."

Jerry Lamb, well-known for his high-flying offensive antics, makes like an astronaut with the Tiger defensive back hot on his heels.

Ronnie Caveness (55) and Wesley Bryant (73) pursue quarterback Gary Lane into the Missouri Tiger backfield as a Bengal closes in.

 Third Row: Fred Marshall, Tom McNelly, Tommy

Junior Ken Hatfield sprints away from a Horned Frog on another punt return. Ken did a full day's work against TCU as he returned nine punts.

Arkansas 18 - - Texas Christian 3

Some breaks fell the right way, some scoring opportunities were utilized, some tough Arkansas defense paid off—that was the story of the Razorbacks' 18-3 victory over Texas Christian on Dad's Day before a packed house in Fayetteville.

The first conference win gave Arkansas its fifth straight victory over the Horned Frogs although it was the first time since 1954 that the Porkers failed in three consecutive tries to make an extra point.

With quarterback Fred Marshall, the Hogs scored first on a 91-yard charge that took only four plays in the first period. A 32-yard sprint by fullback Charles Daniel and a 56-yard pass completion from Marshall to end Jerry Lamb highlighted the march.

TCU retaliated in the second frame with Jim McAtter's 37-yard field goal to make it 6-3—the intermission tally.

Linebacker Ronnie Caveness intercepted a Frog pass in the last quarter and returned it to the visitors' 21 to set up the second touchdown. Eight plays later Bill Gray nosed in from the one.

On the Porker kickoff, TCU's Marvin Chipman fumbled and Arkansas' Jim Finch recovered the ball on the Frog 27. The six-play scoring drive was climaxed when Gray rolled in on a short gainer.

The Dad's Day jinx was over now.

Baylor 14 - - Arkansas 10

Practically speaking, the Razorbacks didn't play the Baylor Bears in 1963.

Arkansas actually lost, 14-10, to one of the most outstanding passing combinations in modern American football—quarterback Don Trull to speedster Larry Elkins.

Senior Gary Howard set up the first Arkansas tally on an interception and return to the Bear 25. Hampered by penalties, the Porkers settled for a 32-yard field goal off the toe of Tom McKnelly late in the first half.

Trull and Elkins then began their work. Within two minutes on four straight completions, Baylor was on the Arkansas 15. A run to the four and a pass to Elkins from that point, plus the PAT, chalked a 7-3 halftime lead.

The Razorbacks' only touchdown came on a 48-yard push that highlighted tailback Jim Lindsey. He tallied from the one yard to end the nine-play charge in the third period. McKnelly converted.

The winning Bruin tally was set up when Bobby Crenshaw intercepted an Arkansas pass and returned it to the Hog 17. Two plays later, Trull flipped a 17-yard projectile to Elkins for the score midway in the third frame.

Baylor's Timmon Roberts was too anxious in his search of Jim John and Arkansas was awarded a completed pass on an interference call.

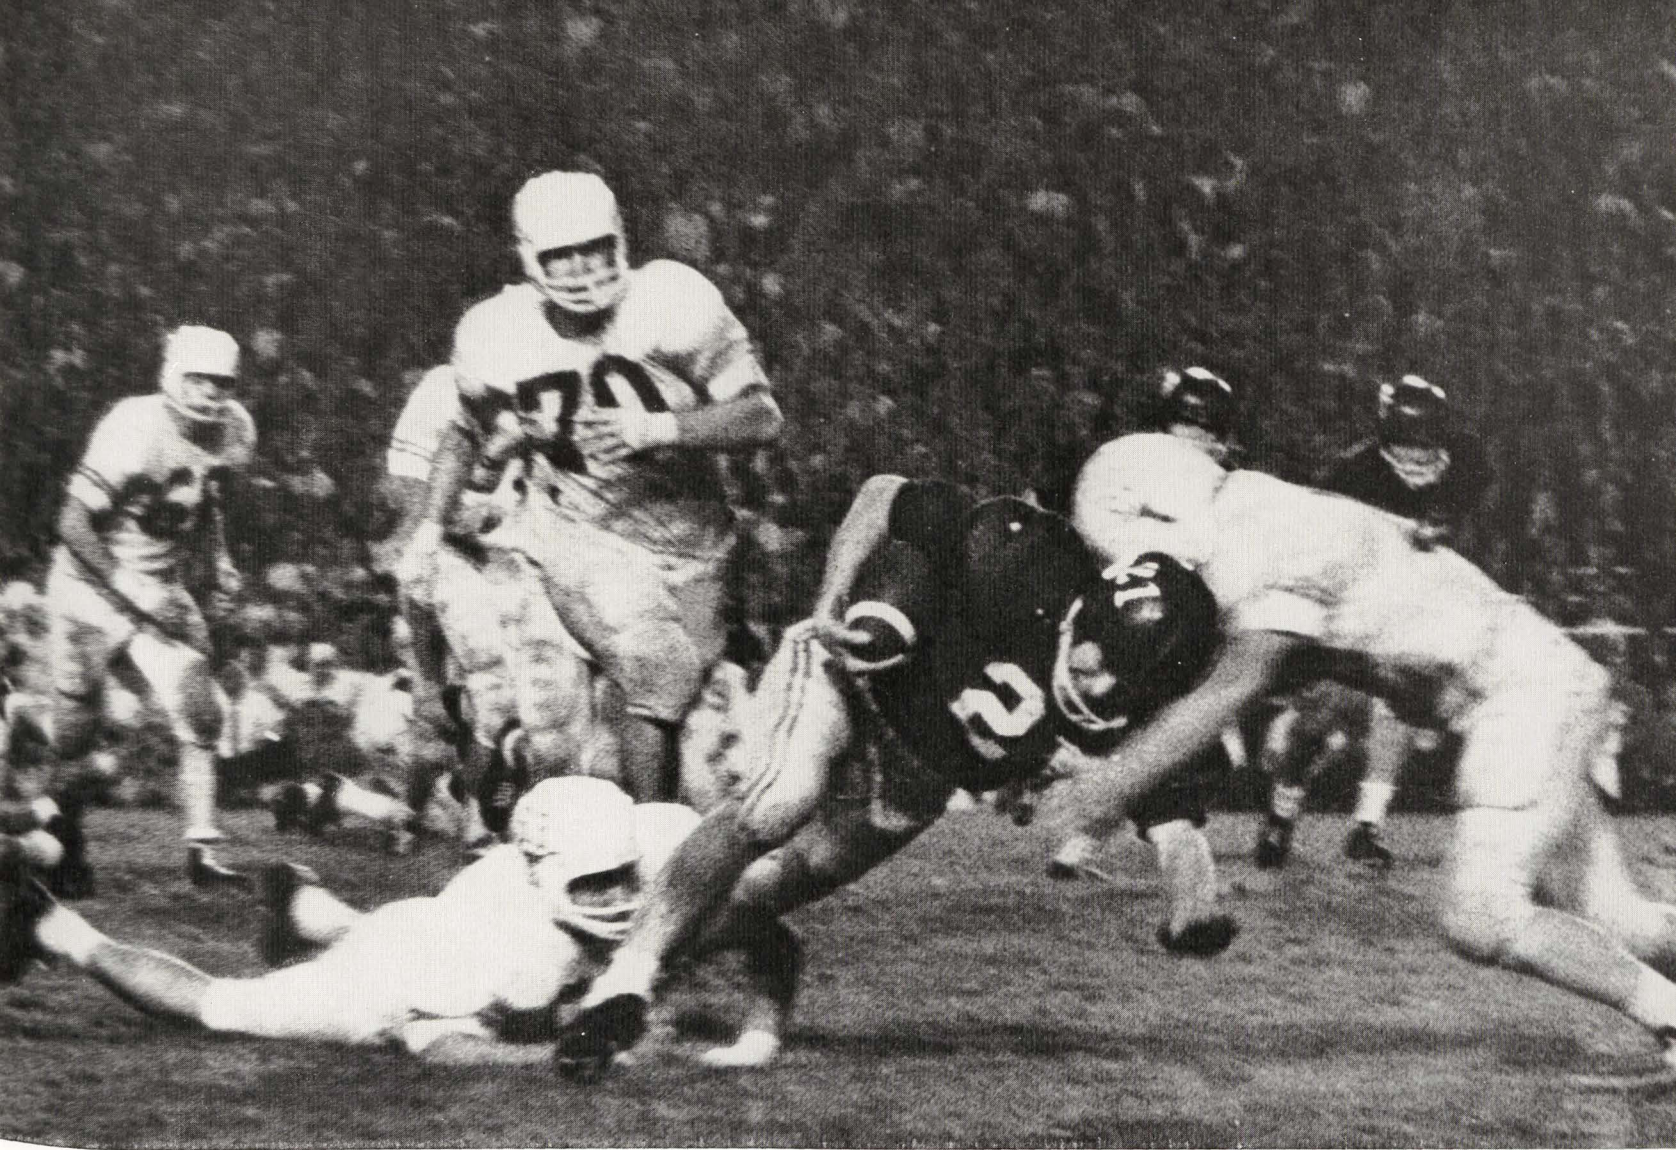

Sophomore Jim Lindsey hammers out an extra three yards to make a Razorback first down against the Baylor Bears in a nip-and-tuck battle.

A Tulsa defensive back (the bad guy) turns a pass play into a wrestling match complete with Jerry Lamb (the good guy) and excitable referee.

Texans don't scare fullback Jim Lindsey as he tucks the ball, lowers his shoulder and butted his helmet into a tough Royal defensive line.

Texas 17 - - Arkansas 13

Texas' 17-13 victory over the Porkers, witnessed by the largest football crowd ever assembled in Arkansas (over 41,000 in Little Rock's War Memorial Stadium), was one of the most exciting games in Hog history.

The first time the Texans got the ball they scored. Using a ground attack entirely, they took the opening kickoff and pushed 68 yards in 14 plays to paydirt. Tommy Ford crashed over from the one midway in the first period. Tony Crosby's kick was good.

Arkansas had to punt on its first possession and the Texans were off again—this time on an 86-yard romp. It was climaxed when Ford sliced in from three yards out early in the second period. Crosby's kick was good.

Crosby kicked a 29-yard field goal with 53 seconds left in the half to finish the Texans' scoring jaunt.

Sophomore Jackie Brausell then returned the kickoff 89 yards to the UT six on one of the most spectacular runs of the season. Two plays later, sophomore quarterback Jon Brittenum passed to junior wingback Stan Sparks for the 11-yard touchdown. McKnelly's kick was good.

Late in the third period, Arkansas took over on its own 10 and marched 90 yards for the last touchdown of the evening. Brittenum went up the middle on a one-yard plunge to end the long drive. McKnelly's kick was good.

Only at Arkansas in '63 would you see quarterback Bill Gray blocking for quarterback Fred Marshall against the Golden Hurricane from Tulsa.

Arkansas 56 - - Tulsa 7

Offense and plenty of it blossomed in the Tulsa contest as the Razorbacks romped, 56-7, before a capacity crowd in Fayetteville. There was only one catch—Tulsa didn't have a defense.

Running 64 plays, Arkansas tallied at an almost point-a-play pace, but it did give Frank Broyles a chance to look over the reserves. It was a relaxing afternoon after following Texas and a big help before entering the November push.

The Razorbacks scored in every period with Ken Hatfield's 95-yard punt return, which broke the previous all-time Arkansas record for the longest punt return, stealing the headlines. Other Arkansas touchdowns were scored by Jackie Brasuell, Bobby Reynolds, Bobby Nix (who scored twice), Bill Gray, Gary Robinson and Mike Edwardes. Tom McKnelly converted successfully after each tally.

Tulsa's only touchdown came when quarterback Van Burleo passed seven yards to end John Simmons late in the last period to end a 93-yard push.

Although it wasn't much of a contest, most fans found it entertaining.

Arkansas 21 - - Texas A & M 7

Frank Broyles' unblemished record in November was still clean after the Texas A & M contest which the Razorbacks took, 21-7, before a capacity crowd in Little Rock's War Memorial Stadium. It was Broyles' 21st straight victory in November since 1958.

Arkansas' first score was launched midway in the first period when Jim Williams recovered an Aggie fumble on the Cadet 27. Moving down to the 16, quarterback Bill Gray oiled his passing arm and completed to sophomore tailback Jackie Brasuell in the end zone. Tom McKnelly's PAT was good.

A bad snap from center on a punting down gave the Aggies possession on the Arkansas one. On the first play of the second frame, quarterback Charles LaGrange crashed over for the visitors' only touchdown. Bobby Lee converted.

Midway in the second quarter, the Razorbacks scampered 79 yards to paydirt with some fine running by sophomore fullback Jim Lindsey. An 11-yard pass play from Gray to Brausell and McKnelly's successful conversion made it, 14-7 at the intermission.

Late in the final period, the Hogs drove 58 yards for the final tally. It came when Gray went up the middle from the one-foot line. McKnelly converted.

Frank Broyles' November winning streak was snapped in Houston as the Rice Owls blanked the Porkers, 7-0, before 41,000 Homecoming fans in Rice Stadium. Hog momentum couldn't be sustained and the Owls only needed one break to ice it.

Until the final period, sparkling defensive play was the keynote. Each team gave up the ball ten times on punts and neither squad could click offensively. Then came a freak Owl scoring opportunity.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Arkansas' Tommy Moore punted 35 yards to the Hog 42. Rice took over and moved to a quick first down on the 25. Fullback Russell Wayt then hit the middle and fumbled. Gene Fleming picked the ball up and ran to the 12. Four plays later, quarterback Walter McReynolds smashed up the middle from the one for the winning touchdown. Joe Cochran's kick was good.

A desperate Porker attempt to get on the scoreboard was halted late in the game when Fleming picked off an Arkansas pass on the Owl three yard-stripe.

The Razorback defensive unit had posted some of the most impressive statistics of the '63 season, but one Owl series couldn't be stopped and that made the difference—the deciding margin.

Jm Lindsey finds elbow room pretty hard to find against a hustling Rice defensive line that yielded few yards to the '63 Razorbacks.

Quarterback Jon Brittenum connects with Jerry Lamb before a packed crowd of Owl Homecoming fans and the cameras of CBS-TV.

Jerry Lamb captures a 12-yard pass from quarterback Fred Marshall as a Southern Methodist Pony closes in on the junior end from Houston.

Arkansas suffered its fifth and final defeat of the season in Dallas' Cotton Bowl when the Southern Methodist Mustangs topped the Razorbacks, 14-7, before a crowd of 23,000.

Two ironies surrounded the contest. Because it was the last game in Texas for Arkansas, the defeat brought a harsh fact to bare—it was the first time since 1953 that the Hogs had failed to win a game in Texas. Making the downfall even more bitter, the SMU's head coach Hayden Fry was a former backfield coach in the Broyles' regime.

Arkansas took the opening kickoff and scored. Taking over on the Mustang 47, quarterback Fred Marshall headed a 10-play drive that was climaxed when Marshall crashed in from inches out with only four minutes gone. Tom McKnelly converted.

SMU then showed power by taking their first possession into point paydirt. A five-yard pass from Tom Caughran to Tom Hillary capped the drive in a razzle-dazzle fashion on a quarterback pitchout.

A bad Arkansas snap from center early in the third period saw the Mustangs take over on the Razorback 10. One play later, quarterback Mac White handed off to his wingback who tromped to the one. White then tried right guard for the winning touchdown.

Ken Hatfield pushes through Tech defenders on his way to a Hog tally and another record punt return of 80 yards—second longest in UA history.

Arkansas 27 -- Texas Tech 20

An offensive show that saw Arkansas top Texas Tech, 27-20, was the one and only highlight of Homecoming '63. A sober crowd of 25,000 still stunned by the assassination of President John F. Kennedy watched the nip-and-tuck battle.

The Razorbacks jumped off to a 20-0 lead in the first half, but, by the intermission, it was narrowed to a 20-13 margin.

With quarterback Fred Marshall at the helm, the Hogs scored their first tally when sophomore fullback Bobby Nix plunged over from the one to climax an 8-play, 33-yard march with 3:32 left in the first quarter.

Sophomore tailback Jackie Brasuell provided the thrills on the next Porker charge when he scampered 34 yards over left tackle for the second touchdown with 13:46 left in the second period. McKnelly's PAT attempt was wide.

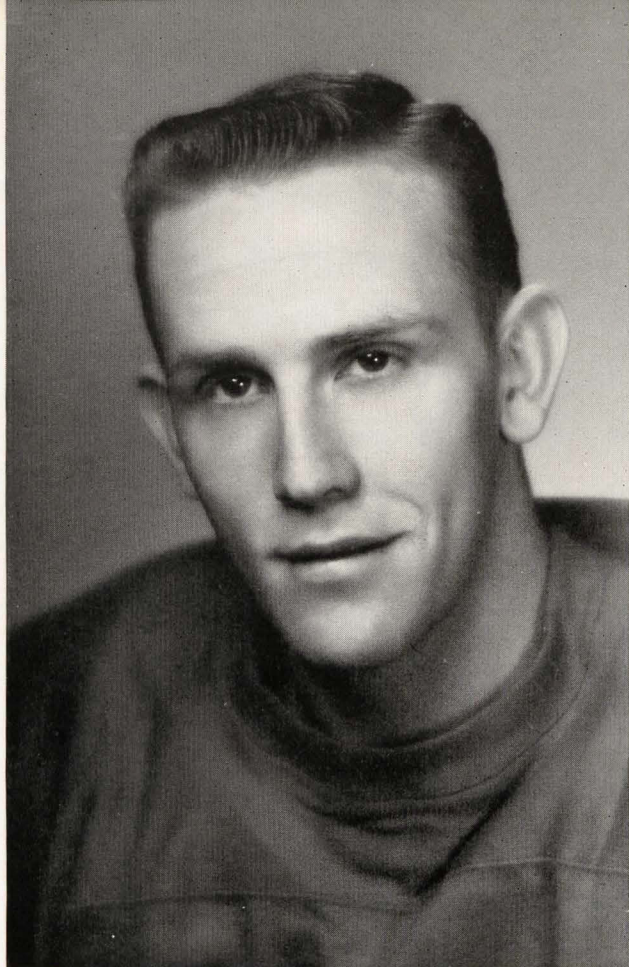

Two touchdown pass plays put the Raiders on the scoreboard before the half. H. L. Daniels produced one wide and one good conversion.

Taking over on their own 15, quarterback Bill Gray directed the Porkers on a fine balanced attack that was highlighted by a 31-yard toss from Gray to junior Stan Sparks. With second-and-six on the Tech 24, Gray swept end to score the winning touchdown.

The victory left Arkansas with a 5-5 season mark and a 3-4 conference record.

Basketball

A balanced conference, unproven scoring power, lack of height, and a heavy sophomore influence all combined to make the 1963-64 Razorback basketball season one of the most deceptive in recent years.

A hot start and a slow finish left the Porkers with a 6-8 conference record (one game below .500) and a 9-14 overall record. A frustrating February was the major contributing factor to another mediocre season. The '62-'63 Hogs had an 8-6 conference finish with a 13-11 overall total.

Four seniors—Larry Hogue, Jim Magness, Warren Vogel and Jim Jay—formed the backbone of the squad. Transfer junior Jim Kisse and junior Jim Bane were the other returning mainstays. An array of sophomores proved helpful in spots with a promise for future potential. John Talkington, Steve Rousseau, Orval Cook, J. D. McConnell and Ricky Sugg were among the soph standouts.

Arkansas, under head coach Glen Rose, won its opening contest against Southwest Louisiana, 71-65, in Fayetteville. Then a drought began that ended after a four-game losing streak. Missouri topped the Porkers, 76-74; Kansas bumped the Hogs, 73-60; Oklahoma State halted Arkansas, 74-65; and Vanderbilt crushed the Razorbacks, 101-77, while setting a new Vandy scoring record.

Right before Christmas, Arkansas got back on the winning track as they stopped Lamar Tech, 86-80, in Fayetteville. The Gulf States Classic in Shreveport saw Arkansas topped by Tennessee, 77-57, but a Razorback victory over arch-rival Ole Miss, 76-68, didn't make things seem so dim.

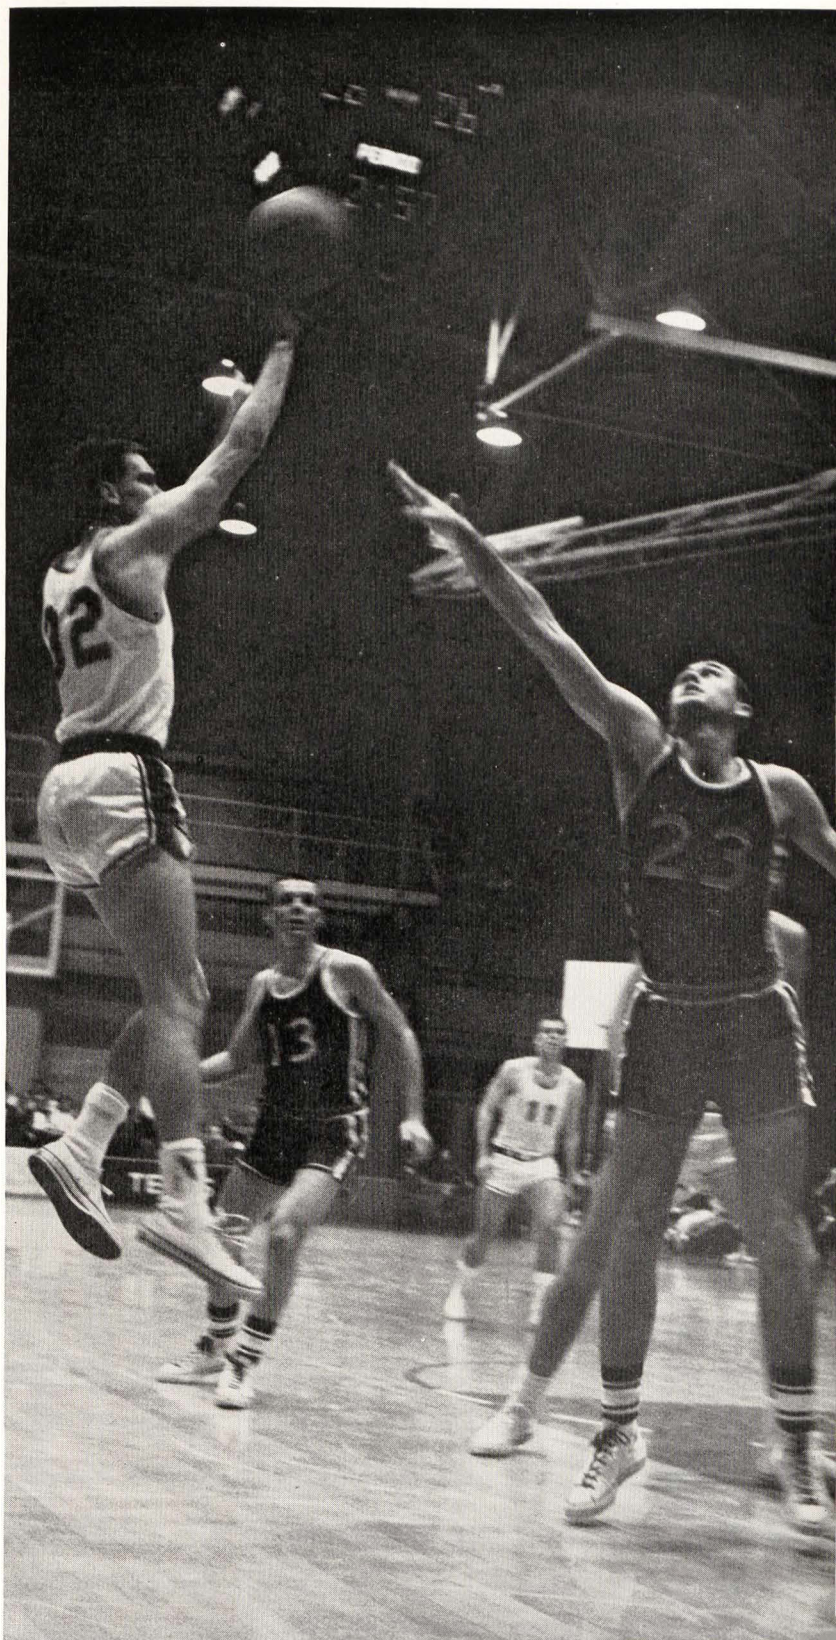

Conference play was next and the opener saw Arkansas fall to Texas Tech, 93-84, in Lubbock. A momentum builder four nights later saw the Hogs hot and hungry and the Texas Longhorns hit the dust, 58-53, before a screaming mob in Barnhill Fieldhouse. In the last game before finals, conference pushover Texas Christian fell to Arkansas, 66-60, on the Froggies' home court.

A non-conference tilt in Tulsa saw the Golden Hurricane rack the Porkers, 95-86, before the conference was resumed.

Frustrating February then loomed up and the challenge proved too much. The Porkers jumped off to a 3-1 conference mark—and as late as February 15 it was 5-3 and a third-place standing. Then the house fell in when the schedule sent up Rice, Texas A&M, SMU, Texas Tech and Texas in a row.

Arkansas halted Baylor, 74-70, to kick off the February slate. Rice and the Texas Aggies then dealt fatal blows.

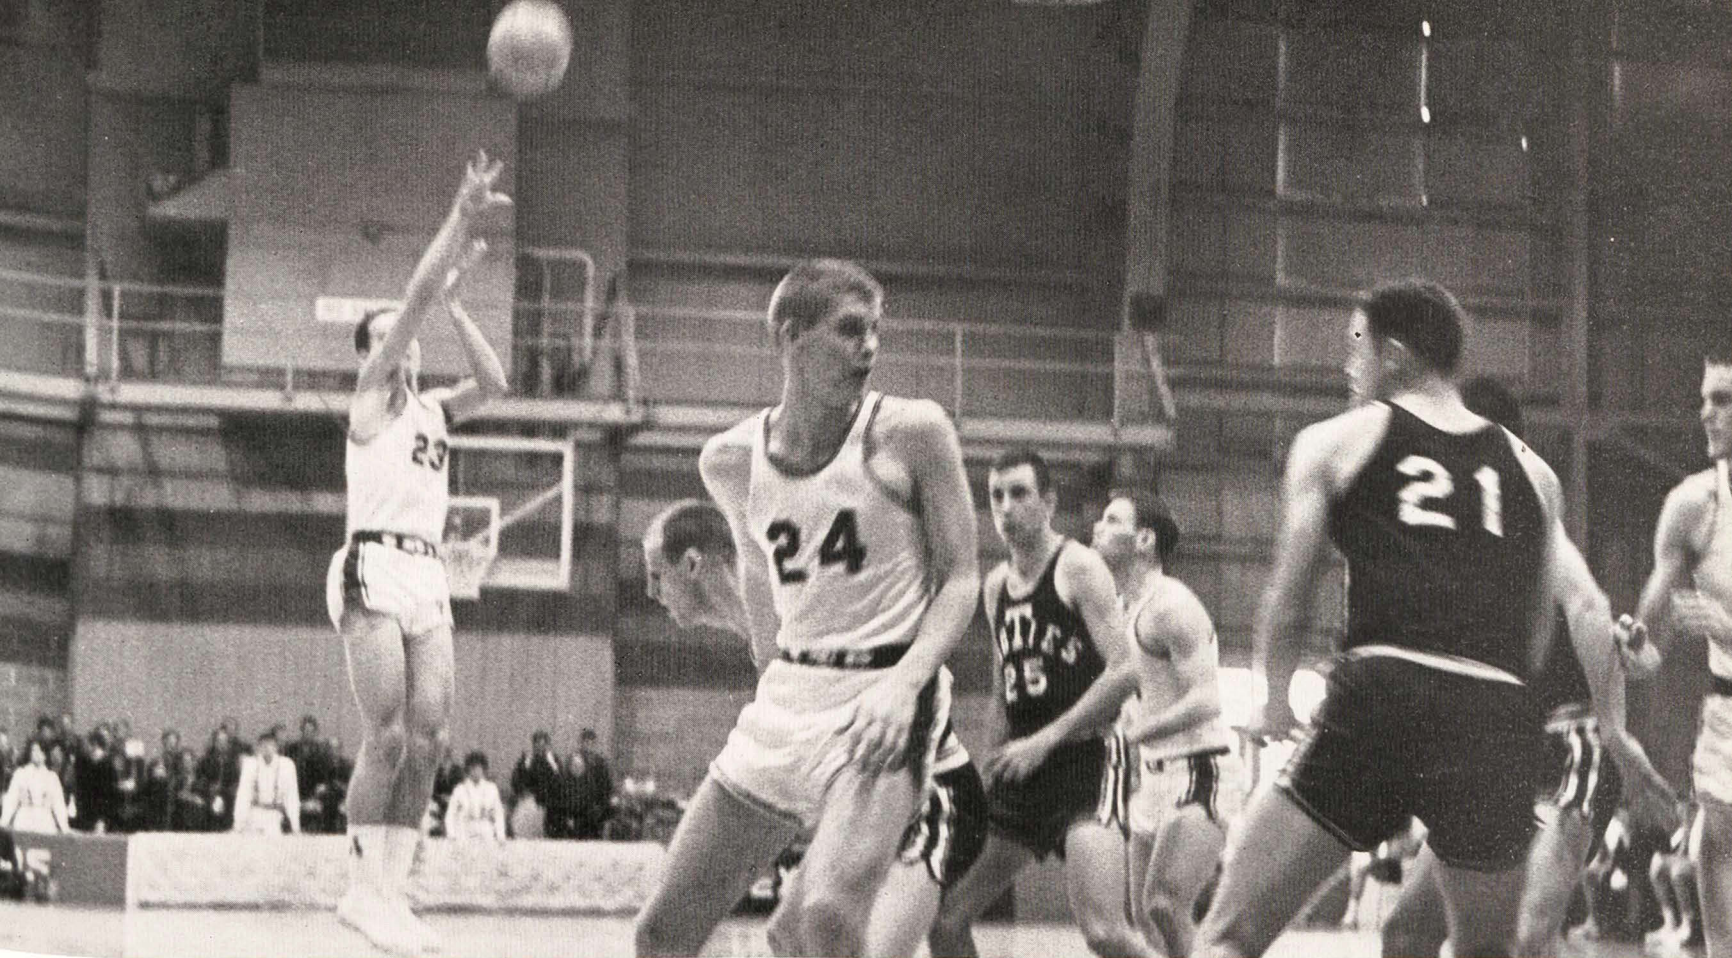

The Owl trailed, 36-29, but a second half push saw Rice crunch the Porkers, 76-63, in Fayetteville. The Razorbacks then traveled to College Station where they dropped a real heartbreaker to the eventual conference champion. It was 35-35 at the Intermission with Arkansas leading by nine points early in the third period. A fourth quarter effort pushed the Cadets over the Hogs, 72-64.

Sophomore Ricky Sugg lifts off the boards to rack one for the UA against a battling Rice squad that was sparked by Kendall Rhine.

Fayetteville's own J. D. McConnell proves himself a hometown hero as he battles with some Texas Tech Red Raiders under the Porker basket.

Junior Jim Bane lets go with an outside shot against the Aggies of Texas A&M as sophomore J. D. McConnell protects the letterman from Missouri.

The Downfall: A Frustrating February

Two Arkansas wins in Fayetteville—83-71 over Southern Methodist and 73-61 over Baylor—seemed to pull the Razorbacks out of their hard luck. But such wasn't the case.

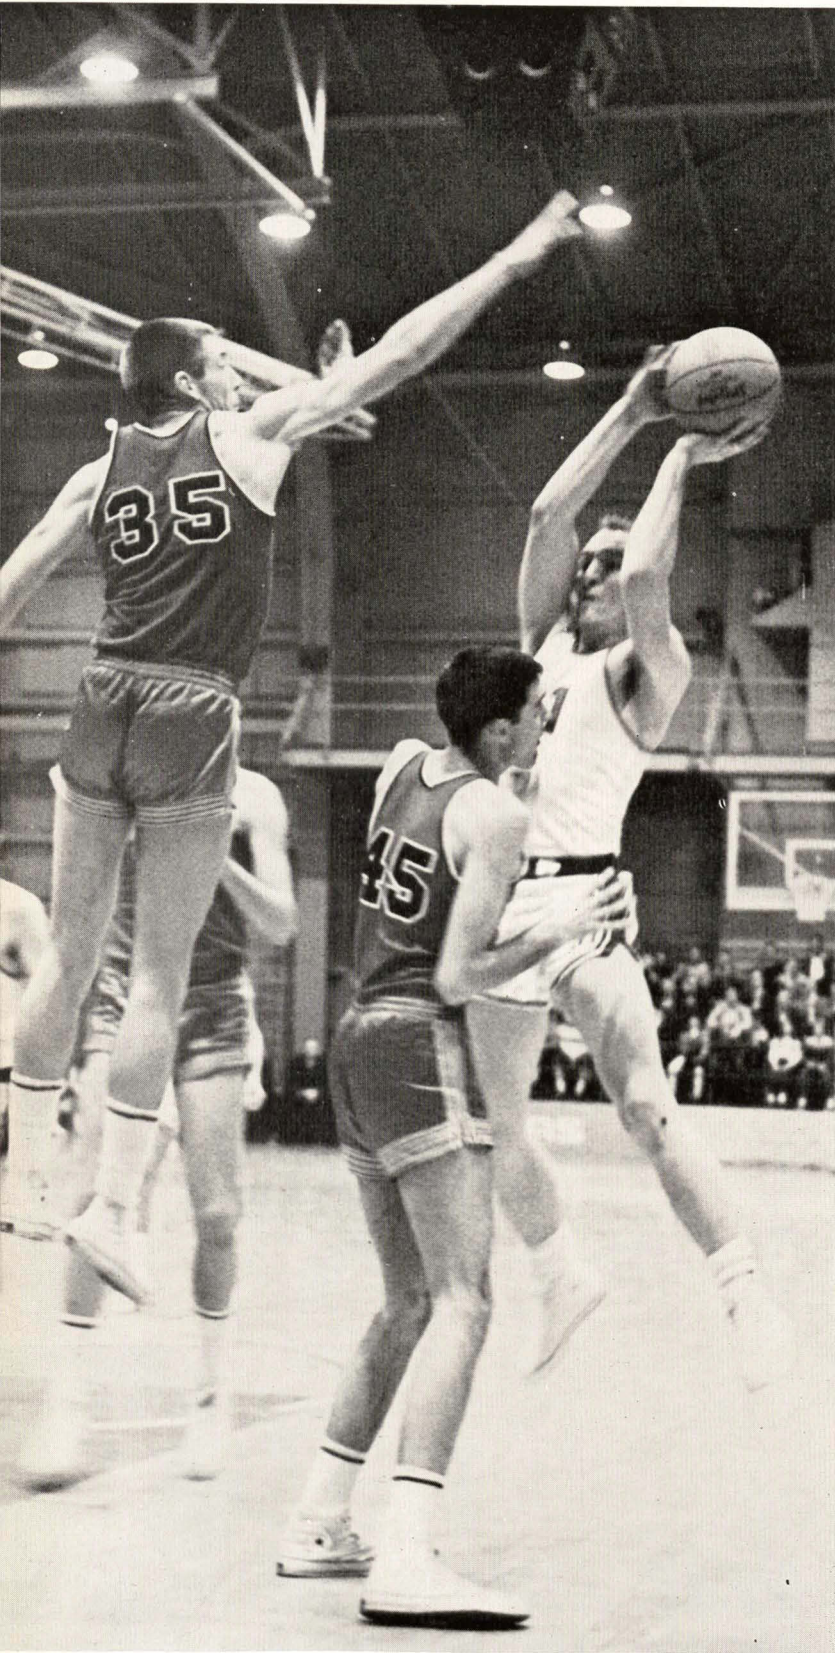

The Hogs were on top of Texas A&M, 29-26, at the half at home. However, a momentum gave the Aggies a 60-57 victory. Southern Methodist smashed Hog hopes in Dallas, 86-71, decisively.

Texas Tech then came to Fayetteville for a furious contest that saw fist swinging at the end. Arkansas had a 50-45 halftime lead, but a scoring duel right to the last second resulted in an 87-86 Raider win. Texas paid Arkansas back for its previous loss by knocking the Porkers, 80-67, in Austin.

Playing wide-open basketball, the Hogs decided to close out the season in grand style before home fans in "Gloomy Glen" paints a gloomy picture as the gloomy Razorbacks have a gloomy conference. It was a pretty gloomy season.

It looks like a capeless Superman but it's really senior Jim Jay fighting up for two points against the Red Raiders of Texas Tech.

Accent on Sophs

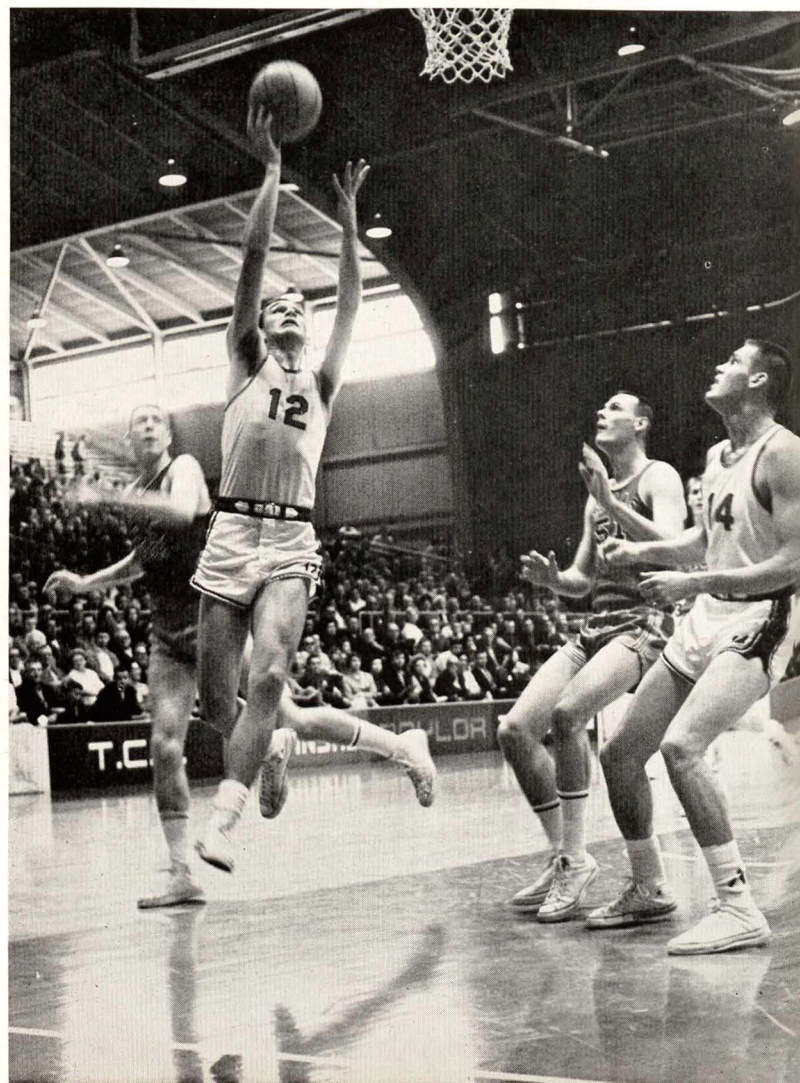

Fayetteville. Drubbing Texas Christian, 101-77, Arkansas simply overpowered the weak Frog squad that failed to win an SWC contest all season.

Seniors Jim Magness and Warren Vogel ranked 1-2 as the top offensive players on this year's team. Magness sunk a 14.9 point average for the entire season and was 14.1 in conference play. Vogel hit 12.1 for the year and 13.6 in SWC competition. For the entire schedule, Magness hit 343 points with a 23-point high-game while Vogel tallied 265 points with a 24-point high.

A senior from Hot Springs, Magness was also the team's leading rebounder overall with 127. Sophomore J. D. McConnell pulled more off the boards in the conference with a 92-rebound mark.

The legacy of the '63-'64 squad may well prove to be the group of experienced players that will move in '64-'65.

Jim Magness lays up a dunk shot against Texas Tech as the usual small crowd looks on. However, Saturday afternoon games helped.

Warren Vogel plays peek-a-boo through the arms of two Aggies. Maybe more teams should play peek-a-boo like the champion Cadets.

Under head coach Duddy Waller, the Shoat basketball team played a slate of 12 teams from November of '63 to February of '64.

Track

Barry Bearden holds promise for the future in several of the field events. Here he is clearing the bar in the Pittsburg dual meeting.

A strong nucleus of returning lettermen and strength in areas of traditional Arkansas weakness gave the Arkansas track program new confidence. After finishing fourth in the 1963 Southwest Conference meet (the highest finish in 16 years), Arkansas tracksters began to take a more predominant place in the spring sports program.

Coach Ab Bidwell counted on 13 returning lettermen with a host of sophomores off a fine '63 Shoat squad. The sprints continued to be a weak spot, but a strong field showing gave the Razorbacks strength in a traditional weak area.

Seniors Glenn Babb, John Deardorff, Philip Kolb and Ed Renfrow became the backbone of the Porker track events. Junior Don Schilling in the weights continued to put Arkansas high after setting two Arkansas records in his sophomore year. Senior Dick Perry and juniors Jim Mace and George Russ made the broad jump one of Arkansas' top field attractions.

Except for the loss of prime contenders in the short distances, the 1964 Porker tracksters continued to set a strong nucleus for a fine track program for the future.

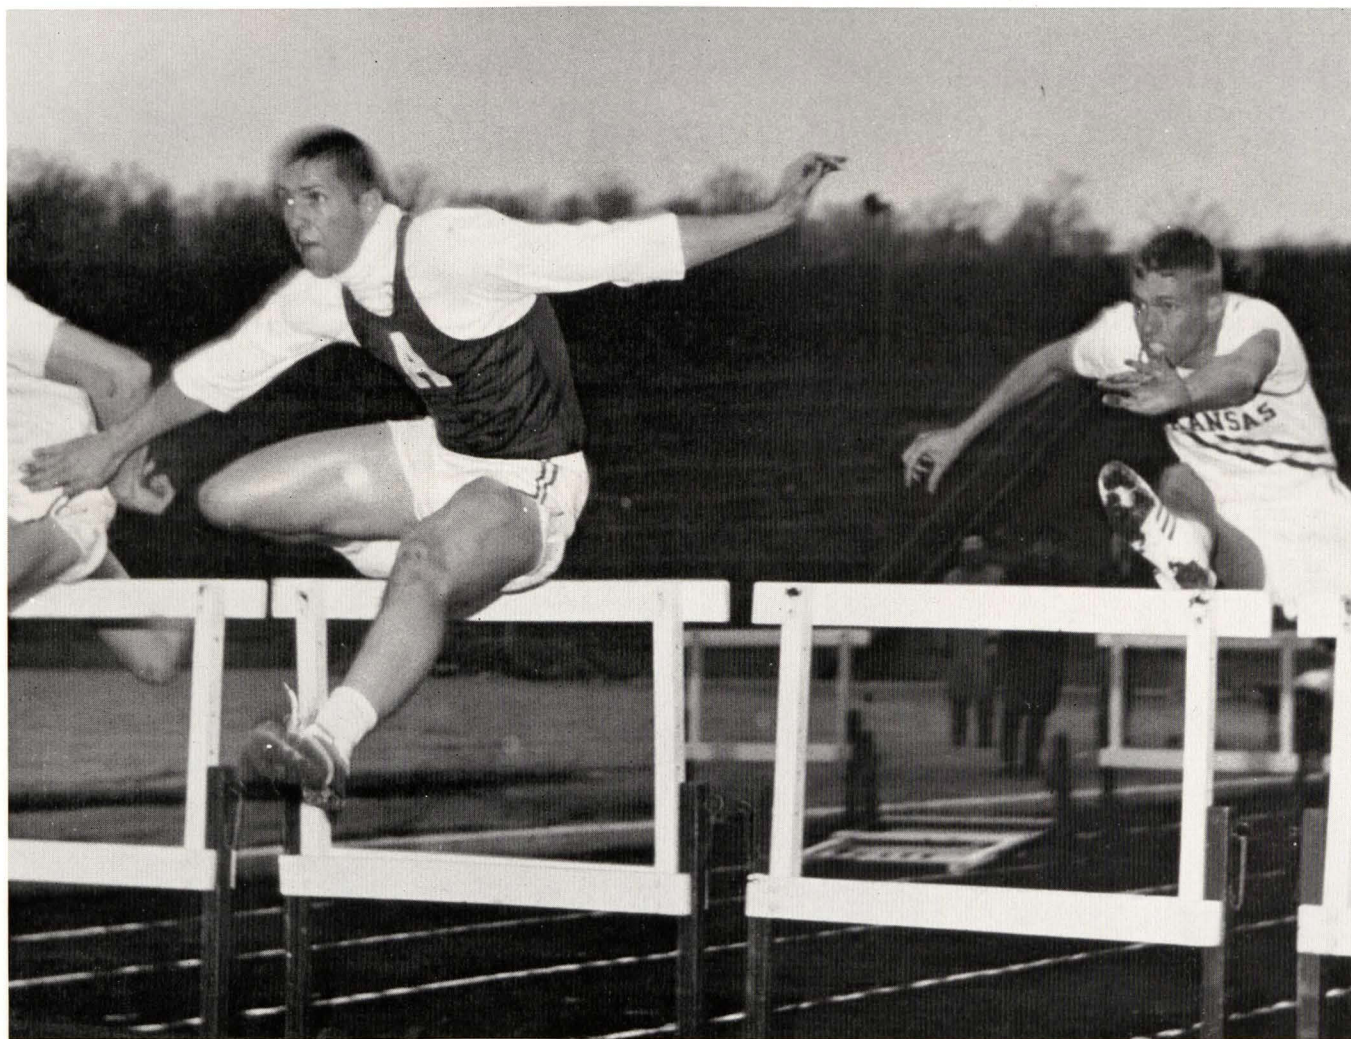

Razorback cross country team members turn golf courses into track courses every fall. The conference meet was held here this year.

Robert Homan. Third Row: Ricky Sugg, Jim Mace, Bobby Burnett, Ed Renfrow, John Deardorff, Robert Tennant, Barry Bearden, George Russ.

Like flying gazelles, Razorback hurdlers flash through the distance while freezing weather makes the joints a little rusty in February.

The University of Arkansas' Baseball squad played all their home games at the Fayetteville Fair Grounds park.

Baseball

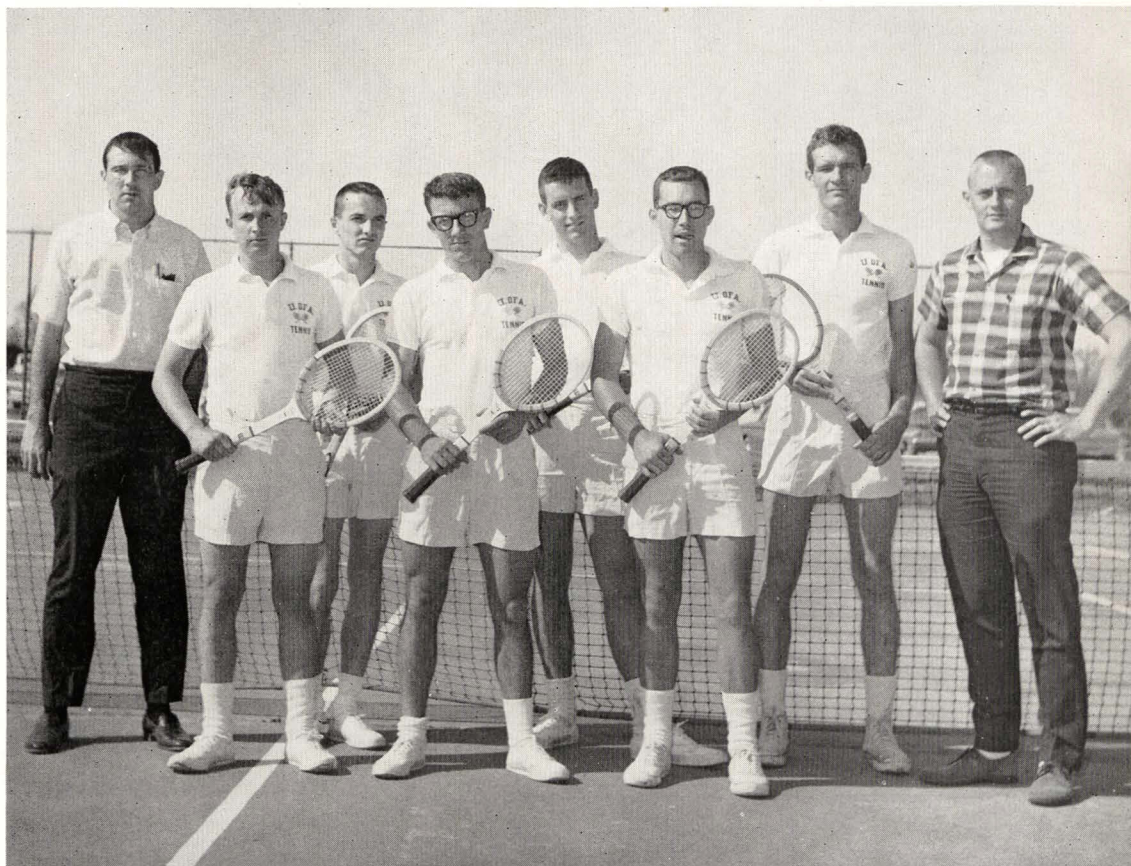

Everything pointed to success as the experience of 12 returning letterman gave the 1964 Arkansas baseball squad one of the best backbones of any team in the past ten years. After a creditable 13-10 record in '63, personnel losses were held to a minimum, the '64 schedule was shortened to 19 games and several newcomers promised to give the squad added strength. Problems in the battery—development of good pitching potential and cultivation of a consistent catcher—continued to plague the Porkers. Infield worries, for the most part, were solved by an intact returning crew with some fine sophomores to back it up. The outfield prospects were plentiful and power at the plate, especially with left-handed batters, hung in the balance. Coach Bill Ferrell certainly had potential to work with in the 1964 season.

Arkansas baseballers really do use bats, but Jim Jay's lightning flip still fooled Buena Vista's catcher and the slower press photographer.

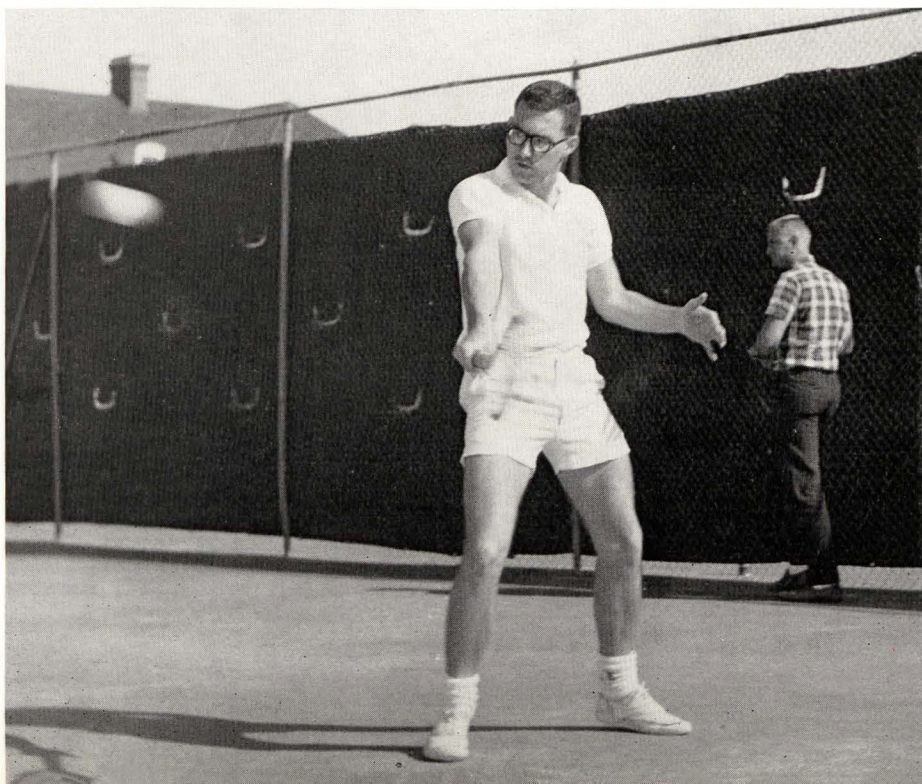

TENNIS TEAM SQUAD: Clark Barnes, coach; Peter Writer; Jim Cunningham; Roy Murtishaw; Jim Holman; Herbert Moreland; Charlie Wilson; David Simpson, coach.

Tennis

A building year was seen for 1964 on the Razorback tennis team. Three returning lettermen and two promising sophomores offered hope for an improved varsity program. Senior letterman Herbert Moreland and junior lettermen Roy Murtishaw and James Cunningham provided the nucleus for the Porkers that lost only two lettermen off last year's squad. Junior Jesse Taylor and sophomore Jim Holman and Pete Writer provided potential that develop in time for a predicted red-letter squad in 1965. A new scholarship program and youngblood on the coaching staff should provide the motivation for an improved tennis program at Arkansas.

Herb Moreland, the only returning senior letterman on the '64 squad, was the No. 1 seeded player for the University of Arkansas racket squad.

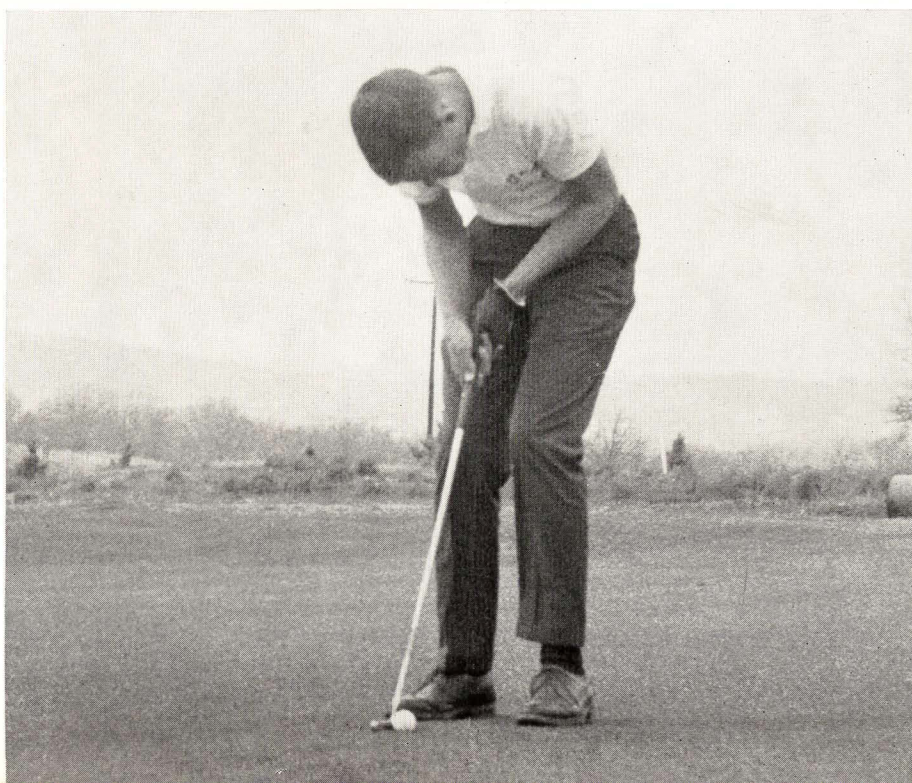

GOLF TEAM: David Lee, Mike Hastings, Gary Markland, and Ray Rouleau.

Golf

Golf never has been a standout spring sport at Arkansas — at least, not until NCAA champion R. H. Sikes came along. However, even with the loss of Sikes in 1964, Coach Ellis Bogan still had reason for encouragement on the links. Four top '63 Shoat golfers—Mike Hastings, David Lee, Gary Markland and Ray Rouleau—moved into the ranks this year and no one was ready to give up the ship. Junior Bill Hall and sophomores John Lee Anthony and Charles Cox also were counted on. Fourteen meets were scheduled with the home contests at the Fayetteville Country Club. After finishing fifth in the Southwest Conference last year, improvement was encouraged by the fine potential moving up in 1964.

A member of the Shoat football squad rushes around end during first spring practice sessions.

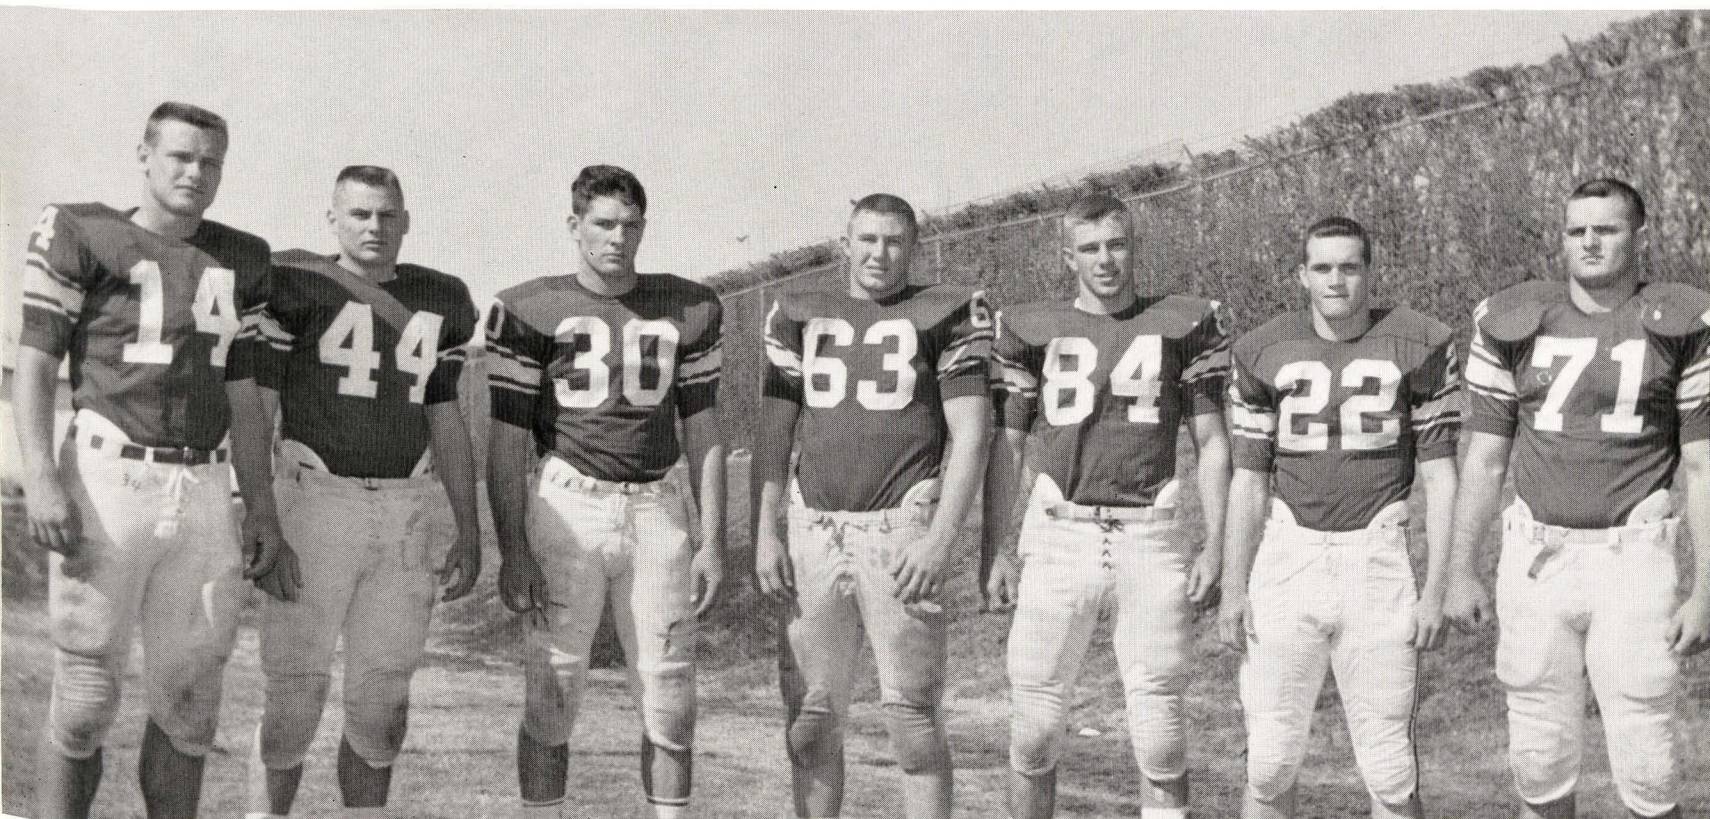

Shoat Football

The results of a dynamic recruiting program and a fine coaching effort produced an undefeated record for the Arkansas Shoats of 1963. A balance of outstanding offensive and defensive play added up to the 5-0 record against a tough schedule while the Porker freshman scored a total of 117 points to 14 points for their opponents. The team's record was: Shoats 3, Southern Methodist Frosh 0; Shoats 20, Texas Tech Frosh 8; Shoats 23, Oklahoma State Frosh 0; Shoats 37, Wichita 0; and Shoats 34, Tulsa Frosh 6.

Larry Watkins was the leading ground gainer with 289 yards, Ronnie South was the leading passer with 20 completions on 38 attempts for 335 yards, and Tommy Trantham was the leading receiver with seven catches for 141 yards and two touchdowns. Under Coach Jack Davis, the Shoats continued to secure the success of Razorback football for the future.

Outstanding members of the freshmen football squad this year were: Ronnie Smith, Robert Trammel, Tommy Sain, Lloyd Phillips, Tommy Trantham, Larry Watkins, Ernest Ruple.

Alph Paul Berry streaks out of a backfield cluttered with opposition. He doesn't see receiver. He forgot his glasses.

Intramurals

The intramural program of the University has one of the most varied and active schedules in the nation. Under the direction of Dr. Rodney Ryan, it is carried on year-round and covers every sport from football to handball to horseshoes.

Trophy races are carried on in three leagues: AAA fraternity, AA fraternity and the independent league. Each participating group aims at winning the sweepstakes trophy which is awarded at the end of each year to the group that has piled up the greatest number of points in each league.

Competition is fierce in most sports and finding players and teams is certainly no problem. Over the past six years, participation has increased over 100 per cent. For instance, in basketball this year there were 79 teams entered with a total of 787 players taking part. Over 250 basketball games were played.

Golf especially has increased more than any other sport. In 1958, there were 14 teams, but this spring there were 38 teams participating.

Controlled by the Board of Managers, intramurals definitely will grow as the University enrollment increases each year.

Women's Intramurals

The Women's Recreation Association is organized to provide, to promote and to direct a recreation program on the campus of the University of Arkansas for every women student. Any woman who is an undergraduate student is eligible to participate.

Tournament competition is offered in three team sports and eleven individual sports. Trophy awards are given to first and second place winners in each sports activities. A large sweepstakes trophy is given to the organization that accumulates the largest number of points throughout the school year. This is a traveling award, and is only retired to the organization that wins it three consecutive years. A trophy is awarded to the outstanding senior graduate who has accumulated a certain number of points throughout her college career. A trophy is also awarded to the outstanding house sports manager who has achieved the largest number of participation points by her organization. All awards are presented at the annual Spring Banquet and Trophy Night in May.

Razorback

Since my partner Kay and I are the first Co-Editors of the Razorback in recent times, there is no traditional approach to writing this section. Usually the sole editor uses this part of the book to look back over the hectic year and marvel at how the book was produced. As spokesman for our team throughout the year and in the book, I (Kidder) will write for both of us.

Looking back to when Kay and I decided to run as co-editors against Sam Park last spring, it is clear now that we did not have many rational reasons. It was sort of a civic duty. But we took on the job, full of ideas like putting out a perfect book. We soon learned that editing a 520 page yearbook is one of those tasks that can be done better on the second try; all we could pray for now was to get this one finished.

Our philosophy of what is a good yearbook was difficult to fulfill. First, we realized that the book would be only as good as the pictures in it—and the more students pictured in different places the better. While we believed that the book should capture the contemporary scene in the spirit it happened, it should at the same time serve as a memory book that will still be enjoyable 20 years from now. These two goals often conflicted, but we tried to comprise.

Thanks to our photographers, Johnny Woodruff and Bill Riner, we have quality pictures. Bill took over at semester and saved us after Johnny had to depart. Johnny, a veteran of 4 yearbook campaigns, guided us through the first hundred days when we didn't know what was happening. He also gave us the inspiration for the opening section.

It seems impossible that in the past one editor was able to get a book out. There is just too much to do. The co-editor plan was successful for us, since we complemented each other's abilities. Kay (who last year's editor described as "so efficient she's scary") took charge of the hard work details while I (who last year's editor unsympathetically branded "indolent") gave speeches and maintained staff morale. Kay was the day shift, working from 1:00 to 5:00 every afternoon; afternoons I piddled around the office waiting to get "in the mood" to write something. I was the night shift, working after dark since I can't get anything done until the sun goes down. Anyhow (meaning more or less), we managed to get the book finished.

Although Kay had worked previously on yearbook production and had technical knowledge, I had worked only as business manager (which is something of a joke, right Meador?). Our approach was roughly this: I was to manage things, planning deadlines, acquiring pictures, organizing the staff, and writing captions; Kay was supposed to know how everything fitted together. Once we got going, the idea worked.

Jim Williams was invaluable. A dynamo of energy, Jame-o went every step of the way with us — even the worst moments. Williams provided some order to the chaotic Razorback office by doing everything from picking up the pieces of incomplete submissions of section editors to cleaning up the office (which was more of a hide-and-seek game).

Associate Editor Nan Allmon is a go-getter. One day early in the year she asked if she could be of any help. Nan, an empire builder and good Pi Phi, quickly took over other jobs and did them all well.

Here is the Razorback editorial staff meeting for the first time. Cheerful looking group, aren't they? They can afford to be happy; their sections are finished — or so they said when they turned them in to be read, rewritten, re-typed, and finished by someone else.

The day workers — the ones that did much of the back breaking drudgery of yearbook production — were a lively crew. There were lots of colorful characters like Weed, Voyles, and Miller. Organizations Editor Miller, totally disorganized, even managed to create work.

Razorback

Dividing the book into sections, we appointed section editors, who were to compile the copy while we found the pictures. Karen Carlson (Greeks), Missy Alford (Administration), and Nancy Norvell (Halls) did excellent work in addition to adding color to the office. Ronnie Robinson, experienced and talented, did the sports section single-handedly. Chi Chi Hargraves, bless her heart, and Janice Bourg did their part to lighten the load. Judy Elliott tried to do the Arts section, but got lost in our confusion.

Helpers like Sam Yager, Robin Sherman, Nancy Voyles, Jerry Don May (Kay's captive worker) and Meador's business staff were invaluable. I could keep on throwing roses, but I'm out of space.

There are many more friends to thank and things to explain. If you managed to read this far, please turn to the Editors' comments at the conclusion of the book —Where things get loose!

Traveler

The Traveler comes out daily, Tuesday through Friday. That is the only thing that can be said of it with certainty. Just like any student newspaper, the Traveler is a kind of embryo. It is not a newspaper in the usual sense. Rather than reporting mainly news happenings, the student publication is saddled with the additional role of being an agenda sheet for campus activities, club meetings, and departmental plans.

Additional burdens are brought on since the Traveler must be partially self supporting. This explains the reason for the myriad of ads seen in each edition. On heavy ad days the staff call it "The Daily Shopper." And it's not far from the truth, but even the ads do the students and other readers a great service by informing them of the half-price sales at the Campus Shop and Saturday's preview at the Uark.

Finally, not only the campus organizations but many Fayetteville civic clubs and almost every denominational group want their activities publicized by the Traveler. This leads into the entangling question: are these events specifically University of Arkansas news? We haven't found the answer yet. We continue to publish as much as possible of this kind of news.

As an embryonic and potentially powerful organ most student newspapers are under the close surveillance of college administrations. However, the Traveler, at least this year, has had a real freedom from news management or pressure by administrative officials. The responsibility is fully on the shoulders of the editor and staff. Thus, whatever you have or have not liked about the Traveler can only be attributed to the people who wrote and edited it. In this sense it is really a student newspaper. But on a campus of 7,000 people, all student views can't be taken by the paper. We have taken editorial stands on the football ticket situation, on the Dead Week plan, on Panhellenic's auditorium proposal, on the AAUP's censorship of the University. Not all of these stands have been in agreement with the majority of the students. Nor have they all been sanctioned by the administration or the faculty. But in the very fact that criticism comes from several areas on several issues lies our conviction that the Traveler is not biased or prejudiced toward one group.

We've worked with a shortage of staff members. They are underpaid, under praised and under rated. Since there are so few of them, they must work twice as long and twice as hard for half the pay they would find doing any other job. Most of the staff writers receive no pay at all. But to them, the Traveler is a kind of personal thing, a part of them because they have put themselves into it. Maybe that's what makes them keep coming. Skip Kays, associate editor, gives the Traveler whatever technical perfection it may achieve. He's a hybrid breed, an English-journalism major, and he's a stickler for spelling and punctuation. Carolyn Ferrill and Marty Thurlby, between them, have kept the inside pages from being garbage. Carolyn can write a good feature on anything. Marty is so efficient it scares you. Ann Graham can write and set a head at the Ludlow with the best of the men in the print shop.

Managing editor Marty Thurlby and associate editor Skip Kays seem to be taking over some weighty problem such as forged ID's or the Panama Crisis. It's a damn sure bet they aren't talking about getting out a newspaper; no one ever does.

jolly good fellows all. Chi Chi got to sit down in front because she has a tendency to fall down when not propped up.

Ronnie Robinson has five galleys of extra sports copy in case he gets caught short. Pam Mitchell and Jack Hill are the only reporters around who can be counted on to write, edit and put a headline on their own stories. Maureen Melbourn faithfully reads the Arkansas Gazette so she won't leave out anything in our news briefs that the Gazette gave top play. Sam Park is crazy. Bill Vowell doesn't say much but he knows a lot about sports. Carl Lumpkin tries to find the most controversial stories he can for "On Other Hills." Bill Pauli wandered in as a reporter and got pushed into doing cartoons. (He does both with equal skill.) Diane Gilliam and Jan Paulk are both too absent minded to do newspaper work, but they're good staff writers. Steve Drazsnzack is a martyr. These are just cryptic statements of the staff's work. No one sentence could characterize any of them, but all together, maybe it will recall the effect of the paper as a whole.

This Traveler, this unformed thing, is really these people. It is their opinions, their product. It is a tabloid size combination of what it must be (ads and what goes on) and what it would like to be (editorials and news stories.) It is the students' newspaper.

Agriculturist

The Arkansas Agriculturist is published quarterly by students in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics to inform students, prospective students, faculty, and alumni of activities in the College. It covers everything from the most intense research studies to student projects.

Circulated throughout the state in high schools and extension offices, the Agriculturist is also designed to attract students to the University by showing them some of the activities of the Agri school. Outstanding students such as the Danforth and 4-H winners, scholarship winners, and students elected to membership in honorary organizations have been featured.

A highlight of the year is the traditional Agri Day issue, which contains the Agri Queen and her court, the winners of ASA keys, and Who's Who in Agri school.

Staff members of the Agriculturist are selected from the student body of the school. The magazine provides valuable experience for agri students interested in journalism.

Unlike many student publications, the staff of the Agriculturist is kept rather small. This is a good thing, both for efficiency and because there's not much room in the Agriculturist's office.

Contributors to the Agriculturist, Becky O'Neal wrote articles and Jan Paulk just contributed.

Arkansas Engineer

The Arkansas Engineer is the official publication of the College of Engineering. It is published quarterly, but only one of the issues is looked forward to by the engineering students. This issue comes out in March about the time St. Pat celebrates his birthday. It contains cheese cake pictures of all the St. Patricia candidates which are usually kept for pin-ups.

The Engineer is devoted mainly to articles of a technical nature, but also contains a joke page to enlighten the minds of the dreary Engineering students. There is, of course, a dean's page and an editorial that sometimes causes some excitement. This year there was also a construction issue with a color picture of the new "Science-Engineering Center".

The magazine is sent to the high schools around the state to promote enrollment in the College of Engineering. This year's editor was Ronnie Dunn, who has since retired from the editing business for reasons unrevealed. Dunn, a Sigma Nu, will be followed by Charles Martin, also a Sigma Nu and past Engine House News Editor; both Dunn and Martin are Theta Taus.

Copy Editor Bill Harrison, "Engine House News" Editor Charles Martin, Copy Editor Ken Moore, and Assistant Ronnie Embry smile because they realize that Editor Dunn is writing a very funny editorial.

The Guild Ticker probably has the largest business staff of many publication on campus, makes one wonder what kind of business they do.

Guild Ticker

The many long years of successful publication are still making history for the Guild Ticker. The editor and his staff combined their talents to produce the only official publication of the business school.

The publication contained articles of interest to all students enrolled in the College of Business Administration. One of the unique features of the book was the section covering the 1964 Commerce Day. This section included all of the Day's activities which were climaxed that evening by the presentation of honors and awards.

The Commerce Queen of 1964, Miss Susan Helmig, was featured in the Ticker along with the other maids.

Who's Who in the College of Business Administration was also announced in the publication, along with pictures of all the seniors in business school.

The Guild editorial staff uses old copies of the publication; they are an infinite source of ideas.

Preview

Preview is the official publication of the College of Arts and Sciences. It is published yearly, and is distributed in the spring just in time to disrupt the study habits of people who are vainly trying to pull their grades through.

The Preview is a project of Lambda Tau, honorary English fraternity. The magazine was originally sponsored by Lambda Tau when it was initiated in 1946; however, for the past several years it has been a general project of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The first issue of Preview was a special issue of the Traveler. Since that time it has expanded into a 60-page publication with a magazine format. It contains short stories, essays, critical reviews, poetry, and art work is issued free of charge to arts and sciences students.

The contents of Preview is composed almost entirely of works of students. During the year competition is held in various departments to find suitable material. Prizes are awarded to the top three entries in art and literature.

Copies of Preview are sent to leading literary critics throughout the United States, and it has been recognized as one of the top magazines of its type in the United States.

Merrilee Streun, Julie Tatum and Carole Lynn Williams members of the Preview English Staff discuss entries submitted by students.

Preview art staff, Bennie Bassham, Jan Halbert, and Ed Cato are responsible for Publication's layout.

Seated around a table in the library of Waterman Hall, members of the Law Review staff discuss a problem like Ace McCord, who was sent as a representative to Nashville meeting.

Law Review

The Arkansas Law Review and Bar Association Journal is published quarterly by the School of Law and the Arkansas Bar Association, acting through a non-profit, benevolent association which was founded for this purpose in 1947.

A copy of the Law Review is sent to every member of the Arkansas Bar Association and every state and territory in the Union. Some copies even go as far as Belgium and Australia.

Members of the editorial staff credit hours toward graduation for work on the Law Review. Each published student article is afforded a fractional credit hour. Students seeking membership on the staff must meet certain grade point requirements and submit one or more articles of acceptable quality.

The articles appearing in the Law Review can be generally classified into three categories: recent decisions, case notes, and comments. The articles are under the supervision of the student editorial board and a faculty advisor.

Woody Harrell and Herb Rule go over proofs of the next issue of the Law Review with advisor.

Student Senate Publications

Bill Stover, Editor
Arkansas A-Book

The A-Book is the official handbook of student information for the University of Arkansas. It is published in the spring and distributed each fall to entering freshmen during the orientation program. The book is also available to any student or faculty member during the year at the student information desk.

The editor is selected by the Board of Publications in conjunction with the student senate. A 2.5 grade point average is required for candidacy for editor. The publication's budget is approximately $1,000 and the editor receives $100.

This year's A-Book, in addition to serving as the handbook of student information, contained other features concerning activities at the University.

Editorship of the Student Directory mainly concerns a mad rush in the fall to tabulate names, addresses, and phone numbers of 7,000 students and getting them in proper form for the printer. The Directory also contains some artwork and a minimum of ads.

The editor is chosen in the spring by the Board of Publications from applications accepted at large from the student body. The main selling point for prospective editors is an early distributing date in the fall.

Board of Publications

In its fourth year under the present organization, the Board of Publications did business as usual; and business was pretty slow as no one was making trouble.

Student Membership of the Board rotates, in an obscure manner, among the presidents of the major campus organizations. Permanent members of the board are the head of the Department of Journalism, the Director of Information, and a Presidential appointee, usually the Dean of Students. The Vice-President of the student body serves as chairman of the board and votes in case of a tie.

Ex-officio membership on the Board is extended to the editors and business managers of the Traveler and Razorback, the editors of the A-Book and the Student Directory, and the business manager of the University.

The Board has the responsibility for seeing that journalistic ethics are adhered to in all publications. This sometimes causes a conflict because the Board's idea does not always coincide with that of the editors of the publications. The Traveler suffers most in this respect, but the conflicts are usually solved with little trouble.

The Board also elects the editors of all campus publications; and, as might be expected, there is a bit of politics involved.

Members of the Board also control the letting of contracts for printing, engraving, and other services. The Board did not censor one publication this year.

Dean Halladay and Razorback Editors Hafenbrak and Kidder check the qualifications of those who have applied for publications positions.

Board of Publications members: Judy Burch, WIHC President; Melinda Meek, AWS President; William Hughes, Director of Information; Jess Covington, Chairman of Journalism Depart-

Army ROTC

In 1873, the Reserve Officers Training Corps was established at the University, and has become part of the daily life of the students since that time. Because the University is a land grant school, some form of military instruction is compulsory for two years. During this time students are introduced to the role of the modern Army and what may be expected of them in the event of a global war.

The freshman receives instruction on the organization of the Army, small bore rifle marksmanship, and the role of the Army in modern warfare. As a sophomore he learns the traditions and history of the U.S. Army. He is also introduced to map reading and tactics.

After the completion of the two year basic course, qualified cadets are offered an opportunity to enter the advanced course in preparation for a commission upon graduation. The cadet is considered on the basis of proven military leadership, past performance as a cadet, overall academic standing, as well as intelligence, character, and aptitude. The final decision rests with a board of officers who interview the cadet.

Once accepted into the advanced program, the cadet receives instruction in tactics, military administration, law, radio communication, and other topics. Advanced students spend six weeks during one summer at a summer camp where they put into practice what they have learned. Twice a week drills are held where all cadets learn military parade and leadership techniques. While in the advanced course cadets are paid $27.90 a month. Upon graduation, they are commissioned 2nd Lt. and incur a two year military obligation.

Pershing Rifles

Company D, 7th Regiment of the Pershing Rifles, is the University's honorary military organization for outstanding cadets in the basic course of ROTC. It is a member of the national society of Pershing Rifles, founded by the famous General John Pershing in 1894.

The purpose of the Rifles is to develop the military precision and drill ability of its members, giving the University a crack drill team which has won many honors in the past. Members are drawn from the ranks of the Freshman and Sophomores who wish to achieve the high proficiency required of a drill team.

The Pershing Rifles have become the showpiece of the Brigade, and represented the University at Eureka Springs during the Folk Festival. In past years, all the members have traveled to New Orleans to participate in the Mardi Gras Parade. They have been cited by the New Orleans mayor for their skill and contribution to the event. During the year they serve as ushers at the football games in Fayetteville and perform at the Military Ball.

The Pershing Rifles elect their own sponsor. This year their choice, Miss Martha Wright, brought a special honor to Company D when she was selected sponsor of the entire 7th Regiment, which includes Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas.

Honorary Cadet Lt. Colonel Martha Wright brought a special honor to the University's Pershing Rifles Company, being selected sponsor for the entire 7th Regiment of the honorary military organization.

Air Force ROTC

The other military instruction program at the University is under the auspices of the Air Force. With an aim similar to that of the Army, the Air Force ROTC trains cadets for a tour as an Air Force officer. Basic cadets can elect to serve in either Air Force or Army ROTC to fulfill their two year obligation to the University.

In AFROTC, first year students learn the principles of flight, the various parts and roles of the modern Air Force, and the history of the Air Force. Sophomores study weapons systems and tactics.

At the end of two years, cadets may apply for admittance to the advanced program. They must complete and pass physical and mental exams, and be approved by a board of officers. As advanced cadets, they have the opportunity to study navigation, military law, weather, and in addition get to make flights with various tactical wings in Arkansas. They attend a four week summer camp at an Air Force base where they are introduced to the modern weapons and methods of the Air Force. Advanced cadets are paid quarterly and receive $85.00 each quarter while they are in the course. Upon graduation, they are commissioned 2nd Lieutenants and incur a four year military obligation.

Scabbard and Blade

The honorary organization for Advanced ROTC cadets of both services is Scabbard and Blade. Made up of 3rd and 4th year military students, Company B of the Regiment has the mission of raising the military standards at the University and to unite the two military departments in a closer relationship, to encourage and foster the essential qualities of efficient officers, and to promote friendship among cadet officers.

Scabbard and Blade inducts its members by an impressive "tapping" ceremony on the drill field. After being chosen, the inductees must go through a trial period, culminated by formal induction into the Society.

The Society meets once a week to discuss problems occurring between the army and air force units, and to suggest improvements in drill procedure. In this way, the best ideas of both groups are available for use.

Army ROTC Cadet Jimmy Jett is tapped as member of Scabbard & Blade.

Ready for the inspection, Don Riner gamely looks back at his inspecting officer on the Air Force drill field, which is also the intramural field.

Alpha Kappa Lambda Colony

... chemistry honor fraternity

Alpha Chi Sigma, a national professional chemistry and chemical engineering fraternity, was founded on this campus in 1928. Students in the field of chemistry are honored by membership, and must have completed three semesters of chemistry, while maintaining a good scholastic average. Members of the college section of the fraternity can become affiliated with the professional branch when they graduate. Among its various activities, Alpha Chi Sigma sponsors an annual treasure hunt and the regional science fair, and supplies tutors in chemistry.

First Row: McKinley, Master Alchemist; Cabbiness, Vice Master Alchemist; Nave, Recorder; Hinshaw, Treasurer; Pedersen, Reporter. Second Row: Koch, Master of Ceremonies; Kennedy, Whittington, Roberts, Myers, Spray.

These members of Alpha Chi Sigma meet to discuss items related to their major fields, chemistry and chemical engineering.

... international pre-med society

Alpha Epsilon Delta, international pre-medical society, was founded on this campus in 1938. Membership in Alpha Epsilon Delta is based primarily on scholarship. The years activities included a tour of the medical center, presenting outstanding guest speakers from the medical field, and presenting the University with a collection of medical texts.

... newest member of greek system

The Alpha Kappa Lambda Colony is the University's newest addition to the Greek system.

AKL is a relatively modern fraternity with its founding in the state of California in 1914. Celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, AKL is now founding new colonies across the United States. Because of its modern corporation structure, there are no restrictions or limitations to AKL's national expansion.

The men of this AKL colony are striving to prove themselves and obtain a charter as an active Alpha Kappa Lambda chapter on this campus.

The Spirit of Christmas hit hard at the Alpha Omega house this year. When the crafty AChi O's heard that those who give shall receive, they cleverly made plans to give a party for underprivileged children. It worked; Santa Claus brought the AChi O's a new house.

Alpha Chi Omega

Being an Alpha Chi meant winning the scholarship trophy for the spring semester, placing third in the Sigma Nu relays, going on a hayride to the fall pledge dance, and, best of all, supervising construction on the new house to be completed next fall.

Wearers of the golden lyre and bringing special honors to Delta Rho chapter were Susan Branigan, AWS President, member of Mortar Board, Phi Beta Kappa, and Who's Who; Trina Laabs, Chairman of the AWS publicity committee; Charlotte Sulcer, Vice-President of SNEA; Nancey Moss, Vice-President of ACE. Lynn Temple and Barbara Riley were elected as President and Vice-President of Alpha Lambda Delta. Serving as senior counselors were Linda Thompson at Fulbright and Judy Crouse at Razorback. Alpha Gamma Rho chose Joyce Russell as their Sweetheart.

Panhellenic Council

Panhellenic Officers: Margaret Robinson, Secretary; Pat Barton, Vice-President; Carolyn K. Adair, President.

Standing as the governing board for all campus sororities is the Panhellenic Council. This council is composed of two representatives, the president and rush chairman, from each sorority. Holding the promotion of inter-sorority relations as one of its main purposes, Panhellenic strives to establish and maintain working rules and regulations. Among other activities, the council gives an annual coke party, held during the spring semester, for all freshmen girls interested in participating in fall rush. All rush procedures must be approved by Panhellenic.

Interfraternity Council

Coordinating the efforts of all fraternities toward making effective rush programs and just policies, the Interfraternity Council serves as the meditation board for the campus fraternities. IFC is composed of the Dean of Men and two representatives, the president and one elected member, from each fraternity. The council enforces the rules of the University while directing all social fraternity functions and maintaining a common goal of combined leadership and scholarship. IFC committees, such as investigation and personnel, govern and direct actions of the council.

Ironical sign brands Sam Park forever as he and Missy Alford cavort at party. Sam is the Senior Class President, whose only job for the year is to arrange to have his name placed at the head of Senior Walk. Don't worry Sam; the workers will spell your name right. Repent Sam!

Carrying on the most successful picket of the year, Acacia pledges warn campus of doomsday before they returned to their well-stocked bomb shelter chapter house. Although the world did not end, the Acacias did get bombed at their yearly "End of the World" party.

Acacia

Acacia Fraternity, a charter member of the National Interfraternity Conference and a leader among Greeks nationally, was founded in 1904 at the University of Michigan. Arkansas chapter was founded in 1951 following an invitation from UofA faculty members. It has been the most rapidly growing fraternity at Arkansas, and is now seventh largest on campus. The new Acacia house, costing over a quarter-million dollars, was finished in 1962.

Socially, Acacia brought a new tradition to the campus scene this year as it converted the house into a bomb shelter for its "End of the World" party. Other events of the year included the hillbilly-theme Sack Dance and the two annual formals.

In campus leadership, Acks continued to excell with officers in Young Democrats and Young Republicans clubs, ABC, Phi Eta Sigma and other campus honoraries, Student Senate, and Engineer Council. Sam Park was Senior Class President, and Jerry McKenney was named to BA Who's Who.

Acacia' mural teams turned in their best record in years, placing second in the football league and holding their own in basketball. With a good showing in the outside sports, the fraternity remained a contender for total point honors.

Doing the cowboy-type dog, couple maneuvers in the crowd at the AGR Rooster dance. If the rumor about banning costume parties Caught in the act of doing nothing, this group of ATO's sit around waiting for something exciting to happen.

Like every other group on campus, Alpha Tau Omega has its guitar plunkers, who sit perched in the rooms and make noise.

Alpha Tau Omega

Starting off the school year with the purchase of the adjoining boarding house, with plans for the future to including razing both houses and constructing a new house on the corner of Arkansas and Maple, the Taus have enjoyed a good year. Interspersed with numerous drop-ins and house parties, the social calendar, including the spring formal, the Yard-and-a-Half Party, and the annual Bicycle Race kept the Taus busy socially.

Ron Elkins was tapped for ODK, as well as becoming a member in Tau Beta Pi and Eta Kappa Nu. Jack Hill served on the Traveler Staff and as Treasurer of the Press Club. Jerry Ott served on the Student Senate Traffic Committee, as well as being a member of Tau Beta Pi, Eta Kappa Nu, Pi Mu Epsilon, Alpha Phi Omega, and the advanced AFROTC.

Square dancing at their Beatnik Party, men of Farmhouse and dates decided that every hep beatnik should dos-a-dos, not "do the dog".

Farmhouse

Farm House fraternity accomplished its basic aim of scholarship this year and gained for its scholastic achievement the Inter-Fraternity Scholarship award, the Phi Beta Kappa cup, and was designated a Summa Cum Laude fraternity by IFC.

In addition to scholastic achievement, a full social calendar rounded out the group's activities with the Borvery Ball, the annual Christmas Dance, Sweetheart Formal, and Spring outing.

Keeping up the tradition of campus leadership, Rex Clark was selected as the outstanding senior in Engineering. Bruce Coleman was elected President of ASA, and Dale Pharr headed the AI Club. Charles Hooks and David Heins were members of the University's rifle team. Charles also was elected Treasurer of Alpha Zeta. Several members were active in ODK, Phi Eta Sigma and Alpha Zeta. In intramural sports, Farm House ranked second in 2AA sweepstakes this year.

Xi Chapter of Kappa Sigma was founded at the University of Arkansas in 1890, the first fraternity to be established on the campus. This year as in years past Kappa Sigma has taken its share of honors. John Fulton was Chairman of the Election Committee. Xi was represented in Omicron Delta Kappa by Henry Thomas, Treasurer; Walls McCrary, and Ray Trail. In Blue Key were Bob Fussell, President; John Fulton, and Bill Hawkins. In Cardinal XX were Kent Spurlock, and Charles McDonald. Jerry Jones, Gary Howard, and Jim Lindsay lettered in football.

Xi's social calendar was again unequaled this year. There were dances after each football game, the Christmas formal, the Toilet Bowl, the Suppressed Desire Party, (this year the Island of Xi Party), the Spring Outing, and numerous drop-ins.

At an unusual exchange dinner, Lambda Chi's took the Zetas on an outing to the University's Agri Park outside of Fayetteville for

In line outside of Doris' place, a rowdy bunch of SAE's celebrate at the February pledge party, which was called the Colt 69 Party.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Starting with an excellent rushing and ending with final examination, the year was an outstanding one for SAE.

SAE was well represented in leadership. Jerry Pinson and Mickey Mayfield served as Secretary and Treasurer of Blue Key. Other members of Blue Key included Jim McKenzie, Phil Rice, Martin Gilbert, Harrison Butler, and Roger Kline. Members of Omicron Delta Kappa included Danny Harrelson, Earle Love, George Shelton, Conrad Berry and Oliver Buckley. Representing SAE in the Student Senate were Paul Ray and J. J. Scroggin. As a result of their outstanding leadership and scholastic achievements, Jerry Pinson and Mickey Mayfield were selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Socially, the Alphas opened the year with a party for their new pledges and sponsored a tea for all sorority pledges. The Christmas season was highlighted by a formal and the annual Red Davis Party for underprivileged children.

Sigma Pi volleyball players take advantage of the warm spring days to romp round in the back yard. The less active Sigma Pi's, like the less active Kappa Sig's, Pikes, etc., are taking advantage of the warm spring weather at Jug Wheelers, a popular local malt shop.

Sigma Pi

Sigma Pi was well represented in campus organizations this year. Playing leading roles were: Herman Ivester in Theta Tau, ODK, AIIE, and the Engineering Council; Charles Chesley in Sigma Pi Sigma, Pi Mu Epsilon, and IFC; Bill Grimes in Arnold Air Society, Alpha Kappa Psi, and Commerce Guild; Jerry Orlor in Commerce Guild, Cardinal Twenty, and the Young Democrats Club; and Buzz Arnold in Theta Tau, IFC, Civic Club, and IEEE.

Representing Sigma Pi in varsity sports were Ronnie Caveness and Billy Ray Wood. In intramural sports Jim Campbell was selected to the all-intramural football team.

Getting way from their studies and athletic activities, Sigma Pi also had a full social schedule. This included the Sinapore Sling, White and Gold Ball, Orchid Formal, and various other excursions.

The Tekes began a new tradition a few years ago with their victory bell at the Razorback games. This year they started a new tradition: a gala social event they call the S.O.B. Party. The idea is for everyone to dress like a favorite South of the Border hero.

This was a big year for the Tekes. It was their second year in their "new" house on Arkansas Avenue and their third year on campus as a national fraternity.

A new social function held for the first time was the S.O.B. party. Held at Lake Wedington Lodge, the members masqueraded as their favorite South of the Border personality. Other social functions included a Founders Day Banquet, Red Carnation Ball, drop-ins, and exchange dinners.

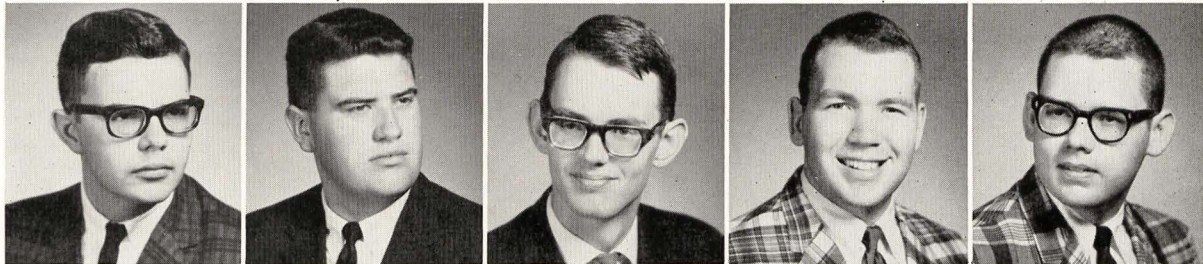

Theta Xi Tekes active in campus activities included Gordon Apple, President of Young Americans for Freedom; John Graves, Phi Alpha Theta; John Leonard, Razorback Speleological Society and Marketing Club; Don Rockey, State Representative for PEM; Alumni Secretary of Alpha Phi Omega, NEA, and MAC Club, Ronnie McKenzie; John Brown, Scabbard and Blade.

First Row: Garrett Gordon Apple, Willis Herrerd Beardall, John Dewayne Brown, Patrick Bryant, John Buecklin.

Only on campus as a national chapter for three years, the Tekes are a very active and successful group. They are also skilled card players.

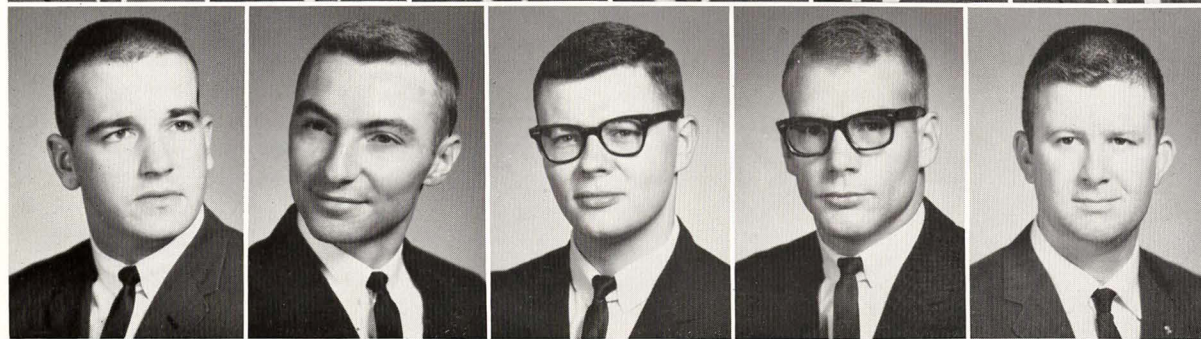

First Row: Farouk Ahmed Bajour, John William Beall, Terry Robert Bean, Ansel Lynn Condray, Webster Taylor Cotten, Joe Robert Dyer.

The clock on the desk says it's time to hit the sack, but work goes on. Sometimes 1:10 am is still early.

Exploding the myth that engineers don't have time for anything except their studies, twelve Theta Tau's help each other keep track of what is trumps. By remaining intact after the wild ordeal of Engineers' Week, Theta Tau house is a sort of engineering marvel.

Theta Tau

Although Theta Tau is primarily concerned with scholastic achievements, its social calendar is not lacking. Early in the year, the Founders Day Banquet was held, followed by the fall and spring outings and the St. Patricia Banquet. On April 7 an all day celebration in honor of the thirty-sixth anniversary of the founding of Theta Tau at the University of Arkansas was held climaxed by a banquet that night. Upsilon Chapter also was host to the Southern Regional Conference held in early March.

Along with an outstanding scholastic record, members of Theta Tau continued to show leadership ability in many phases of campus life and were especially outstanding in the various engineering organizations. Members belonged to such organizations as ODK, Blue Key, and Who's Who in American College and Universities.

Loading the car to go home for the Easter holidays, the girls are trying to take home all their winter clothes. This was a mistake.

Naturally the Fayetteville weather remained cold after the break; everyone who took home their winter clothes froze for two weeks.

Carnall Hall

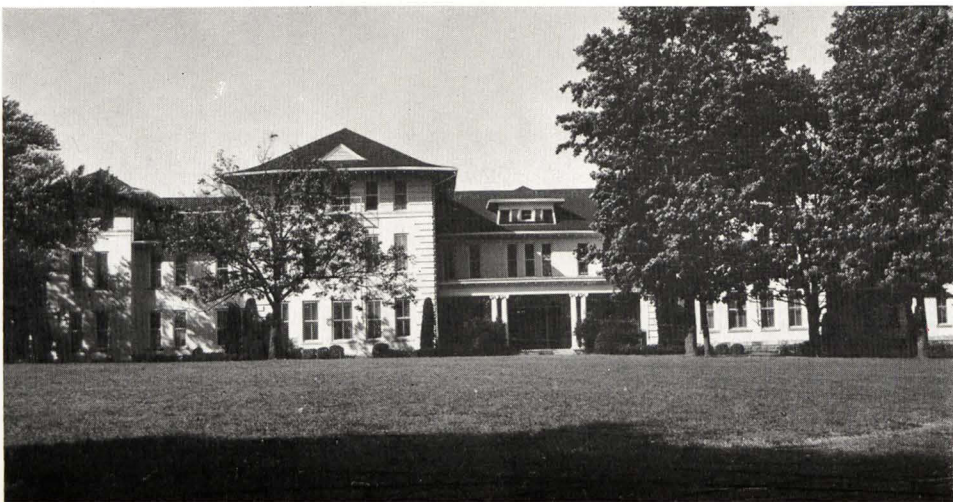

The residents of Carnall Hall experienced an outstanding year filled with various social activities and participation in many campus organizations.

Leadership was shown by Janna Tull who was elected historian of Mortar Board and Vice-President of Arkansas Methodist Student Movement, she was chosen to be a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and selected as WIHC Outstanding Senior Woman. Nonnie Sanders participated in University play productions, Romona Roe was on the Arkansas Traveler staff, Meri Nakamura served as Secretary-Treasurer of WIHC and Secretary of Chi Theta, Marsha Hudlow presided as Vice-President of WIHC, Roberta Harker was President of National Merit Scholarship organization, Frances Cherry was Secretary of Alpha Lambda Delta and Judy Birch was President of WIHC and served on the Board of Publications.

Under the able guidance of Ann Vickers, President, the girls at Carnall carried on a full and successful social season highlighted by a dinner-dance with a "Winter Wonderland" theme and the much anticipated spring formal. Also, many other incidental parties such as birthday dinners, teas, and open houses were held.

Tired and somewhat disillusioned after a hectic day of moving into Fulbright, the girls sit and wonder what to do with all their belongings. Soon they will be sitting and wondering about things like bars on the windows, date call, the walk to class, and tests.

Fulbright Hall

Fulbright Hall with her four hundred freshman residents is still as always maintaining a high rating in all aspects of campus activities. Fulbright took third place trophy in Singphony competition, Jackie Jones was Homecoming Queen, Janice Funk was selected as a Razorback beauty, and fifteen members of Chimes came from Fulbright. Residents were also active in WIHC, Civic Club, ABC, PEM, Young Democrats and Young Republicans, and WRA.

The social Calendar was filled was drop-ins, a Christmas dinner for the faculty and a spring formal.

The evening meal in women's residences is a nice affair with nice manners and such. Not pictured are the kitchen boys, who in addition to serving the meal, entertain the girls with food fights in the kitchen, "Elephant" jokes, and a bit of friendly flirtation.

Futrall Hall

Futrall Hall, being only two years old, has by no means slighted her residents in the various areas of campus activities. Learning to work together served as an important lesson for these upperclass women. All residents experienced a well-rounded year on campus.

The social calendar was set on its way with many Christmas activities, including a tree trimming party for the faculty, a party for underprivileged children, and a party for the Senior Citizen Club. Among other social activities were discussion dinners, etiquette classes given by Miss Cole, head resident, drop-ins, dorm relays, open houses, and teas. Climaxing the social year was the spring formal. Interest was further shown in WIHC, WRA, and ABC.

Futrall Hall is named for Mrs. Annie D. Futrall. As the wife of University President Dr. John C. Futrall, half a century ago, Mrs. Futrall acted as hostess at university functions for twenty-six years — the longest such period of service in the University's history.

Holcombe Hall

Freshman women entered Holcombe Hall this year, and for the first time in quite a while the hall is under freshman leadership.

After the frantic excitement of moving in, the girls settled down to a hard year's work. They have succeeded in highlighting the campus socially and academically through cooperation.

Under the supervision of capable officers, the hall rounded off the social calendar with guest dinners, open houses, a Christmas party for underprivileged children, and a spring formal. The residents of Holcombe have also played an active part in WRA by winning the bowling tournament, and have participated in WIHC and ABC. Holcombe is also proud of her individual honors, including members of Chimes and Alpha Lambda Delta.

4-H House

The residents of 4-H House enjoyed a full social and academic schedule this year. Linda Weir served as president of AHEA and member of WRA and AWS executive boards, Pat Cole was treasurer of AHEA, publicity director of ASA, Mabel Rogers was reporter of Phi Upsilon Omicron and associate editor of the Agriculturalist, Irene Raper was a member of AWS and WIHC executive boards, and Judy Taylor was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Social activities of the house for the year included a Get Acquainted party in September, a buffet in October, a Christmas Faculty tea, a dinner-date party in February, exchange desserts, and a spring outing.

An orphan, Razorback Hall is situated in the midst of the skyscraper men's housing complex. One of the orphan residents is watching TV before going to dinner at Brough Commons, whose cafeteria facilities are graciously shared by the men of Yocum and Humphreys.

Razorback Hall

Razorback Hall experienced quite a change this year, housing upperclass women. Though the present residents were used to more feminine surroundings, they overcame the handicap quite well through cooperation and uniting their efforts. As a result Razorback was well represented on campus with many individual honors.

Cheryl Turner was named ROTC sponsor, Patsy McCoy was WIHC senator, Gail Bigge was chosen Playmate of Lambda Chi Alpha and selected a Razorback Beauty for 1963-1964. Under the direction of Judy Safely, Razorback won fourth place in Singphony this year. Residents were also active in basketball, tennis, volleyball, and intramural bowling. Further interest was shown in ABC, WIHC, PEM, and Young Democrats and Young Republicans.

The social season was highlighted with open houses, drop-ins, guest dinners, and teas. This has been a year of participation in campus activities, as well as one of adjustment and reorganization.

Appearing from behind a sculptured wall, students enter Humphreys Hall — an enormous, modern campus landmark housing freshmen men.

Humphreys Hall

Humphreys Hall, under the leadership of Arthur Hornick, has maintained a high standing on campus with a year of hard work and cooperation of all residents.

The men of Humphreys have participated actively in ABC, MIHC, ODK, Blue Key, Cardinal XX, Phi Eta Sigma, and are boastful of Jerry Cooper, Business Manager of the Traveler and are proud of the Humphreys Freshman Senate. Residents were also active in Young Democrats and Young Republicans, various professional organizations, and church groups.

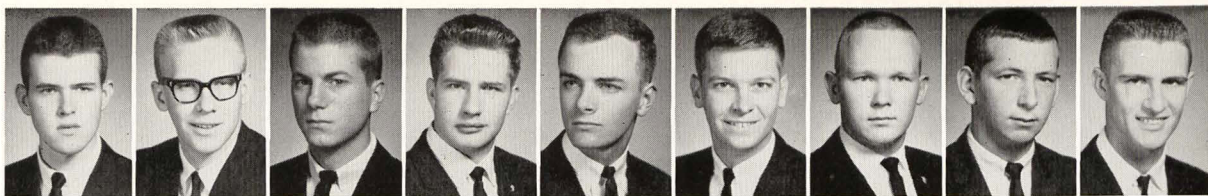

The social whirl was by no means overlooked. Humphreys was host to faculty teas, drop-ins, open houses, a Christmas party for underprivileged children, a spring formal, and a spring outing.

Buchanan House

Droke House

The residents of Droke House have had a highlighted year due to their active part in intramurals and their fall social calendar. The house fielded a strong team in areas of softball, football, and basketball, and held numerous parties. Among these were a Christmas party for the under-privileged children of Fayetteville and a faculty exchange dinner.

Droke also took an active part in ABC, Civic Club, and MIHC. With all the interest shown in campus activities, the men of Droke House have spent a successful year full of achievement and fun.

Gladson House

Still maintaining their active part on the University of Arkansas campus are the upperclass residents of Gladson House. The 1963-1964 school year was filled with participation in many of the campus organizations and various social activities.

Besides being active in intramural sports, the men of Gladson House were represented in the Civic Club, ABC, MIHC, the Accounting Association, various professional fraternities, and several church organizations.

Social activities for the year included an outing at Lake Weddington, an exchange dinner, and many informal parties.

The men of Ripley House enjoyed a very active school year. Residents were represented in such campus organizations, as ABC, Civic Club, Circle K, various professional and honorary fraternities, and church organizations. Intramural sports were by no means neglected. Ripley has maintained an enviable record in this area.

Ripley also participated in a wide range of social activities which included a dinner in the fall, and all the social functions sponsored by MIHC.

Adding to Ripley's accomplishments is Jim Moore who was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Ripley House

Impressive battery of vending machines dispenses a variety of things — sometimes. Sometimes these sophisticated dime stealers don't dispense anything. However, one good thing that can be said for them is that there is no delivery charge.

Gregson Hall

Gregson Hall is composed of two houses, William and Sedgwell, both housing upperclassmen.

William House with its one hundred residents took an active interest in the intramural sports program and various other social and service groups on campus. The social calendar was filled with exchange dinners, a student faculty dinner, dances, drop-ins, and MIHC social functions.

The residents of Sedgwell House are also proud of their accomplishments for this year. Their high grade point gave them a good academic standing and their memberships in $\text{TB}\Phi$, ΦME , $\Pi\Sigma$, $\Theta\Gamma$, and $\Delta\Gamma$ gave them further recognition. The social calendar was filled with homecoming decorations, coaster classic entry, a spring outing, and an open house on Dad's Day.

Individual leadership was shown by Kent Gordon, member of ΦBK ; and Skip Hays, associate editor of the Traveler.

Wilson Sharp

Wilson Sharp houses over one hundred ten varsity and freshman athletes. Included in this house of champions are many All-Southwest Conference athletes and other players who have brought recognition to the university.

With its new addition this year, Wilson Sharp has definitely held its place in the University's social whirl. Not only were there drop-ins after home games, but also a Christmas Dance and the dedication of Darby Hall and the Recreation Room. The football team's fall calendar was filled with a banquet and skit given by each sorority house.

Study areas in the new men's housing are carefully designed to give the most efficient study and living room possible.

Yocum Hall

Yocum Hall, the newest completed addition to our campus, is a ten story "monster" of concrete and steel. Built at a cost of approximately two million dollars. It is named after Judge Henry S. Yocum of El Dorado, a long time member of the Board of Trustees. Having a capacity of five hundred and fifty men including nine counselors, residents were well represented on campus with a freshman senator and members in ABC, Civic Club, Circle K, and various professional organizations.

Their social calendar was filled with a very successful Christmas party, numerous drop-ins, and several weekend dances, being climaxed by their Spring Formal. All in all, the first year was a good year for the men of Yocum Hall.

Lion Oil Company—a member of the huge Monsanto Chemical family—derives strength from a complex of research laboratories, oil fields here and abroad, 'round-the-clock refineries and chemical plants, 3500 people.

These people and these physical resources are dedicated to bettering our products and markets—and to the discovery of new ones.

Look to Lion—major producer of gasolines, lubricants, asphalts, and more than 150 other petroleum products for industry and agriculture.

Times have changed...

... the "new image" of Arkansas is dramatically unfolding. With this heartening reappraisal of Arkansas as an attraction for new businesses and industries there follows an unprecedented opportunity for graduates to pursue careers in Arkansas and share in its promising future. ■ First Pyramid Life has, for a third of a century, demonstrated faith in our state through its investment program and urges graduates to consider the ever-expanding potentialities of careers in a growing Arkansas.

We at Potlatch are learning, too!

Today's graduates represent a new generation of customers for wood and wood products. We at Potlatch realize that you will never be satisfied with some of the products of the past. You will demand exciting new products. We intend to provide them!

Our research departments are working overtime. Our entire organization — from craftsmen in our mills to salesmen in the field — are working hard to develop many wonderful new wood products for you. We want your generation, like generations past, to say: "Look to Potlatch for EVERYTHING in lumber."

our most important asset

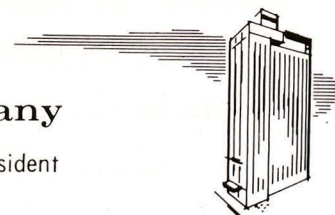

Union Life—Arkansas' oldest legal reserve company—is expanding rapidly through its 18-state territory with a diversified team embracing ordinary life, combination, group and credit life departments. And in its home state of Arkansas, Union Life is happy to provide more insurance services to more Arkansas people, than any other Arkansas company.

Your Alumni Association is on the Move

And We Want YOU In On It, Too.

There is a new excitement among graduates and former students of the university — an excitement over the realization that their years in college have formed the basis for current and future successes and growing opportunities.

Gratefully more and more Alumni are joining as active members in support of the programs of the Association. Scholarships, Outstanding Faculty Awards, Library Purchases, and Departmental Grants are among the projects now existing.

But much more is needed. The vital functions of a University, those functions not supported by taxes, must be provided for you and those to come. And more and more Alumni — not only here, but in all universities and colleges across the nation — are being called upon to help make a great university greater.

Following graduation all seniors are given a year's free active membership in the Association. When you have graduated will you please seek, or better still, demand to know what you might do for your University through

It's over, it's over, it's over, hurrah! Every year the editor says that no one can understand what goes into putting out a yearbook. We can agree it's something you only do once and it may be a good thing that you can't know what it takes or there wouldn't be anyone brave enough to volunteer each year. There was the fun, the nice people, the not so nice people, the work, but most of all there is that feeling that "it" is always there unfinished. Now that the "it" is finished, I can look back and say I was lucky because most of the people were more than nice.

Doug called Kidder indolent and he couldn't have been more wrong. True, he has his ups and downs; but when he got up, he got things done. Bill was our public relations man. He did all of the foot work and being nice to people, especially our staff. I screamed at them and insulted them periodically but most of them knew to ignore me. During the first semester, while we were still trying to find an answer to why we ran in the first place for this job, Bill and I worked together getting things organized and let Johnny Woodruff teach us what made a yearbook and that was good pictures. Then the second semester we split up and I worked with the staff on the routine copy while Bill rounded up the remaining pictures and took over the parts that a girl knew nothing about. Kidder slaved over cut lines in his spare time and wrote the features section.

I have worked on two previous books and know there was never a staff to compare with the one we had. First, came Johnny Woodruff who gave us the idea for our opening section and was our support through the black days when we had nine hundred pictures to be taken. Johnny knew the meaning of deadlines and stayed with us night and day to meet these deadlines. Semester came and John graduated and left us with a few events that hadn't happened to be taken. For this lovely chore we discovered Bill Riner. Bill was okay as a photographer but it took awhile for him to understand that when we assigned a picture, we wanted it yesterday and not two weeks from tomorrow. But without Riner we would have never made it.

Every section has its own unique headaches and each section editor had to face these with us. They were great workers and finally each section was written and typed a dozen times until it fit and was sent to press. Karen had to be told only once what was needed and the next time I saw her she had the information ready to go. Wish there were more like her! So did Bill! Norvell, bless her heart, really slaved over her section — it took her awhile to adjust to the confusion of the office and everyone doing ten things at once. Now that she knows how, she wants to do it again. Ronnie Robinson did two signatures of sports single handed — thanks Ron. Mickey dropped in a few times to bless us with his charm, but then he brought us Nan. Missy Alford picked up the pieces of the administration section that was started by Bettie Wilson and worked hard to get it finished. Janice and Chi Chi did what had to be done on the beauties. Chi Chi also had a few of the unique headaches to face along with Kidder and I. Wasn't that fun Chi Chi — bet she doesn't want to do her section again. Classes and dorms represent the "black days," Sam Yager can understand this. Once he lived through it he wasn't around much, but who could blame him. There were 9,024 cards to be alphabetized and filled. Then just as we had that done there were 9,024 pictures to be put in that file. This took innumerable hours of work for which I want to thank many Sigma Nu and Zeta pledges who got out of study hall to help and good ole Jerry Don who didn't have much choice. There were several girls that came up faithfully and worked for hours without saying a word and I can't remember their names to say thanks. If your picture is wrong or we called you by the wrong name, come up to the office some day when you have three for four hours and we will explain how it may have happened. Without a typist a yearbook would never get to press, this credit goes to Nancy Voyles, Sharon McDonald and Pat Weed. Now I'm down to Nan and Jame-O. Without Nan I'm positive the organization section would have never made it. She was always ready to help with anything that needed to be done and has learned a lot that will show up in a good book next year. Kidder thinks there is no one like Jim Williams and I have to agree. (Thank goodness.) In all seriousness Jame-O has been a tremendous help to us both. Jame-O was here everyday on my day shift and stayed with Bill many nights into the wee hours. Sometimes he did a lot of wing fluttering and just made noise, but we really know how much time and work he put in. Not once have I heard him complain about it being too early or too late to work and really mean it. He has stayed with us like it was his book, and now that the next one will be his I'm sure it will be one of the best ones to come out.

Our association with Southwestern Engraving Company has been nothing but pleasant from the time we went over to start planning the 64 book. Gene McRae is more help than anyone could hope for and we call her for an answer to any problem that arises. I hope we have put a book together that deserves all the time and effort she put in for us. I'll let Bill express our gratitude to Mr. Walker and Mr. Hurley.

Much to my surprise Kidder and I are still speaking to each other and like he told Nan and Jim you better get used to looking at each other. There were good days and bad days, but always the funny little notes or telegrams to make me appreciate His Royal Majesty. So you see it has been a good year for me, but I'm glad to say it's over.

The Book Is Finished . . .

So Am I

By Bill Kidder

(Read the following knowing that I wrote this commentary primarily for those who know me and might be interested in the behind-the-scenes outlook. Also, know that I have delayed writing this final work until the last possible moment—in fact, past the last possible moment. This will explain the rambling.)

The editor's page is a dangerous luxury. While it provides the editor a chance to say some of the important things that don't belong (or don't fit) into the rest of the book, it becomes a permanent statement of his personal philosophy. So here goes; as mentioned on the Razorback page, things will get loose!

First, to those who have asked me "was it worth it", the answer is "it was!" One year of my school life was devoted to producing this yearbook. Opportunity costs were very high for both Kay and me. Grade points, our parents' money, and our other interests all suffered from lack of attention. But—without reservation—it was worth it. In fact, I can't understand past editors' bitterness on these pages.

This book takes you over. It dominates your life. Not only does it monopolize an editor's time, it also dominates his conversation, his vacations, and his interests. No editor edits the book; it edits him. The responsibility of $50,000 worth of state business is overwhelming—school work simply goes to hell.

Although we lacked experience, Kay and I had an ideal. And whatever we lacked in experience, we made up in self-confidence and just plain bluff. We wanted the best yearbook yet—and that takes doing! Before seriously criticizing any U of A Razorback, look at yearbooks from other schools. The Razorback is a students' yearbook—not a dead glob of lifeless pictures with obvious captions.

Speaking of captions (and inexperience), I didn't even know that every caption must be a certain length. Every line of a picture description must be the exact same length—no exceptions! It drives you nuts—notwithstanding the thirty minutes per caption writing time. Anyhow, now we all know.

This a good time to explain briefly some of the changes in the book. By dividing the book into four major sections, we planned to group the various chapters logically. The four color pictures mark these major divisions. In the future I doubt that these four major divisions will be continued, but the basic grouping will remain. Although somewhat lost this year, readers will be able to locate a particular section easier in the future. We moved the features section (The Year) from the first to the middle of the book in order to make the annual more readable throughout. Also, this places the highlights of the year (features, beauties, personalities, etc.) together in one group. We eliminated Gaebale from the book so that the students could receive their annual before the end of school. Gaebale is not worth a late book.

Thinking that personality as well as beauty should be apparent in a beauty section, we changed this section to show the girls in a campus environment instead of only a photography studio glamor girl.

The other major change is the organization section, where we tried to show activities of the clubs. Also, we think that the overall layout is much more logical. Of course there are other changes, but these are the major ones.

The cover design was by Kay and me. Knowing that we couldn't use white twice in a row, we chose black (we didn't want red). We added white for contrast and a gold metal seal for class; then Williams took over with the modern lettering. That's that.

Before continuing, I want to thank the many people who have helped me—other than the staff. Joe Dickey Powers (long gone, graduated, married, a father and all that sort of stuff) picked me up when I was a disillusioned, lost freshman with a complex administered by the browbeaters of Fort Smith Senior High (who value individuality on the same scale as the Black Plague.) Joe built a fire under me and placed me in the middle of things. Thanks Joe for the new start.

Mr. R. C. Walker and Miss Gene McRae of Southwestern Engraving Company in Tulsa rate the biggest thank you. Mr. Walker, one of the nation's foremost engravers, must surely regard the Razorback as his pet—although he does the OU Sooner and other Big Eight school yearbooks. The four color pictures in this year's annual are due to Mr. Walker's generosity; certainly not because we could afford them! Gene McRae took our ideas and turned them into the layout of the book. Always ready with long distance advice, Gene is the reason Razorbacks enjoy an excellent national standing. Thanks a million!

Mr. Wallace Hurley and his right-hand man, Mr. Tom Walker, also are due many thanks from the Razorback. This year they laid everything aside to do a number one job for us. Thanks to Mr. Hurley and all his staff in Camden.

I want to give a left-handed thank you to last year's editor, Doug Smith. Doug enjoyed calling me a miserable, uncreative Business Administration major who could only add a column of figures in an accounting class. If nothing else, Doug, I proved in my own eyes that you were wrong. Doug—a die-hard Democrat—will probably end up on welfare. That's justice . . .

I have thanked most of the Razorback staff on their page in the book proper, but I do want to say this. Like the Traveler, the Razorback is a cause—not a job or an "extra-curricular activity." The students who give up their afternoons for $20-$40 obviously aren't in it for the money. It is a way to give some of themselves to others. I remember laughing at Dr. Hay in management class when he lectured that the "profit motive" was secondary to the "service motive"; he may not always be right, but what he said certainly makes sense when applied to things like the Razorback and the Traveler.

One of our goals was to enlarge the staff from previous years. And we did; we are leaving behind us the best prepared, most-qualified group in years. Maybe putting out a yearbook won't kill them.

The photographers—the unsung heroes—make or break a yearbook. A philosopher as well as a photographer, Johnny Woodruff, is a wonderful person and a magnificent talent. Johnny sees the beauty in the world and can capture it in pictures. Bill Riner, although a very good photographer and often inspired, seems too ordinary in comparison to Johnny. Bill was one of the gang; from liking to holler, drink, and put off work, Bill was just another guy. But thanks to both—who really made the book.

The Board of Publications, our overseer, pulled a new trick this year. It decided that all proofs from the printer should go to Dean Halladay for inspection. Although it bordered on censorship, it wasn't. For better or worse, the book was printed the way Kay and I sent it to the printer. I do not think that the Razorback would have been censored. I do know that if it had been, I (with Kay, Williams, the Razorback, the Traveler staff, everybody) would have walked off the job. Free press is a reality at the University of Arkansas. But like all other power and authority, our free press has its corresponding responsibility which must be met by the students who command this power. The term self-censorship is an insult, but responsibility is a compliment.

This is a good point of departure from the topic of Razorback business to campus affairs. Students are in a mood for more freedom, more power. The question is however: can students actually manage their affairs maturely? If IFC can unite and forcefully administer its own affairs, then maybe the Greek system can survive and be free from deans' policing. If AWS can unite and forcefully update women's regulations, then maybe the U of A's social rules will become twentieth century. And if (all of the sudden) the campus would be opened to any speakers who wanted to try to draw a crowd, then maybe something of an academic atmosphere might materialize. We can't change the world overnight, but we can begin to change it. The University belongs to the students—if they can handle it . . .

This is for kicks. Will some wealthy man please come to Fayetteville and build a new movie theater? Who says monopoly doesn't exist in free enterprise?

There are many more things that might be said, but there is not time or space (which is just as well). Read back over the book and look between the lines—maybe there is something there.

One final good-bye to Hill Hall, with its steep stairs and out-of-order coke machine. Hill Hall is the static center of the world—no radio can work within this fire trap. But it is home.

Even as I have been writing this, Jim Williams (the new editor) is cleaning out the office and re-arranging the desks. And Kay and I aren't even dead and buried yet.

I will leave it with you. And the next time I come to college, remind me to just go to school . . .
